Country's First Election

Copters, Camels Nigerian Campaign Weapons

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters) —Nigeria's first federal election campaign — fought with sky-writing planes, helicopters and camel-back orators—ended Friday night as this West African country prepared to elect a government today.

More than 9,000,000 voters—men only in the largely Moslem north—will elect 312 representatives to the new federal Parliament.

Thousands of special police were posted throughout the area to help regular police and troops maintain order during the voting. Four persons already have been reported killed and many injured in campaign violence that included shooting arrows at one political entourage.

Definite results are not expected before Monday or Tuesday.

The new government will guide Nigeria to independence within the Commonwealth in October, 1960.

The Action Group, leading party in the western region, gave the country its most spectacular election campaign.

Its leader, Chief Awolowo, premier of the western region, toured most parts of the rugged country in a helicopter—the first ever seen by the vast majority of his audiences.

The group also hired a sky-writing plane to implant its initials in the sky over Lagos.

Three men have fought to become the first prime minister of independent Nigeria.

Alhaji Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, present federal prime minister, is deputy leader of the Northern People's Congress, governing power in northern Nigeria.

The party advocates permanent alignment with the Western democracies and membership of the Commonwealth and opposes the emancipation of women.

Memory of Son Haunts Presentation Ceremony

It was a tearful ceremony at Thunderbird Park yesterday when Kwakiutl Chief Mungo Martin turned over his family masks and ceremonial equipment to the provincial museum. Collection was to have gone to his only son, David, drowned in a fishing accident in September. Mungo's grand-daughter, Helen Hunt, weeps as Chief Mungo told how with the collection around "we could not forget our son." Education Minister Leslie Peterson, right, receives the collection. SHARP EARTHQUAKE ROCKS CITY HOMES

Tremor Centre In San Juan

All police stations in the Greater Victoria area were flooded with telephone calls when an earthquake centred in the San Juan Islands shook a wide section of lower British Columbia and Washington state last night.

It was not believed to have been heavy enough to cause much damage—but the jolt was impressive to thousands of Greater Victorians.

The shock was felt here about 10.25 p.m. and was accompanied by three minor tremors.

W. G. Milne, seismologist at Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, said the earthquake originated about 18 miles east of Victoria, about the same place where a series of minor earthquakes of about the same intensity were recorded in February, 1952.

Last night's quake, which was preceded by one tremor and followed by another and still another about 15 minutes later, registered a magnitude of between three and four on the Richter scale, which is calibrated to 8½—point at which mountains begin toppling. Last summer's disastrous earthquake in Montana registered only seven on the same scale.

Most serious damage reported on lower Vancouver Island was near Cowichan Bay where a wall of mud shuddered loose from a hillside and slid across the Old Island Highway.

Old Highway Buried

RMCP called out a department of highways work crew from Duncan to clear the road which was buried for a short distance under several feet of mud, rocks and saplings.

The Daily Colonist was deluged with telephone calls from as far away as Duncan, Mill Bay, Sidney and Langford, as well as from local residents.

A woman on Heywood Avenue said she "thought it was a train or a blizzard" until she realized there was no railroad nearby and no storm outside.

Another woman, in the Gorge area, thought her furnace had blown up. Her husband reported that the "whole house shook."

A man on Howroyd, just off Shelbourne, said "there was a roar, then the house started to rock like it was on a cradle. Then, I saw a lot of other people looking out their windows and I thought it must have been a 'quake."

A Mill Bay resident said he felt several "sharp" shakes over a duration of about five seconds. The Cobble Hill telephone switchboard was "swamped with calls."

'Came Like Explosion'

Dishes rattled at a home in Langford, an ornament tottered on a coffee table at a home in the 1021 block McBriar Avenue, and it "came like an explosion" at Patricia Bay Airport.

A resident on Richardson Street said he felt two tremors spaced half a minute apart, while a man living on Atkins Road near Parson's Bridge reported three tremors "a few minutes apart" and with the "first one quite strong."

"It was like an explosion and then a long rumble," said Cmdr. E. A. Jamieson, of Telegraph Road. "There was a bang, just like a real explosion. It shook the house." He said his home is on top of a sedimentary ridge and that he couldn't understand why it was so sharp because the house was not built on solid rock.

"First there was a roar, and I wondered what on earth are those planes doing," said Mrs. Rita Cummings of 916 Grilse Lane in Brentwood. "Then the noise got louder, and the house began to shake."

A woman whose home is on top of a cliff opposite Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney was afraid the cliff was collapsing. She woke up and heard two loud noises, then reverberations from the water. She called the Colonist for reassurance and then went back to bed.

Issue Vital

Keep Space Free Canada Tells UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada called Friday night for universal acceptance of the principle that no country has jurisdiction over any part of space "or any celestial body."

Wallace B. Nesbitt, vice-chairman of the Canadian delegation, urged United Nations action in this matter when pledging that Canada will dedicate itself to the work of a new UN committee on outer space.

He was speaking in the assembly's political committee on a resolution, worked out by the United States and the Soviet Union, creating the committee, which has 24 members including Canada.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said more than two years ago that the passage of time should not be allowed to bring to the problem of outer space the complications that failure to reach agreement on nuclear weapons has brought that problem.

Nesbitt reflected this view when he declared:

"We are convinced that every effort should be made to avoid, with respect to outer space, the difficulties which have arisen with respect to nuclear weapons through the failure to develop at an early enough stage international agreements for control and use."

Sputnik Data No Secret

MONTREAL (CP) — The United States had at its hands, without knowing it, information about Russia's Sputnik four months before it was fired into space.

Dr. Burton W. Adkinson said details of the Sputnik plan were published in Russian scientific journals but no one had bothered to translate them.

Cheques Mean Happiness

'Pay to the Order Of...'

The cheques read "Pay to the order of ....., $23.64," and suddenly it was a merry Christmas after all.

It was three days before Christmas, 1958, and cheques like this one arrived at the homes of 500 needy families in the Greater Victoria area, a present from The Daily Colonist 500 Fund.

What did they mean to those families? The money meant different things to different people, but above all it meant a chance to make Christmas something extra special as it is in luckier homes.

BETTER TIMES

The cheques were cashed, and people without money for Christmas could step out in the crowds of Christmas shoppers and do something besides window shop and daydream of better times.

For some, the money bought turkeys and the trimmings to make Christmas dinner their best meal in months.

For others, it meant a chance to buy gifts for children who might not get any otherwise. Still others bought badly-needed clothes for themselves or their children.

EXTRA CASH

That is the purpose of the 500 Fund—to give needy families a little extra money at Christmas, to be spent as they themselves please. The thank-you notes that have poured in after Christmas for the past three years are proof that the idea is a worthwhile and a workable one.

To date a total of $4,809 has been raised for this year's fund, which closes Dec. 19. Donations may be left at either Colonist office, 2631 Douglas Street or 1215 Broad Street, or sent to "The 500 Fund, 2631 Douglas Street, Victoria."

CHANCE TONIGHT

Hockey fans get their chance to donate tonight at Memorial Arena, when a collection will be taken by Colonist sub-managers during the Western Hockey League game between Seattle Totems and Victoria Cougars.

From Balloon

Chutist Dives 12 Miles Up

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — Capt. Joe Kittinger took another high dive from the edge of space Friday, jumping more than 12 miles from a balloon gondola to the desert floor.

Unlike his 14½-mile jump Nov. 16, a small parachute opened on schedule to prevent Kittinger from spinning around on his back—the way he made most of his first long parachute jump.

"It's a little more difficult when you're spinning on your back," the 31-year-old redhead said. "This jump was more enjoyable."

What did he think about during the approximately 10 miles of nearly free fall?

"Even though I was stabilized this time, I had quite a bit to do. I had a slight rotation to the left and had to keep working my feet to overcome it."

Washington Pass Opened

SEATTLE (AP) — The Snoqualmie Pass highway, Washington's main east-west route, was opened to through traffic Friday for the first time in 19 days.

Only Few Remember

Abdication Anniversary

Ex-King Potters Around Store

LONDON (AP)—The grey-haired man who once was king of England pottered around a London store almost unnoticed Friday.

Only a few of the thousands of shoppers jostling through fashionable Harrod's store recognized the Duke of Windsor.

Fewer still remembered that it was just 23 years ago Friday night that he told the nation:

"I have found it impossible to carry the heavy burden of responsibility and discharge my duties as king as I would wish without the support and help of the woman I love."

These words sent King Edward VIII to exile from a country that refused to accept an American divorcee, Mrs. Wallis Simpson, as its queen.

Since then the Windsors have flitted back and forth amid the international high life of Paris, New York, Rome —almost anywhere but London.

Early Friday they arrived here unobtrusively aboard the Paris-to-London express on one of their infrequent visits to England.

DUKE OF WINDSOR

As soon as the stores opened the duchess headed for the fashion salons of Bond Street.

The duke spent an hour with the tailors he has patronized since 1923, taking some fittings for seven lounge suits and two tuxedos he ordered five months ago.

"The duke," said one member of the tailoring firm, "is very fond of quiet checks —nothing loud, of course."

Having satisfied himself on the quiet checks, the duke headed for Harrod's—a fashionable store where his niece, Queen Elizabeth, likes to go shopping.

"I have to get about 50 presents," the duke told a reporter, "for our friends and staff in Paris."

He tried on three ties from the $3 tray. He bought a yellow windbreaker and made a few buys in the food department.

"A very good shopping spree," he murmured on leaving.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE hot water tank at my house has been rumbling and knocking for a long time—clearing its throat, apparently, for an announcement.

Last night the tank finally did what it had been gathering courage to do, all that time. It sprang a leak.

My wife telephoned me at work, in the tearful tone that she reserves for domestic crises, and informed me that water from the bathroom was dripping into the kitchen below.

"What shall I do?" she wailed.

"Call a plumber," I said. "What else can you do?"

"He'll have to turn the water off, and the stove," she said. "And there's no wood for the fireplace."

"I'm 10 miles away, trying to do my work," I said. "Sorry I can't help."

"I won't be able to cook any food," she said.

"Get cold food, then," I urged.

"There's no food in the house," she pointed out.

"Charge some at the store," I suggested.

"I don't want to," she said. "Oh! You leave me without food or water."

"Sorry," I said. "But I didn't know the hot water tank was going to break down. And I can't do anything about it from here."

* * *

Then she reminded me that I had promised to come home early to drive her into town.

"Sorry, I forgot," I said.

"The water is dripping down in four or five places now," she cried. "What plumber shall I get?"

"Any plumber," I said. "Just phone one, and let me get on with what I'm doing."

Later I learned on the telephone that a friend down the road, a retired plumber, had come and shut off the water. He would return next morning to see whether he could plug the leak, or whether I needed a whole new tank.

I could see that it was just one of those wrong days. And it occurred to me that a soaking would be just enough to make the floor of the bathroom collapse in damp shreds on the kitchen stove beneath.

Behind the bath there is a hole in the floor, which the cat uses as a refuge. It darts in there and hides at any sign of annoyance or danger.

From that entrance I suppose it has the whole run of the space between floor and ceiling. Eventually, it could fall sick and die in there, and I would have to tear the house to pieces to get it out.

* * *

As my wife spoke to me on the telephone, I visualized that floor, weakened by years of cat-scratching, now gone mushy from the leak in the tank. Before long, I felt, it was bound to collapse in ruin.

Completely demoralized, I hung up the telephone and tried to get through what remained of the day's work.

Who's Running for What?

Saanich Voters 'Left in Dark' Seek Scorecard

Reeve George Chatterton said last night he will suggest to Saanich council that cards giving certain basic voting information be mailed to everyone on the voters' list before next year's municipal elections.

His suggestion followed complaints that council isn't spending enough money to inform ratepayers on the election itself and the candidates who are running.

So widespread is public apathy, claimed Mrs. Queena Lett, 2170 Evergreen Place, that she has run into people who don't even know there will be a municipal election Thursday.

She suggested the best solution to this problem would be for council to mail information to eligible voters on date, time and place where votes may be cast, candidates, and any bylaws or referendums.

"It certainly is the duty of the council to inform the people of the election," said Reeve Chatterton.

"I would like to suggest to council that we try mailing out cards to each voter at the next election. We would have to be careful that in doing so we did not promote any particular issue."

A similar system was successfully introduced in Vancouver three years ago.

Smith Drops Lawsuit

Second Look at Mall

City council will make an almost immediate start on re-assessing the downtown parking and mall plan with a view to putting a revised proposal to a vote as soon as possible.

First discussion is expected to come at a council meeting Tuesday.

* * *

Vote Limited To Section?

* * *

Defeated mayoralty candidate J. Donald Smith said yesterday he would drop his suit against the View Street parking-facility bylaw and council would be free to proceed with it without hindrance from him. But Mayor Scurrah, who had said the parking facility wasn't an election issue because a new vote would be taken, was already thinking of a new proposal.

"Only in the last couple of months I have learned that if we get legislation, which I believe possible, a vote could be put on an area basis," he said. "By that I mean perhaps the No. 1 fire limits (roughly the downtown area), although not necessarily that exact area. I think that suggestion should be explored."

Under this plan, he explained, only the property-owners of the area concerned would have to stand behind the parking facility if it failed to pay its way—"a remote possibility; it's not even that, because the universal experience is that these buildings make a profit."

Council, he suggested, should take quick action to seek the necessary legislation, in order to be able to use it if deemed desirable.

"I would like to see a second vote at the earliest possible moment," the mayor said. "It's an urgent situation because of the shopping centres being established around the perimeter of the city.

"When we came out with the plan the development of these outside shopping centres stopped, but when we were delayed they became an active issue again."

Equal Rights

Liquor and Votes Asked for Indians

Equal liquor rights for all Indians, and the federal vote with no strings attached, will be asked by B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society in a brief to the parliamentary committee on Indian affairs.

At present, Indians living on a reserve cannot vote in federal elections unless they sign a waiver giving up their tax privileges.

The society, meeting this week in Victoria Public Library, heard a preliminary draft of the brief.

The brief will also ask that Indian bands be allotted a share of British Columbia sales tax collections, on the same basis as municipalities.

Also recommended will be; a scheme to attract industries to reserves by subsidies; extension of services from municipalities to nearby Indian villages, with training of Indians as police and firemen; a housing and business loan plan; adult education by means of mobile teaching units; encouragement of the study of co-operatives; and a handicraft development program.

Robert P. Clifton of Comox, president of B.C. Native Brotherhood, charged that the Red Cross had refused aid to an Indian widow in the Fraser Valley who had been driven from her home by floods.

"They said the Red Cross had nothing to do with Indians." Mr. Clifton told the meeting.

B.C. Business Prospects Good for 1960

British Columbia's business prospects are good for 1960, despite the problems of tight money, high wages and foreign competition.

That is the report of B.C.'s leading businessmen in an executive opinion poll released yesterday by Trade Minister Robert Bonner.

"An air of optimism prevails among the majority of companies and the marked recovery of 1959 is expected to continue into 1960," said Mr. Bonner.

Final Forums In Saanich Before Voting

Saanich voters will have three more opportunities to hear all candidates standing in Thursday's elections explain their platform.

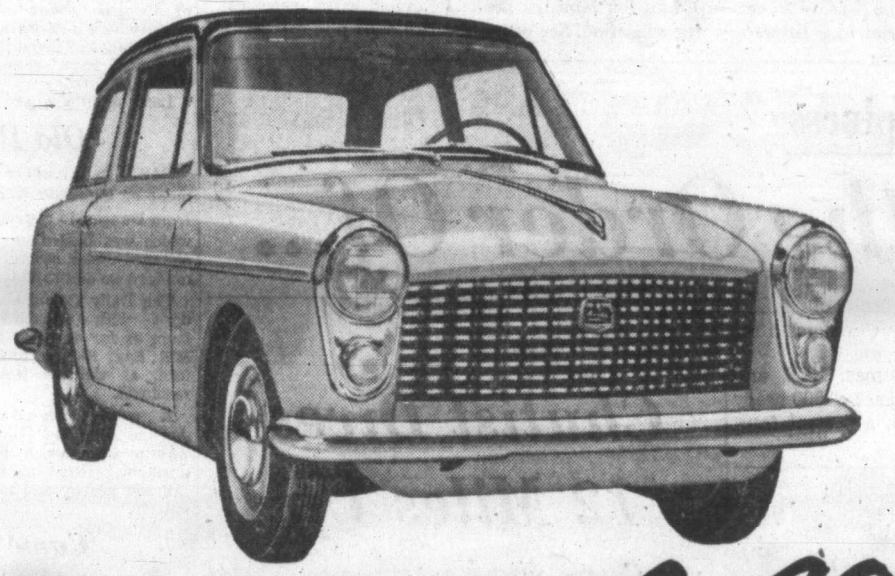

First meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday in the Scout Hall on Shelbourne. The meeting is arranged annually by former Saanich councillors A. E. Horner.

Tuesday evening, Elk Lake Ratepayers' Association is holding an election meeting in Royal Oak High School, starting at 8 p.m.

Wednesday evening was chosen by Saanich Voters' Association for its all-candidate meeting at 8 p.m. at Hampton Hall, Hampton Road.

Dennis Besley, secretary, said the association chose a location in the area affected by the sewer bylaw vote in order to give voters a chance to hear the views of candidates.

Raided Sect In a Trance

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—A pseudo-religious sect which practiced hypnotism, torture and black magic in an estate surrounded by an electrified barbed wire fence has been broken up and its leader place under arrest, Swiss police anounced Friday.

Police last week raided the secluded "Friedberg" (mountain of peace) estate and found 68 men, women and children in various stages of hypnotic trance, said police commissioner Ernest Spoerri.

Spoerri said the group had been placed under a hypnotic spell by Paul Baumann, 42-year-old former mental home patient.

Several of Baumann's disciples were taken to mental homes for psychiatric observation.

Spoerri said the sect's new disciples were made to swear allegiance on an electrified "magic" book which sent a heavy charge through their bodies.

The first self-righting lifeboat, buoyed by air chambers, was built in Britain in 1850.

Police Arm Whites in Riots

WINDHOEK, Southwest Africa (Reuters) — African natives said Friday that police offered weapons to white civilians in riots during Thursday night that left eight Africans dead and 30 wounded.

Police, backed up by troops in armored cars, opened fire with pistols, rifles and machine-guns on rock-throwing Africans outside the town. Eight white policemen were injured.

The riots were the sequel to an incident a week ago when the administrator for Southwest Africa refused to see natives who were protesting plans to move them to a new residential area.

Police said Thursday's trouble started when two African youths assaulted an elderly African woman outside a beer hall.

Martial Law in Minnesota

Bayonets Curb Strike Rioting

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP)—Bayonet-wielding national guardsmen brought an enforced peace Friday to this strike-divided town. The guardsmen moved in when Governor Orville Freeman declared martial law to halt two days of violence at the Wilson Packing Co. plant, scene of a bitter six-week labor dispute.

The guard dispersed massed pickets who had over turned and stoned cars of non-union workers in two days of violence. It shut down production at the Wilson plant, Albert Lea's biggest employer. It forebade assembly of more than three persons near the plant or more than 50 persons anywhere in this prosperous southern Minnesota city.

The guard took over command of all peace officers in Freeborn Country, of which Albert Lea is the county seat, and suspended all court orders and actions pertaining to the dispute.

Winds Add To Woes Of Ships

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gale-force winds complicated the troubles of four boats in difficulties off the British Columbia coast Friday.

Search and rescue officials here said they knew of no injuries but said one U.S. vessel, the Tellicum, was abandoned by its crew at Green Island Light, north of Prince Rupert.

A blaze in another boat was doused by a firefighting tug and a third limped into port with engine trouble.

U.K. Report Urges Longer Schooling

LONDON (Reuters) — Educationists and public opinion in Britain hailed a proposed 20-year plan published Friday to improve education of British youth.

Thirty-one educationists, industrialists and social scientists worked more than three years assessing the present state of public education in England and Wales and recommending measures to help youth meet the challenge of "this tumultuous and dynamic century."

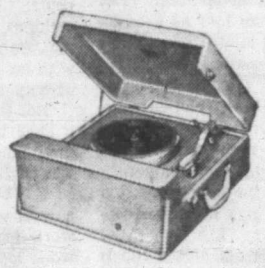

The Central Advisory Council of Education advises that the maximum age for compulsory schooling should be raised to 16 years from the present 15 by the late 1960s.

The 20-year program—to cost some $600,000,000—also calls for a system of compulsory part-time education for 16 and 17-year-olds, recruiting of more and better teachers, reduction in the size of classes and spreading the scope of courses for senior specialist pupils.

A Decisive Result

THERE was nothing indecisive about the result left by Victoria city electors at the polls on Thursday. To Mayor Scurrah they gave a plurality over all challengers, a rare-enough third two-year term in the chief magistracy, the support of three out of four of the aldermanic board up for re-election, and a firm mandate to carry on with the declared polcies of his administration. This result was a personal victory for Mr. Scurrah, and clearly marked vindication of himself and the city council as a whole from any suggestion of neglect or impropriety in office such as had been asserted during the campaign. In short, the electors voted for forward action on progressive lines.

In the aldermanic poll, the return of Aldermen Geoffrey Edgelow at the head of the polls, Mrs. Lily Wilson and Millard Mooney—all incumbents—emphasized that the electors meant what they indicated in the contest for the mayoralty. The addition of Dr. J. H. McLean, a former Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, in the fourth seat open adds new strength to the council in a very fine first run. Ald. J. D. Proudfoot, reversed in the election, nevertheless carries with him an esteemed record in civic affairs. One other swing, in the district school trusteeships, saw another notable first run in the person of Trustee-elect David Logan; at the expense of Trustee Allan H. Wilson, who has given much good service to the community.

The electors were no less decisive when it came to the contested issue of fluoridation. The plebiscite failed to carry by nearly two to one, far short of the 60 per cent support required for implementing the system here. Nevertheless Victoria's municipal neighbors have yet to be heard from on the same issue.

From two sources yesterday came assurances which the electors should welcome. Mayor P. B. Scurrah reiterated his intention of putting the parking mall project to a final public vote; and Mr. Donald Smith, MLA., announced that he had dropped his incidental lawsuit against the city. That clears the air and leaves a reinforced, experienced administration in office, with a firm mandate to carry on the trusteeship of Victoria's civic affairs.

The Usual Reaction

MAYOR SCURRAH has hailed the premier's promise to help build a civic auditorium, and suggested that the city should gear itself and try to make this a reality by 1962. A world's fair is being held in Seattle that year, and there is reasonable expectation of an overflow of visitors to this area because of it. An auditorium in being by then undoubtedly could be a centre for events and attractions of much tourist appeal.

World's fair or no world's fair however, this is the go ahead spirit which must manifest itself in order to make the auditorium vision come true. With a fresh mandate behind him the mayor can be a spur to early planning action by the city. What is not so cheering is traditional parochialism voiced by Reeve Chatterton on the subject. An auditorium would be a fine thing and it would be used by and benefit all Greater Victoria citizens; that much is admitted, but apparently Saanich won't lend any financial assistance.

Actually this point of view is depressing, even if it is not unexpected. The adjacent municipalities are always willing to share any capital asset the city possesses, but only to the extent of making use of it. Even the picayune sum of $50 was refused by Esquimalt as a contribution towards the project of a bust to commemorate the Queen's visit. Far too often it seems, officially at least, that Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt don't mind enjoying the city's amenities so long as they don't have to help pay for them. There is neither self-pride nor fairness to this attitude.

Once an auditorium project got under way however some new perspective might envelop the three adjacent municipalities. One hopes so. In any case the city should go ahead, undeterred by any lack of co-operation by its fellows in what, in fact if not in administrative division, is one community of people. It will not be easy to plan and finance a civic auditorium but it can be done if there is a real will to it.

The Votes Still Count

ALTHOUGH the thumping defeat of fluoridation in the Victoria city referendum might appear to make voting in the other municipalities a waste of time, that is not quite the case. Results of the referendums in Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay will still be informative and might one day serve a useful purpose.

It is true that Victoria electors' rejection of the proposal that the public water supply be treated with fluorides ends the matter so far as the Greater Victoria water district is concerned. No matter how the vote goes in the other municipalities the water supply of the whole region must remain, as the "antis" would put it, "pure." However, the purpose of having separate votes in all units of Greater Victoria was to enable each council to judge how its own people felt about one of the most controversial civic issues in North America at the present time.

It is only fair to the respective councils that the referendums next Thursday should be taken seriously even though no action can result from them. Who knows—now that any prospect of conveying the benefits of fluoridation to children by way of the water mains has been eliminated, perhaps some other convenient method could be devised if there is enough demand for it. For example, it has been suggested as an alternative to mass fluoridation that municipalities might set up a voluntary system, treating water in public tanks for distribution to those who want it. The feasibility of such an idea is open to question, but at least it would have the advantage of cheapness and would overcome the objections of those people opposed on principle to being treated against their will.

Interpreting the News

Underlying Conflicts

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AFTER a triumphant entry into India, peace-making President Eisenhower may face one of the toughest assignments of his current tour.

Indians welcomed the American president with a tremendous, spontaneous roar of friendship for the man they were told was a "messenger of peace."

The joyous welcome overshadowed the grim warning voiced only the day before by Prime Minister Nehru that India must be able to produce guns as well as butter.

Two topics will be high on the agenda when the leaders from East and West get down to serious talks—the Chinese border troubles and the nagging Kashmir dispute.

★ ★ ★

On the surface it appears Eisenhower and his country will be able to do little to help the Indians deal with the first.

In the Indian Parliament, when Nehru issued his warning, he reiterated his belief in non-alignment. He gave the elected representatives of his country a brief lesson in geography.

Whether India likes it or not, China was her neighbor over thousands of miles and there was no getting away from it. This compulsion of geography meant that India would have to undergo austerity, hardships and hard work.

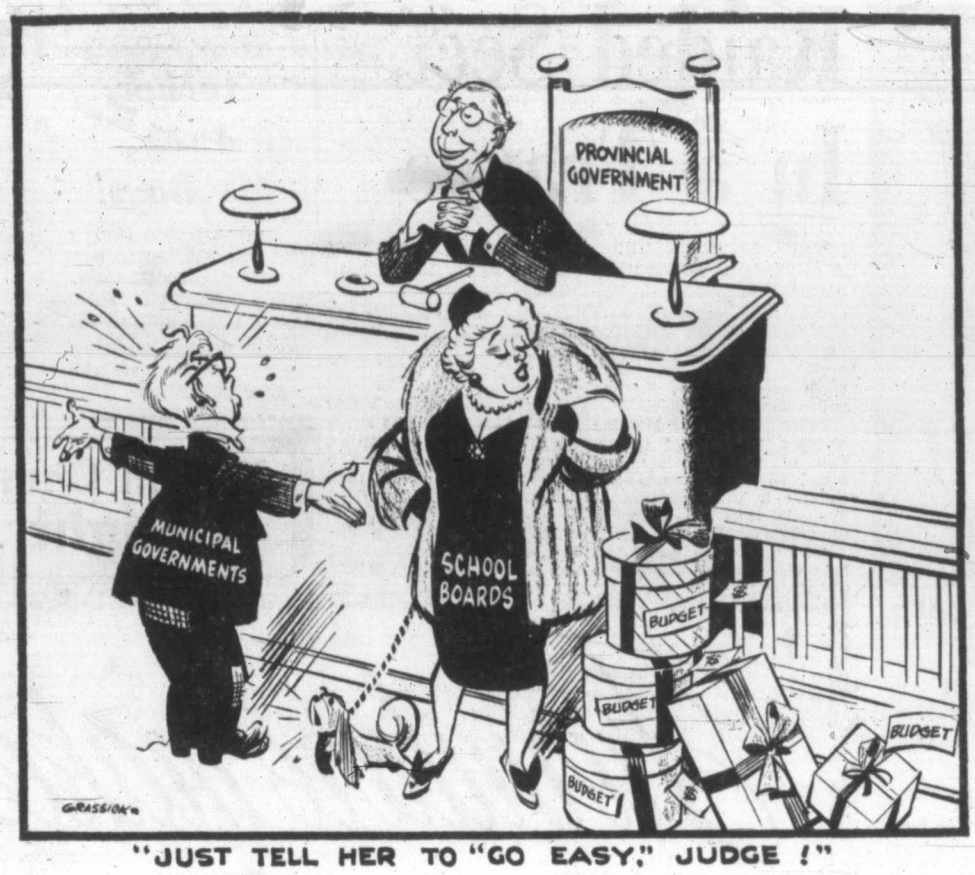

On the second point, the American leader probably will be able to do little more than impress on Nehru the importance to the free world of improve relations between India and Pakistan.

★ ★ ★

Kashmir—free Asia's open conflict—is the main cause of friction between the two Asian countries.

Eisenhower, who went to India from Pakistan and Afghanistan, spent a lot of time discussing Kashmir with Field Marshal Ayub Khan, the Pakistani leader.

The Pakistanis clearly hope the western leader will be able to persuade the Indian leader to make some concessions toward a solution of the Kashmire problem.

Refuge in Canada

Happiest Newcomers

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

OTTAWA (TNS)—A comparatively small but dramatically humanitarian item in Canada's immigration program may create more discussion than any other aspect of the policy for attracting new settlers.

This is the combined external-affairs - immigration department movement to Canada of 100 families of tubercular refugees from among the thousands who have been rotting in European camps for more than 14 years.

There was no political criticism when this program was announced in the House of Commons by External Affairs Minister Howard Green. As a matter of fact there was mild praise of the plan but no debate at that time. Minor criticism has been reported from some quarters but the officials have given no details of what is in the mail. However they do admit that there has been a striking lack of enthusiasm shown by the general public.

The families to be aided are among the 130,000 European war refugees still remaining in camps under care of the United Nations high commissioner for refugees. Because of disability, tuberculosis refugees are not acceptable under immigration laws of the countries best able to provide opportunities for new settlers. They may be re-settled only through the humanitarian operations of the receiving governments and the countries best able to help have shown a marked reluctance.

Canada's gesture is an indication that this coutnry accepts some social responsibility in this world problem and is made in the hope that other countries will follow the example.

The people to be assisted are being selected at Latina, a refugee processing camp outside Rome. Patients whose illness offers a chance for cure will be selected and in each case all members of the family of the afflicted one will accompany the patient.

Thus the party may run to between 400 and 500 persons. The elders of these groups will have been in camps ever since the end of the Second World War, and there are many young people who have known no other life than that to be found in the refugee camps.

They will be brought to sanatoria in Canada, probably at Hamilton and Weston, Ont., where the sick persons will be treated and the other family members settled close by and rehabilitated.

Not many years ago tuberculosis was looked upon as essentially fatal and most communities in Canada had their quota of hopeless people fading away with "consumption."

But the disease was proved to be curable by simple curative practices and later with drugs, with the result that taken in its earlier stages there is little likelihood of failure to cure.

Sanatoria in Canada have empty beds and in some places, including Ottawa, sections of sanatoria are being closed for lack of patients.

The immigration picture for 1959 will not be much better than 1958, which was less than half as good as the 44-year record in 1957 when more than 280,000 new settlers came in.

Prosperity in the main source countries—the U.K., Netherlands, Italy, Germany, Greece and Portugal—is probably the main cause of the low figures. Also some temporary brakes applied in the near-depression period two years ago may have lingering effects.

But the movements of the tubercular families to Canada seems likely to be the most interesting and possibly the most controversial aspect of the program this year.

Reports from Ottawa

NOT since the Liberals' Lester won lustre at the UN during the Suez crisis has Canadian foreign policy been so positive, so virile as it is right now.

This is amazing. Only ten months ago I was criticizing the passive meekness, the woolly verbosity and the pedantic approach of Canadian foreign policy as outlined by the late minister, Sidney Smith.

The credit for the change belongs to Howard Green. It is only a little more than six months since he became foreign minister. Yet in spite of his great inexperience, Canada has begun—especially in the last month or so—to assert itself in the UN, in NATO and in world capitals in a way which once more commands respect.

One of Green's assets is a realistic appreciation of his inexperience, and a frank and unapologetic reliance on the experts who work under him. You no longer have an impression of weakness in this key portfolio; of hesitation, uncertainty and doubt and—perhaps worst of all—of tutelage to the prime minister. Howard Green may make mistakes, but they will be because he does something, not nothing, and they will be his own. So far none stands out as a glaring error.

A Green attitude which influences policy greatly is that he is pro-Commonwealth rather than simply pro-British. But his main characteristic is his determination that Canada shall preserve the independent approach. Canada, says Green, will make up its own mind. Not that Canada is wont to oppose the views of its allies, but it does not fall in with those views automatically.

In the UN this fall Canada voted to seat Poland on the Security Council, while the U.S. and Britain voted for Turkey. Canada angered France by voting against French atomic tests in the Sahara. Canada abstained from voting on the resolution to condemn South African apartheid, although it voted for a similar resolution last year.

Canadian thinking on these issues was (1) Poland is entitled to the Security Council seat by the 1946 "gentleman's agreement"; (2) Canada opposes enlarging the atomic club and opposes resumption of atomic tests, and (3) a vote to condemn South Africa might hasten South Africa's withdrawal from the Commonwealth.

A more positive Canadian contribution resulted in the UN Assembly's unanimous approval of a plan to check radiation levels throughout the world, using existing international organizations. The Canadian proposal was eventually accepted by the Soviet bloc on a joint sponsorship basis.

Currently a major goal of Green's policy is to press on the U.S., Britain and France the counsel and advice of the smaller NATO members, before the Western Big Three decide on positions to take at the summit meeting with Nikita Khrushchev.

It appears as though Canada and the other smaller powers are going to get their way in this. If we do, it will be largely because of the vigor and persuasiveness with which Green argued at Camp David, London and Paris.

And if we do, I have no doubt that Liberal leader Lester Pearson will not withhold from Green the credit due to him. By tradition foreign affairs is not a field for political partisanship, and Pearson would be the last to allow politics to prevent Canada speaking to the world with one united voice.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

WITHOUT doubt the stupidest invention of the 20th century, famous above all other centuries for the wealth of its productive imagination, is the wire coat hanger. More high blood pressure has been generated by this infernal device than all other gadgets together. Reach for one and you get four — three of which fall, with a curiously infuriating sound, onto the floor of the dark closet. Try to hang one up, even without your coat on it, and you knock three down, which also fall with that most frustrating of all 20th century sounds, tickle-clitter-click, onto the clothes closet floor.

More people have bowed, grovelled, groaned to retrieve wire coat hangers than ever bowed to Baal. More cigars have been burst, more braces bust, more buttons blown, in the pursuit of wire coat hangers off the floor than in any other 20th century exertion.

There are billions of them. They come back from the cleaners sometimes two to a garment and often 10 to the bundle. Nobody will throw the darn things out. So in they go to be added to the tangle in every closet and on every door.

The 19th century coat hanger, upon which this monstrosity is modelled, was of wood. It gave you a good grip. It wobbled, but it never sprang. If it fell, you could kick it. But you get no satisfaction whatever out of kicking a wire one. In fact, you can't kick it. Give it the boot and all it does, as usual, is slither.

Dishonest Sweat?

(From The Ottawa Journal)

LIFE, we sometimes think, is hard; yet we make it harder. A service station operator in Ottawa found he couldn't look after his wife and seven children if he closed his station at 7 p.m. So he remained open all night, with the aid of his family and a couple of employees.

But the community of Ottawa, via a civic bylaw, has legislated that a man may not work as hard as he wants.

The bylaw did not merely say that a man may not make other people work long hours; it said he must not work long hours himself. Because a bylaw is a bylaw the man was hauled before a magistrate. Because the man thought righteousness and honest toil were on his side he persisted in his zeal—to the point where now he must pay a fine of $1,312. At this juncture rather than pay he faces eight months in jail.

We know all about the reasons for legislation against sweat shop labor; we also know that there's something to be said for the broad economy of not having all service stations open all night. But there is still in this bylaw a contradiction of a good sound basic principle: a man's own energies should be the limit of his right to work.

From the Scriptures

Young men likewise exhort to be sober-minded.—Titus, 2:6.

Horrible Labels

Jungle of Jargon

By CASSANDRA, from London

THE Producers' Guild has just voted for Tony Hancock and John Freeman as being champion "personalities" of the television world. Both Hancock and Freeman are outstanding at their jobs, and most people will agree that they deserve great credit.

What they don't deserve is being labelled by this horrible jargon-word "personality" which is being sprayed around so much.

"Personality" means being a person. Which isn't much of a distinction. See Hitler and Crippen.

In the jungle of jargon I class "personality" with "executive" as used in the business world and "image" as used in politics.

"Executive" is the new jibber-jabber word for manager or boss.

"Image" is the new fancy term in politics for what the public think of politicians and their works.

Quicker by What?

ON the way to the office earlier this week I passed a large jubilant poster issued by British Railways which shows a drawing of a railway bridge passing over a road which is jammed with traffic. A train, presumably full of happy passengers, speeds over the bridge. The jeering slogan reads: "IT'S QUICKER BY RAIL."

This was particularly interesting to me for I had just been discussing one of these flashing, sparkling rides to London which took place on Tuesday.

The train was timed to depart from High Wycombe at 8.33 a.m. and due to arrive in London at 9.17 a.m.

It got there at 10.40 a.m. The distance is just under 28 miles. The "It's-Quicker-By-Rail" funereal procession arrived at its destination at an average speed of 13 miles an hour.

★ ★ ★

From Speed to Food: I had a perfectly revolting breakfast on a train coming from Blackpool to Euston on Monday. But I was lucky. My companion had the following repast:

A cup of filthy, warm but not hot coffee that tasted as if it had been made from badly ground-up inferior acorns; two miserable wafers of cold toast with insufficient butter and two pieces of badly-cooked haddock which had been imperfectly thawed out from the refrigerator from which they came.

The orange juice that he asked for never turned up.

Price? Seven shillings and sixpence. Plus tip or ugly looks.

This matutinal banquet took over one hour and a half to serve.

Bottlenecks

I WAS pleased to read that a certain industry was "suffering from a severe and widespread bottleneck." That is another one to add to my collection.

I love "bottlenecks."

"Bottlenecks," which are metaphorically meant to indicate a constriction, can now be "severe" (which means austere, strict and harsh), and also "widespread" (which means extending far and embracing much).

Some bottle.

Lord Conesford, better known by his former name, Mr. Henry Strauss, QC, is also a collector of bottlenecks, and has the following fine vintage examples in his cellar:

"Overriding bottleneck."

"Bottlenecks that must be ironed out."

"Vicious circle of independent bottlenecks."

"Drastic bottlenecks."

"Far-reaching and decisive bottlenecks."

And finally, and the most magnificent of all bottlenecks—the "world-wide bottleneck."

Hard to Please

THE New Scientist is justifiably puzzled as to why it was banned from the exhibition of books and periodicals in Moscow. The three issues that were submitted contained: (a) A special article on the triumph of Lunik II; (b) A laudatory article on the Russian nuclear-powered ice-braker Lenin; (c) A friendly description of the success of Lunik III and recognition of photographing the far side of the moon.

Hard fellows to please, these Russkis.

Bang or Whimper?

WHEN France fires her atomic explosion in the Sahara next year, no doubt General de Gaulle will feel better.

The idea of this confused business is presumably to prove France's military and technical manhood in the nuclear age and to give the general more muscles for his stubbornness—as if he needed them.

There are several reports about the progress that French physicists have made in this direction. Some reports say that the big bang, measured in the real big bang business on which Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union have spent untold treasure, will not be such a big one after all. Others believe that it will be a pretty fair whopper.

But whether it is an atomic whimper or a hydrogen bang it is still the way the world ends.

Letters to the Editor

Fire Perils

It is apparent that there is a great laxity in fire inspection in Victoria, judging by the item in the Colonist Dec. 9.

The fire, which could have taken many lives, was traced directly to faulty wiring. How long is the local fire inspection service going to allow this situation to continue?

During the last war and the years following, the excuse given was that there was a housing shortage or insufficient electrical equipment. The housing shortage may still exist but there are unlimited electrical services available.

Therefore, in the interest of public safety, I propose the following:

1. That owners of all apartments and dwellings which contain rented rooms or suites be compelled to install up-to-date electrical wiring immediately.
2. That the city electrical inspection department send out pamphlets to all home-owners within their jurisdiction explaining the dangers of antiquated electrical fittings.
3. That insurance companies inform their policy holders exactly where they stand in the event that a fire is traced directly to faulty wiring.

Parks for Saanich

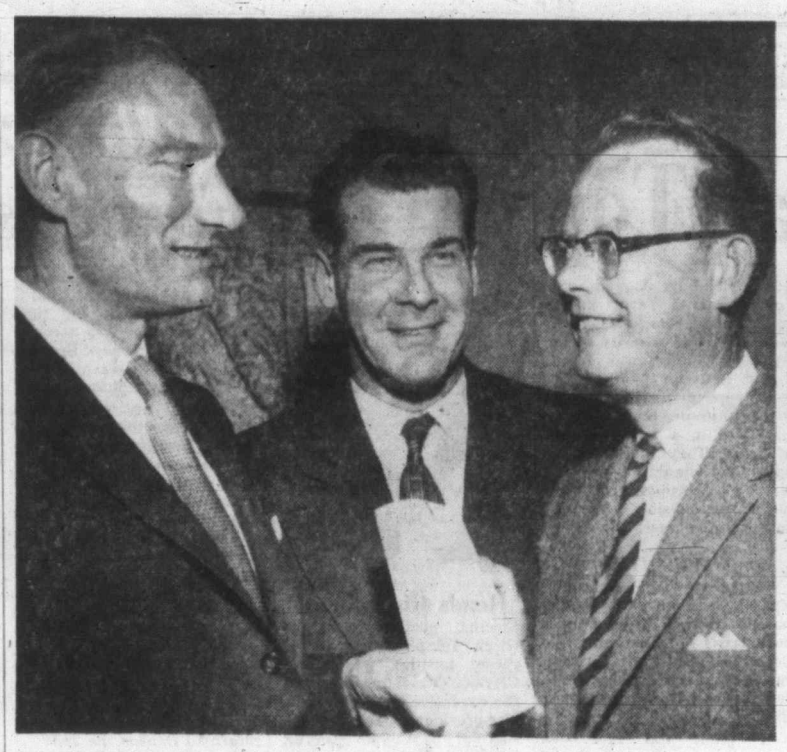

The Saanich Voters' Association is a nonpartisan body and does not represent the interests of any particular candidate seeking public office in Saanich.

However, this association does earnestly ask all Saanich taxpayers to vote for the parks by-law, the purpose of which is to provide a reserve fund for the acquisition and maintenance of parks.

The old fashioned habit of saving up the money before you buy is still sound economic policy, and this is the objective of the Saanich parks by-law.

Bamberton Park Deed Given to B.C.

Deed to 68-acre Bamberton Park was turned over to Recreation Minister Earle Westwood, right, yesterday by B. F. Cox, left, vice-president and general manager of B.C. Cement Co., which has donated park to the province for park purposes. In centre is Ian Ross, a director of the cement company. Provincial parks branch is already developing the area to include a 50-unit camping area, 235-car parking lot, 40-table picnic site and a beach changehouse. Formal opening of the park, which includes popular Sandy Beach, will be in June.—(Colonist photo.)

Nehru Briefs Ike on Raids

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Prime Minister Nehru said last night he and President Eisenhower discussed Communist China's armed incursions into Indian border territory in their talks but not in "any great detail."

Asked whether he had been able to convince the president that the disputed territories on the Sino-Indian frontier really belonged to India, Nehru laughed and said: "That's a question for President Eisenhower to answer."

Nehru said there has been an undoubted improvement in Indian-American relations since he visited Washington three years ago. Asked whether this was because each side had changed its position somewhat, he replied laughingly that he thought there had been a "change of emphasis" in the American stand.

The premier's appearance at the reception for newsmen surprised many Indians because prominent officials here never attend receptions where liquor is served. Prohibition is in effect throughout India, except for foreigners and in clubs.

Earlier in the day, Eisenhower proposed a world war on hunger under the banner "food for peace."

Opening the U.S. pavilion at the World Agricultural Fair, in this nation where millions starve, the president quoted the theme of the American exhibit: "Food-family-friendship-freedom."

TV Technician Hurt In Fall from Roof

A TV technician who fell off a roof, David MacDonald, 19, of 4794 Interurban, was in "satisfactory" condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday afternoon with possible fractures of spine and skull.

MacDonald was helping install a TV antenna at the home of J. P. Pendray, 4160 Blenkinsop, when he fell from the roof 16 feet to the ground.

MacDonald and M. D. Jones, partner in the TV firm making the installation, had just started on the job at the Pendray home. Mr. Jones said he was on the opposite side of the house when his partner fell, and didn't know how it happened.

"I just heard him yell," he said.

Manufacturer Says:

Medicine Overcharge $750,000,000 a Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New Jersey drug manufacturer Friday accused his bigger competitors of overcharging for prescription medicines to the tune of $750,000,000 a year.

Seymour N. Blackman, an executive of two companies in this field, urged Congress and the medical profession to join in a drive to bring down the cost of medicines.

Blackman is executive secretary of Premo Laboratories, Inc., of South Hackensack, N.J., and president of Omega Precision Medical Instrument Company of Passaic. He testified before the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee in the fifth day of its hearings on drug prices.

Blackman asserted that big manufacturers have obtained "beautiful, natural monopoly" control of pricing in the drug field by controlling patents on new wonder drugs and other medicines, and have used this power for "price gouging."

OVER-CHARGING

"I personally feel that the American public is over-paying at least $750,000,000 annually for the medication which they purchase on prescription" he said.

"The consumer buying drugs on prescription . . . has no choice," Blackman said. "He must buy the medication and he has no choice as to the brand of the medication which is prescribed for him and which he must purchase."

Blackman said doctors seem prone to accept claims advanced in what he called blitz advertising drives for higher-priced brand names produced by the big manufacturers, and to prescribe them instead of lower priced rival products of smaller firms.

Calculated Risk in Peace, Mainwaring Answers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Peace River Power Development Co. is taking a calculated risk in its plans to develop hydro power on the Peace River in northern British Columbia, company president W. C. Mainwaring said Friday in a statement.

"I know of no means of 'saddling' the province or anyone else with high-cost power," Mr. Mainwaring said. "Our calculations are based upon the premise that each utility will purchase its power in the lowest available market."

Mr. Mainwaring issued the statement in reply to remarks made in Victoria Wednesday by Stuart Keate, publisher of The Victoria Daily Times.

Chief of Supersecret MI 5 Known Only to Few at Top

'Ideological Traitor' Fuchs First of New-Breed Spies

(Last in a series on secret service operations of Canada, the U.S. and the U.K.)

By JANE ARMSTRONG

LONDON (TNS)—In nearly half a century of spy catching, the most significant fact about MI5 is still its impenetrable secrecy.

Military Intelligence 5—MI5 in thriller books—is the counter-espionage service that provides Britain's link in the West's security network.

It was started as a branch of the military in the First World War, but its activity soon passed to the political. Today its objective is to ensure that no information vital to Britain's security leaves the country.

Since 1945 this has meant chiefly ferreting out Russian and Communist agents whose espionage is highly organized.

Known by Few

The names of the staff of MI5 are known only to their director. He in turn, is known outside the organization only to the Prime Minister and a few cabinet colleagues.

Not long ago when MPs investigated the illegal practice of telephone tapping which the Home Secretary had authorized, the chief of MI5 appeared for questioning as "Mr. X."

Parliamentary investigators were limited to Privy Councillors because they were hearing vital security secrets, in particular the methods used by MI5 to track down foreign agents.

Not Listed

The mystery that obscures MI5 makes it impossible to uncover even trivial facts about it. For example, it is not listed in the telephone book or in any government directory. It has no minister responsible for its work to Parliament.

The War Office states blandly that "the government runs it." It is not part of any one ministry but appears to work closely with several — the service departments, Home Office, Scotland Yard special branch, and so on. Only one lurid line in the Civil Estimates proves that MI5 exists at all. It reads "Secret Service . . . £5,000,000." But this is regarded as a dummy entry and appears unchanged year after year.

Name 'Blind'

Even the name MI5, so thrilling on TV serials, is a blind. MI5's most publicized chief, Sir Percy Sillitoe, for example, says that his title was "Director General of the British Security Service" when the Home Office appointed him after the war at a surprisingly modest salary of $8,500 a year.

On the other hand, the prime minister, answering questions about Sir Percy's job, said he was "Director at the War Office on Special Duty."

Sir Percy is the only boss of the British secret service whose face, tight-lipped, tough, was known to the public. He already was so famous as a gangbusting policeman and later as Churchill's man who kept wartime land convoys moving, that it was impossible to hide him in MI5. He discovered his staff distrusted anyone who made headlines.

Not Exaggerated

"I found it so extremely difficult to find out precisely what everyone was doing that I felt MI5's reputation for excessive secrecy was not exaggerated," he said.

Sillitoe also found Britain's secret agents were an odd lot. "The men I was attempting to direct were highly intelligent," he said, "but somewhat introspective, each working in a rather withdrawn isolation concentrating on his own problem."

He found the work at MI5 like the police, largely concerned with routine and unobstrusive preventive measures.

Two Jobs

MI5 had two main jobs. One was to keep in touch with British industry. When a manufacturer got an order for secret equipment, MI5 turned up to warn him against talking shop outside and to be on guard for suspicious incidents.

The second was getting information about foreign agents and their British contacts.

This activity led to spectacular events during Sillitoe's term of office. The Canadian spy trials had shown the complexity of modern espionage. It had become international, served by political fanatics like Klaus Fuchs, quite unlike ordinary agents.

"Fuchs and men like him were unlike any earlier spies

* * *

. . . biggest catch

in history," Sir Percy recalls. "They did not want money, glory or adventure. They were scholars who came into possession of terrible knowledge. They felt their private decision went beyond ordinary law. All took the Official Secrets Act Oath and thought nothing of breaking it."

He considers Klaus Fuchs the most important agent ever caught by MI5. The German-born scientist passed information to the Russians from 1942 to 1949. He saw the first A-bomb test in the United States and gave Russia all the information available. Consequently the Russians exploded their first A-bomb in two years against the five it took the Americans.

Alter Balance

"Fuchs was in a position to alter the whole balance of world power," commented Sillitoe. (In fact, Fuchs still believes he averted a third world war by putting the Russians on a nuclear footing with the Americans).

Early in the war MI5 passed Fuchs for atomic research as "an acceptable risk on a low security rating to have restricted access to confidential information."

But Churchill's orders to use anyone who could help win the war coupled with Fuchs' brilliance made him number one man on the British nuclear team. From the start he reported to an unknown woman agent of the Russian intelligence service.

U.S. Accepted

In Washington, the American security accepted Fuchs as cleared by MI5. But the Russian A-tests roused American suspicions. It was felt they could not have worked so quickly without inside help. And so it was the Americans who first put a finger on Klaus Fuchs and notified MI5.

"Now, as so often happens in counter-espionage, we identified our man—Dr. Fuchs—but were not able to prove anything against him. Intelligence is one thing. Sufficient legal evidence is another," says Sillitoe.

The Fuchs' case was the supreme test of counter-espionage for MI5. It demanded new techniques in psychology. Sillitoe decided the only hope was to gain intimate knowledge about Fuchs.

State of Mind

"If we knew his motives and his state of mind, we might extract from him by skilled interrogation the evidence we needed. Fuchs was not an ordinary spy. He was an ideological traitor," says Sillitoe.

Fuchs was in acute mental distress. He had developed new loyalties to his colleagues at Harwell and to Britain. Sillitoe sent William Skardon, a quiet, plodding, dogged agent from Scotland Yard's special branch. He worked closely with Harwell's security officer who, by chance, was Fuch's friend. Between them, the two men applied terrific psychological pressure on Fuchs who now was in a tortured state of mind. They knew he had spied but could not prove it unless, through relentless moral persuasion, he was forced to confess.

Deep Crisis

"When we began to study Fuchs' personality it was apparent he was undergoing a deep crisis of conscience. We hoped to appeal to it. Skardon carried out the interrogation for MI5 patiently," recalls Sillitoe.

"I think the fact this method was successful and that we never resorted to the kind of interrogation behind the Iron Curtain was the most hopeful aspect of the Fuchs' case," he says.

Fuchs broke down and confessed. He served nine years and recently returned to East Germany.

Criticized

MI5, nevertheless, came in for criticism over the Fuchs' case. Nearly nine years passed before the Americans again shared secrets with Britain. "I felt many people not knowing the methods of MI5 expect us to be endowed with sixth sense," complains Sillitoe. "We had no grounds to suspect Fuchs."

There was a public outcry when the British diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald MacLean escaped to Russia. And another when Mrs. MacLean followed.

"I can only emphasize that there was not a shred of legal evidence ever available against them which would serve for issuing a warrant for arrest," declares Sillitoe.

Also Escaped

There was more dissatisfaction when Fuchs' friend Bruno Pontecorvo, the Harwell scientist, went on holiday and failed to return. People concluded he too escaped to Russia.

"If so, what could MI5 have done?" asks Sir Percy. "I would rather see two or three traitors slip through the security net than be a party to measures that would lead to a police state."

One feels MI5 is happier when it works according to its own rules in secret. Indeed sometimes it does not expose agents because of newspaper publicity, on the grounds that this would alert other contacts.

Neutralize Agents

"It is better to neutralize the activities of an agent without rousing suspicion than to expose him and have to identify his successor," claims Sillitoe.

On the other hand MI5 is ruthless in getting members of foreign embassies expelled if they have been spying.

When William Marshall, a young radio operator in the foreign office, foolishly gave messages to a Soviet second secretary a few years ago, MI5 agents sat stolidly on nearby park benches week after week watching their exchanges. For six weeks uniformed police avoided the park so as not to alarm the conspirators. One night as the pair left the park, a Scotland Yard man in a belted raincoat arrested them. Marshall got five years. The Russian was sent home.

"It is by this persistent neutralization of foreign agents that unostentatiously the department achieves its object. Every foreign agent who has experience is valuable to his country. Every agent obliged to leave represents a loss to that foreign power."

Heads Gizeh Band

Elected president of the Gizeh Temple Band at the recent meeting was Leslie Clarke. Other members of the executive are Al Stevens, vice-president; Jack Walton, secretary; William Gouge, treasurer; Harry Savage, sergeant; James Miller, bandmaster, Stan Sunderland, assistant.

Easier Money Seen

Balanced '61 Budget Forecast by Tory MP

A balanced federal budget for the 1960-61 fiscal year—and an easing of the tight money situation was forecast this week by Ernest Broome, Progressive Conservative MP for Vancouver South.

Speaking at the general meeting of the Esquimalt-Saanich Progressive Conservative Association, Mr. Broome said inflation had been checked in Canada, and that with the balanced budget there would also be a lessening of the tight money problem.

He said also he felt legislation making old-age pensions payable outside Canada would be brought down at the next session of parliament.

At present pensioners may only claim benefits for six months spent out of the country, and these only when they return to Canada, he said.

The new legislation would allow a pensioner to live permanently outside Canada, and still receive his monthly benefits.

However, he added, the restrictions governing those eligible for the pension would also have to be changed.

"At present a resident of Canada for 10 years may claim a pension. Permanent non-residents would probably have to have lived in Canada for closer to 25 years to claim it," he said.

Victoria MP A. deB. Mc-Phillips said after last night's meeting he would present a private bill at the next session advocating payment of old-age pensions outside Canada, but only to Canadian citizens.

C. H. Rennie was elected president of the Esquimalt-Saanich association at the meeting.

Other members of the executive are: W. C. Roberts, first vice-president; P. D. Crofton, second vice-president; Eric Charman, third vice-president; J. H. Ashdown, secretary; George McGregor, treasurer.

Mom Whyte Arrives With Party

SUMMERLAND, B.C. (CP)—Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte has arrived here with a group of adults and children from her Whytehaven Mission at Bowmanville, Ont., closed earlier this year by Ontario provincial authorities.

The group will spend the winter here at Mountain View Home, a home for elderly people.

The local social welfare department has been advised that Mrs. Whyte and her group will use the third floor of the 33-room house and other unoccupied rooms. The group came from Ontario in a motorcade.

Officials said yesterday Mrs. Whyte has not applied for a licence to operate a children's home, required by British Columbia law.

U.S. Exempts Canadian Oil

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States will reduce west coast imports of oil in the first half of 1960 but will exempt Canadian oil from these tightened curbs.

Officials Friday estimated west coast imports from Canada—free from restrictions—will remain at about 52,000 barrels daily, unchanged from average imports during the last half of 1959.

Imports from other countries will be reduced by a total of about 13,000 barrels daily. A rise in shipments from Canada is given as the main reason why imports from other countries must be reduced.

Hotel Group Elects Clark

William Clark of the Dominion Hotel was elected president of the Victoria Hotel Association at a recent annual meeting.

Other members of the executive are Nicholas Renard of the Royal Olympic, vice-president; Keith Olson of the Strathcona, past-president; Ken King of the Douglas, secretary-treasurer.

NORTHERN COAL

Coal shipments from the mines on Spitsbergen, Norwegian island in the Arctic Ocean, are estimated at 180,000 tons for 1959.

Singers Head for Berlin

'Platters' Acquitted Of Morals Charge

CINCINNATI (AP)—Freed of morals charges here, the Platters, internationally-known Negro singing group, are headed for an engagement in Germany. They said they will open in Berlin Monday.

Although Judge Gilbert Bettman Thursday acquitted the four singers of charges of aiding and abetting prostitution, lewdness or assignation, he lashed at them for having "broken that law which distinguishes man from animal—the moral law."

Acquitted with the men were four 19-year-old girls—three white and one Negro.

Judge Bettman based his acquittal decision on a finding that there was no evidence the men paid the girls any money and on his opinion as to the definitions and legislative intent in the use of the words "lewdness" and "indiscriminate" in the Ohio law.

He told the singers, however:

"For these transgressions you will be accountable to that Highest Court before which you must, in the end, stand final judgment."

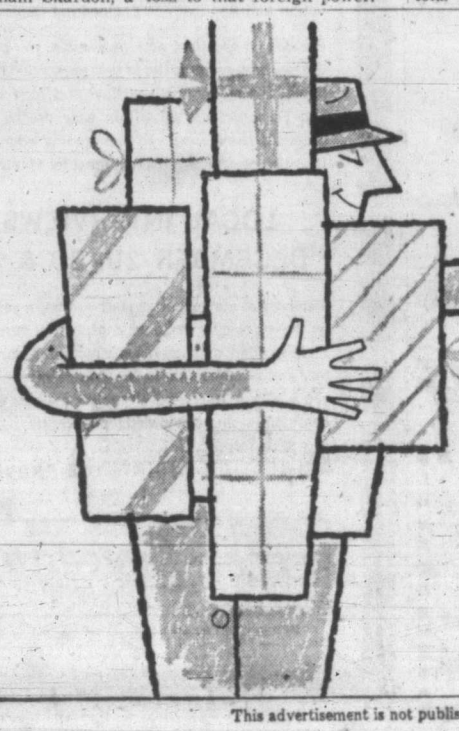

LOBSTER EXPORT

Exports of frozen rock lobster tails from South Africa to the United States are estimated at $11,000,000 for 1959.

Mrs. Thomas Favors Tax Relief

Mrs. J. M. Thomas, candidate for a Saanich seat on the District 63 school board, said yesterday she is strongly in favor of school taxation being lifted from land and homes and given a broader base provincially.

Mrs. Thomas is competing with David Woodsworth, Fred Berg and Louis Schmelz for the seat.

Third Man Jailed In $4,000 Burglary

Third man charged in the recent $4,000 burglary of Vancouver Barge Transportation Ltd., 1112 Wharf, was sentenced in city police court yesterday.

Barry H. Sharpe, 23, of 614 Marifield, was sentenced to six months definite and three months indefinite in the Young Offenders' Unit, Oakalla, for breaking, entering and theft; and to three months concurrent for taking a car without the owner's consent.

On Wednesday Waldon W. Pelton, HMCS Naden, and Charles C. Casey, 1228 Crown, were given identical terms for breaking and entering, and Casey a like sentence for taking a car without consent.

The car was used to transport loot from the burglary to Sharpe's apartment.

Edward R. Rath, 3890 Loretta, was fined $100 and his driver's licence suspended, when he pleaded guilty to criminally negligent driving.

The charge arose from a furious chase along Burnside and Interurban Roads Thursday night at speeds ranging up to 75 miles an hour. Two city police officers in their car chased accused more than two miles, with siren and red flasher operating, before they could pass him and force him to stop.

Also in city court, Bernard Bowcott, 1712 Cook, changed an earlier plea to one of guilty on a charge of impaired driving, after hearing prosecution evidence.

He was fined $250, and his licence was suspended.

★ ★ ★

William Knowles, 3154 Stevenson, pleaded guilty to impaired driving in a brief session of Esquimalt court yesterday, and was fined $250. His licence was also suspended.

Court was told Knowles was involved in an accident Thursday night on Esquimalt Road.

Two Victoria youths were fined $50 each in Colwood police court yesterday for being minors in possession of liquor. They were William Harding, 2890 Richmond, and Blake Sprague, 3209 Wicklow.

Grief-Stricken Boy, 9, Follows Dad to Death

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) —The body of a 9-year-old boy whose grief over the death of his father drove him to suicide—was found in a river yesterday, six hours after his dad's funeral.

Jimmy Rukstalis vanished from home Tuesday—vowing that he would jump into the river because his father had died unexpectedly of a heart attack.

Firemen, police and volunteers from several communities joined a round-the-clock search for the youngster in the hope of finding him alive so he could attend the funeral held this morning.

Neighbors said Jimmy's family was very poor. But poverty didn't prevent Jimmy and his dad from going on frequent fishing trips together to the river where his body was found.

"He was a very friendly kid, very affectionate and very well liked by everyone," said Leo Rukstalis, an uncle. "He and his father went around a lot together. They were real chums."

Stephen L. Rukstalis, 49, was a machinist. He had been ill from a collapsed lung but was due to return to work Monday. He suffered the heart attack Tuesday.

Hopes for the boy's safety faltered with discovery of his bicycle at the water's edge.

Ford Motor Establishes New High

TORONTO (CP)—After a slow start and a dip to lower levels the stock market climbed strongly and closed higher amid light trading.

Industrials, helped along by a late flurry in steel stocks, jumped ahead and gained more than one and three-quarter points to lead index winners.

Among steels Algoma was up 2⅛ at 39½ and Steel Company of Canada jumped 1⅝ at 87⅝. Other big gains included a two-point jump by Ford Motor Company at 82, a new high.

Senior uraniums were all up. Algom increased ⅛ at 10⅞ and Gunnar, showing signs of regaining some of its lost strength, advanced 15 cents at $9.90.

Steels Advance

MONTREAL (CP) — Index gains showed across the board after a fairly active session.

Steels had a series of solid gains to push the industrial index up more than a point. Utilities, banks and papers all were fairly quiet but stronger.

Algoma Steel led its section by shooting up 2⅛ at 39¾. Steel of Canada was up 2.

Nickel eased ½ at 104⅛ in base metals while quarter-point gains went to Aluminium and Noranda.

Calgary Power and Gatineau added fractions in utilities.

Pipelines and oils were active but changes were slight. Among gainers was Trans-Mountain Pipeline.

Ford U.S. led the assorted industrials, making 2½ at 82½.

Silbak Up Three

VANCOUVER—The shares of MacMillan & Bloedel and Powell River, two firms now moving towards a merger, attracted some strong buying in the week's closing session.

MacMillan rose to $39½ and Powell River to $17⅝.

Other industrials were fairly firm with B.C. Telephone advancing to $43¾. Trans-Canada was $26⅛ and Westminster Paper $35½.

Big trader among mines was Silbak Premier, which rose three cents to 13 cents. Giant Mascot was also active in rising to 20 cents. Quatsino at 15½ was also stronger, but other mining issues inclined to ease.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (Reuters) — Advances in industrial equities were substantial on the London stock market with index stocks making a new high for 1959.

Steel shares were firm and engineering issues went ahead. Electrical equipment issues were generally better.

Gilt-edged securities were quiet and tended to ease.

Foreign bonds were irregular but gains predominated in dollar stocks.

CHICAGO (AP) — Pressure mostly weak grain futures market.

The selling appeared to be a continuation of the liquidation of long positions which broke open suddenly yesterday after the open interest in soybeans had climbed to another record high of more than 198,000,000 bushels.

Trading in the grains was sluggish and without any significant influences.

Industry Wants Protection

Everyone Shoots at 'Santa'

* * *

Spokesman Hits Sniping

* * *

Colonist Business Editor

Canadians maintain a sort of year-round open shooting season against the greatest Santa Claus of all, according to Stuart Armour, economic adviser to the Steel Company of Canada.

In a talk to the Iron and Steel Exchange in Toronto, Mr. Armour described Canadian industry as the cheerful St. Nicholas who works 365 days a year making life better for the people who live in this country.

Every level of government, every doctrinaire civil servant, every socialist orator and many editors and other leaders of opinion seemed to Mr. Armour to delight in shooting at this valuable Santa.

"The main efforts of our government seem to be in the direction of helping other countries at our expense," he said. "Even when we set out to develop, at taxpayers' expense, great projects like the Seaway, hydro-electric plants and highways, the ability of Canadian manufacturers to supply materials is often ignored."

No other country with a large industrial potential acts in what Mr. Armour calls "this bizarre and dangerous fashion." They provide adequate tariff protection, and some also assist their manufacturers to penetrate foreign markets.

"Canadian manufacturers do not want cartelization, but they think they deserve their contribution to the country entitles them to freedom from the threat of annihilation."

PROFITS BEAT TAXES

Canadian taxes have been higher in 1959, than in recent years, but even after allowing for the increased corporation tax level, the net profits of Canadian companies looks like being 20 per cent higher than it was a year ago.

In the first half of 1959, the advance in corporation profits was 16.5 per cent and since then the tempo of the national recovery has increased.

Financial Council of Toronto estimated the gross national production for the year at $35,000,000,000 up 7 per cent.

The increase of profit margins by Canadian manufacturers is said to be a consequence of operating efficiencies, and cost saving devices installed during the 1957-58 recession as well as new plant and equipment recently installed.

TWO-BITS OFFERED

The house furnishings firm of Geo. H. Heese Co. Ltd. is calling its bondholders and unsecured creditors to a meeting in Toronto Jan. 26 to accept an option of taking 25 cents cash on the dollar immediately or to accept full payment in 10 years serial bonds carrying no interest. The company requires new capital to restore working capital, and the proposal is aimed to enable the company to operate on a cash basis.

NEW STORE PLANNED

Simpson Sears is to build a three-storey retail store in Trail to take the place of its present premises in that city. The new building on Cedar Avenue will have 50 per cent more space than the present store. It is due for completion by next spring.

Inflation Fears Receding in U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Inflation is being discussed freely these days with a tinge of evidence developing that it is losing force.

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fennder & Smith in its current security and industry survey stresses the belief of Per Jacobson, head of the International Monetary Fund, that world inflation is ending.

International Statistical Bureau notes there is less and less stress on inflation, not only in congress but among leading analysts.

On the other hand, Standard & Poor's believes that rising demand for consumer credit and the unremitting drive for higher wages will add an inflationary spur.

International Statistical Bureau says "the fact that vice-president Nixon's committee has switched its emphasis from inflation to economic growth is a fairly good indication of the psychology of political thinking."

But Merrill Lynch hoping there will be a "sensible settlement" of the steel strike, warns that "an inflationary settlement could cause a near-term binge in the stock market along with the customary headache later."

All in all there is no definite indication one way or the other that inflation has been licked. But those who look a long way ahead see evidence it has been stemmed in places and may be less of a market factor from now on.

Support for Drugs

NEW YORK (CP)—Motors were strong, drugs rebounded while tobaccos and selected issues made gains in an unevenly declining stock market.

Ford touched a high and gained 2¼ in an outstanding performance among automotive stocks.

Drugs again met buying support. Tobaccos staged a vigorous rally late in the day but closed irregular.

Avco headed the list of trading favorites, rising ⅝ to 16⅝. Some leading steels were off sharply, Youngstown Sheet dropping 2½, Jones and Laughlin a point while U.S. Steel and Republic each fell 1⅝.

General Time and Polaroid each advanced 3½. Merck and Schering each rose more than a point.

Deer Hunter Out of Town On Big Day

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A deer rambled through a rumpus room in the suburban home of a man who goes hunting annually but has yet to bag a deer.

The deer crashed through one picture window Wednesday on the way in and another on the way out. In the room, frightened by the family dog, it broke a number of phonograph records, said Mrs. Frank Lowe of Delmar. Her husband was in New York City at the time.

"That's about the pattern of his luck," Mrs. Lowe said, referring to her husband's deer-hunting skill.

Goaltenders Have Rough Night As Totems Wallop Comets, 12-4

* * *

SEATTLE—It was a bad night for goalies Friday night with both Bev Bentley and Emile Francis suffering injuries as Seattle Totems took full advantage of Spokane Comets' substitute for a whopping 12-4 Western Hockey League win.

Totems used the easy win to move back into second place. However, the win may be a costly one to Seattle when exact details of Bentley's injury are known.

And, Spokane appears in even more trouble with Francis possibly out of commission for quite some time after suffering his second injury in less than a week.

Francis, who had just returned to the Spokane lineup after missing a game with a knee injury, dislocated a shoulder as he banged into a goal post while attempting a save at the end of the first period.

Comets searched for a substitute for 40 minutes and finally came up with Ron Anderson, goalie in the Seattle amateur league. After grabbing a 2-0 lead, Seattle poured five goals past Anderson for a 7-3 lead entering the final period.

Winnipeg	27	10	16	1	86	91	21
Spokane	29	9	19	1	81	126	19

Last night's scores: Spokane 4 at Seattle 12; Edmonton 3 at Winnipeg 5.
Next games, tonight: Seattle at VICTORIA; Vancouver at Spokane; Winnipeg at Calgary.

SUFFERS GASH

In the first minute of the third, Bentley dived to the ice to make a save and suffered a severe gash on his forehead.

He skated woozily over to the Seattle bench where the trainer administered smelling salts to him for two minutes.

Bentley started back to his net, then fell to the ice. Another bout with the smelling salts. After 20 minutes of delay, Bentley was on his feet again and went back to his job although still dizzy.

Bentley played the final period and allowed only one goal while his mates blasted another [illegible] past the untried Anderson to complete the rout. But it is not known whether Bentley will play tonight when Seattle moves to Victoria.

MINUS FORWARDS

To make matters worse, Seattle will be minus the services of rookie forward Pat Ginnell and possibly high-scoring winger Marc Boileau.

Ginnell sustained a severely cut foot in the first period of the Friday nightmare and had to have several stitches sewn into the wound.

Boileau was injured in a Thursday practice.

The loss, coupled with Winnipeg's 5-3 win over Edmonton, drops Spokane back into the cellar.

Victoria's Marcel Pelletier was originally scheduled to take Francis' place at Seattle last night. Pelletier declined and is probably thanking his lucky stars today.

Francis was forced to start last night's game with his injured knee frozen.

Tom McVie and Bill MacFarland each scored twice for Seattle last night. Jim Powers scored once and collected four assists for his biggest output of the season.

Battle for Second With Seattle's Visit

If Marcel Pelletier of Victoria Cougars skates onto the ice at Memorial Arena tonight wearing a plastic face mask or a suit of armor, nobody will blame him after what happened to a pair of Western Hockey League goalies Friday at Seattle.

Both Bev Bentley of Seattle and Emile Francis of Spokane were seriously injured as Totems regained second place by shelling Francis' substitute for 10 goals in a 12-4 win.

Totems, with Bentley and forwards Pat Ginnell and Marc Boileau on the injured list, meet Cougars tonight.

Coach Hal Laycoe's Cougars now trail Seattle by two points and, injury-free, hope to move back into a tie for second.

Left-winger Don Blackburn will make his first appearance tonight for Victoria after arriving from Providence of the American League. Blackburn worked out with Victoria yesterday and will play against Seattle as an extra forward.

Defenceman Ron Matthews has recovered from a charley-horse and will line up with the Cougars. Matthews first suffered the injury in a practice earlier this week and had to retire after only one shift Wednesday night against Spokane.

Seattle and Victoria played in the U.S. city Sunday with the Totems winning 4-0 in a game that featured a third period brawl between Totems' Frank Arnett and Cougars' Pete Wright.

Arnie Schmautz had been cut by Arnett's stick when Wright, who has a reputation as a pretty good fighter, jumped into the affray.

Appearing with Seattle will be the WHL's scoring leader Guyle Fielder and runner-up Bill MacFarland.

Game time tonight is 8.30.

Perrin's Threat Still Gets Results

WINNIPEG — A threatened personnel change by owner Jack Perrin continued to get results Friday night as Winnipeg Warriors upset Edmonton Flyers 5-3 for a second straight win and moved into sixth place in the Western Hockey League.

Warriors scored three third-period goals to overcome a 3-2 deficit and defeat Edmonton for the second time in three days. Perrin had delivered the produce or else ultimatum Wednesday night and Warriors responded with a 5-1 lacing of the fifth-place Flyers.

Centre Barrie Ross was the Winnipeg sparkplug for the second straight game. He scored twice, including the winner, and assisted once. Ross also scored twice Wednesday.

Gerry Brisson, Bill Johansen and Elliott Chorley, put on waivers earlier this week by Winnipeg, scored the other Warrior goals. Ed Diachuk, Gordon Laborriere and Warren Hynes scored for Edmonton.

Goalie Al Rollins paved the way for the comeback win before more than 3,200 fans, kicking out 3 shots while Edmonton's Dennis Riggin, once again playing with a plastic face mask, handled only 20.

Referee Willie Papp dished out 33 minutes in penalties in the rough game, including a first period match misconduct to Warriors' Steve Witiuk who slashed and cut Gene Achtymichuk of Edmonton, dropping the latter to the ice.

TACKLE BOX

Few fishermen would ever agree, regardless of the amount of tackle they have accmulated, that they don't need every bit of equipment that they have. But a search is on for useable tackle that isn't seeing much use and we would like to ask every angler to take stock and see if there isn't an item or two in his collection of fishing gear that could be spared for a good cause.

This is particularly directed at those of you who for some reason or another have had to give up, or almost give up, your fishing activities and have tackle which is seeing little or no use but many active anglers may also be able to help out.

It's all for the Daily Colonist 500 Fund. Each year a sizeable amount is realized from a toy auction at Maynard & Sons and each year there has been a demand for fishing tackle. So, anybody who can spare any angling equipment can serve two useful purposes by taking it to Maynard & Sons, 733 Johnson Street, and earmarking it for the toy auction, which will be held next Saturday. Not only will it help swell the amount which is distributed to the city's most needy 500 families but it will wind up as a Christmas gift for some youngster who probably wouldn't get it otherwise.

* * *

One of the more interesting, if time-consuming, chores in keeping tabs on the entries made in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest is compiling a lure count.

This year, after checking no fewer than 18,628 entries in the spring and coho salmon divisions which had the successful lure listed, two noticeable trends were observed. The most noticeable was the continued increase in the use of bait in some form or another. The other was a shift to plugs from spoons among anglers using artificials.

This was particularly true in the case of spring salmon with 6,910 entries of 9,843 checked—about 70 per cent—listing bait. In the coho division, bait was used for 4,446 fish out of the 9,145 checked.

Figures left no doubt but that the trend towards increased use of bait has been largely caused by the popularity of the Strip-Teaser and the Minnow-Teaser, which between them accounted for partically 50 per cent of the spring and coho salmon checked on entry forms.

Strip-Teasers were listed 2,824 times and Minnow-Teasers 2,720 times to account for 5,544 of the 9,483 spring salmon. Figures for the 9,145 coho were 2,098 Strip-Teasers and 1,540 Minnow-Teasers. Rigged minnows, plugged herring and other lures designed to fish herring strip or minnows accounted for the other 2,164 springs and coho caught by bait.

There was no change among the artificials with the Lucky Louie, together with the Tiny Louie and Wee Louie, easily the most widely-used plug and the Tom Mack far the most popular spoon. It was also noted that a smaller percentage of coho were taken this year on bucktail fly, to be expected in view of the fact that it did turn out to be a rather poor year for the silvers. With coho harder to find, anglers resorted more and more to the use of the flasher, used mainly with bait or "baited" lures such as the Minnow-Teaser and Strip-Teaser.

* * *

It's neither the weather or the season for fishing but there is a bit of activity. Anglers have been getting some good-sized springs out of waters near Victoria but it has been mostly a case of picking the right day and the right time.

Saanich Inlet fishing is rated good by Claude Creed, who reports a good concentration of grilse from one and two pounds between Whittaker's Point and McKenzie Bay and between Bamberton and McCurdy Point. Red bucktail flys in the morning have been working. At other times, McKnight or Tom Mack spoons, about No. 3, fished with four ounces of weight appears to be the right ticket. Some springs are also being taken from the mouth of Tod Inlet on the morning tide change, large Strip-Teasers and about four ounces of weight making a good combination.

Anglers out at the Goldstream end of the Inlet are also getting some action. Best fish for some time was taken by Art Mawer and Andy Dore on Wednesday—a 20½-pound spring taken on a Minnow-Teaser about half-way between the Stone House and The Narrows which was part of a catch which included seven smaller springs. Alf Joyce, E. Pederson and Sid Nex have also clicked for fair-sized salmon recently while A. E. Cutler and Tom Ord both have had blueback limits on bucktail fly.

It's still a few weeks early for good steelheading. Anglers have been taking three or four squaretails a day out of the Quinsam and Campbell Rivers but there so far has been no sign of a big run. There is also a report that a few steelhead have been taken from the Salmon River, which last winter was a hot stream indeed, but it should be next month before the salmon is worth a trip.

Only a few steelhead have so far been taken from the Cowichan River. Here, too, action should pick up next month.

Carter Captures 10-Pin Tourney

CHICAGO (AP)—Don Carter, the 1957 champion from St. Louis and a four-time all-star titalist, Friday night captured the $5,000 first prize in the third annual world invitational 10-pin bowling tournament.

A clutch double in the 10th frame of the third game gave the 33-year-old Carter the victory over Billy Golembiewski of Detroit.

Mrs. Olga Gloor, a Chicago housewife, won first prize of $2,500 in the women's division by defeating Donna Zimmerman of Akron, Ohio.

Carter got off on the wrong foot Tuesday, the first day of the finals, when he lost seven of eight games. But his remarkable comeback in the last two days earned him the title and almost certain recognition as bowler of the year for a fifth time.

Carter, who needed to win two of his last four games, lost the first to Golembiewski 226-201 and then dropped the second 224-216. But the St. Louis titlist won the third 186-180 by doubling in the 10th frame an wrapped it up with a 205-204 victory in the finale.

Carter finished with 320.32 Petersen points to Golembiewski's 316.27.

In the women's division, Mrs. Gloor actually grabbed the championship by defeating Miss Zimmerman in the first of the last two games, 182-169. Meanwhile, defending champion Charlotte Grubic, Steeltown, Pa., finished 16th and last.

Mrs. Gloor went into the final game with a 99-pin lead.

Sylvia Wene of Philadelphia finished far down the list but provided some fireworks earlier in the day when she rolled a perfect 300 game—the first by any woman in national match game competition.

Four-Year Contract For Wayne Robinson

Wayne Robinson, who'll go down in football history as the man who finally took B.C. Lions to the playoffs, got his reward yesterday — a four-year contract, possibly the longest coaching contract ever in Canada.

Robinson, 29, Minneapolis-born and a former Minnesota Gopher, Philadelphia Eagle and Winnipeg assistant coach, gave this reason for rejecting an offer to coach the new Minneapolis-St. Paul pro football team:

"I sincerely believe that the Canadian Football League and the B.C. Lions in particular are on the threshold of the greatest period in Canadian football history, and I want to be part of it."

Robinson's backfield coach, Dave Skrein, was rehired with a one-year contract. Terms of both contracts were not disclosed.

* * *

Ken Carpenter, six-year backfielder for Saskatchewan Roughriders, was named coach of the club yesterday as two other Western Interprovincial Football Union teams filled big jobs.

Carpenter, 33, had been a dark horse as speculation centred mainly on Hamilton assistant coach Indian Jack Jacobs and Baylor University coach George Sauer.

Riders gave the former Oregon State and Cleveland Browns star a one-year contract—terms unspecified—because "he is well acquainted with the particular problems affecting the club." Carpenter said that while former coach George Terlep "did a good job for the boys, there will be a few changes."

In Calgary, the Stampeders signed general manager Jim Finks to a three-year contract with the options possibly extending the pact to 10 years. Finks, former Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback, joined Stamps as a player in 1957 but was hurt, then became manager in 1958.

Calgary also announced a surplus of $13,722 on revenue of $459,084 for the past season, cutting the club's deficit to only $2,000.

New Guards Urged For Salmon Supply

The department of fisheries will consider proposals to give additional protection to grilse and salmon in tidal waters where sports fishermen are active.

The proposals, received from various sources during the year, include a suggestion that the minimum size limit of eight inches for salmon caught in tidal waters be increased to 12 inches.

The move is designed to discourage taking of small grilse which are looked to as the future salmon supply.

Growth of crab fishing by skindiving sportsmen has been a factor behind another proposal to introduce restrictions in order to conserve crab supplies. The suggestion is to fix a new daily "personal use" limit of six crabs of legal size per person.

Fivepin Tourney Three-Alley Affair

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Victoria - Vancouver Island Kingpin Association, formed last year but inactive until a couple of months ago, is going into business in a big way.

Its first tournament is being billed as an unofficial city championship — for five pins only, of course—and the affair looks like a good deal.

"Championship" part of the tournament, the A division, is a scratch competition Dec. 19 and 20. It opens in Esquimalt Bowladrome at 2 p.m. Dec. 19, then continues the next day in Capital City at 10 a.m. and Gibson's at 2.30 p.m.

There's no limit on averages and entry fee is $10. Prizes should come out to one for every seven men and one for every four women, with the top award at least $50.

Entries definitely close at midnight Thursday. Forms can be obtained from Reg Waggoner, Dick Jewsbury, Cy Waters, Jim Gallant, Herb Hunt and Ken Jones.

Only bowlers in Kingpin-affiliated leagues can take part but Kingpin memberships can be obtained for 50 cents. Each bowler must complete 18 games in the A section and tournament officials report that in addition to city entrants, several up-Islanders are expected.

They also hope many women will enter, since Victoria could use a city ladies' championship and this would be a good test.

Three other divisions of the Kingpin tourney started Monday and end Dec. 18. These are six-game events with a 70 per cent handicap and smaller entrance fees.

★ ★ ★

Most of the city's bowlers seemed to be spending the week Christmas-shopping — as the fairly small number of good scores later in this column shows.

They also seem to be thinking of something else when the talk gets around to the fund for Steve McGaw, the former Strathcona pinboy who lost part of a leg recently as a result of a June traffic crash.

So far, the fund stands at $240 and some change, which is a long way from the $1,000 or so needed to give Steve a course in cabinet-making after he gets an artificial leg soon.

Only plans to help at the moment are collection cans, which is a slow process. For example, one league for which Steve set pins for two years gave a mere 30 cents in its can.

Surely, Victoria's thousands of bowlers can do better than that.

Gibson's second annual Christmas tournament — tenpin doubles and fivepin singles — expects 175 entries this time, compared to slightly more than 100 last year.

Dates are Dec. 26 to Jan. 3 and, for doubles, it's a scratch 200 tournament with 70 per cent handicap, three games to play and guaranteed prizes of $100 for men and $75 for mixed teams.

Singles are divided into two divisions, 200 and up average in the A section, below 200 in the B, with a 75 per cent handicap, four games and guaranteed $50 first awards in each.

★ ★ ★

Victoria bowlers are doing well in the three-member team tournament of Nanaimo's Brechin Fivepin Association, which started Nov. 21 and ends Sunday. A group led by Gerry Girard, Al Nelthorpe and Al Smithermen is well up heading into final play.

★ ★ ★

Only a week after Harold Paulding got 10 straight strikes, then had to settle for 285, Pete Blancard of the Wednesday Commercial League at Gibson's got 10 straight strikes—then had to settle for 280 and the second best tenpin single game of the season. His three-game total was 587.

Week's best tenpin triple was Jim Mills' 636 (225, 214) is Gibson's Senior play Tuesday. Leading fivepinners were Keith Todd with 887 in the Monday Major League at Capital City and Gary Roskamp with 378 in Esquimalt's Sunday Mixed League.

Rangers' Big Shoot Feature of Weekend

South Vancouver Island Rangers will hold their annual turkey shoot Sunday at 9.30 a.m. at the Ranger grounds located off Happy Valley Road one mile from Glen Lake P.O.

Entries are restricted to large-bore rifles with any type of sights including scopes, for running deer targets that will feature the meet.

No provision has been made this year for sighting-in rifles. Entrants are advised of this change and that the Rangers have recently completed a regulation trap-house which will provide scatter-gun events under field conditions.

The regulation 100-yard target events will be included in the program.

Proceeds will be used to help complete the Junior Rangers' clubhouse and indoor range now under construction.

Lions' Emblem On Beer Steins

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bill Veeck and Jack Kent Cooke are known in baseball circles as gimmick men. Veeck of the Chicago White Sox and Cooke of Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League, have used clowns, midgets and just about any stunt imaginable to get people into their ball parks.

But they have nothing on general manager Herb Capozzi of the British Columbia Lions football club. He needs only someone to open the stadium doors to get crowds in record numbers at their Western Interprovincial Football Union games.

Herb and company spring their off-beat shenanigans after the fotball season. Now, as a special favor to Christmas shoppers, they are peddling merchandise stamped with the Lions emblem.

WIDE VARIETY

A couple of weeks ago season ticket subscribers and members of the Lions club received in the mail an illustrated catalogue listing for sale such items as beer steins, clothing, lighters, football helmets, footballs, coffee mugs, ashtrays, cigaret lighters and so on. The merchants in Vancouver haven't been heard from, but it is likely they are annoyed with the Lions.

Leroy Goldsworthy, one-time National Hockey League player with the New York Rangers, Cricago Black Hawks, Boston Bruins and the old New York Americans, and a golf pro in Vancouver, received a catalogue and told newspaper columnist Eric Whitehead:

"What are they running anyway, a football club or a hamburger stand? I bought my membership for football, period."

Whitehead commented:

"Capozzi Enterprises Inc. are obviously merely trying to make an honest buck or two for the operation on the side, a commendable aim. However, judging from general reaction, this well-intentioned venture into retail sales might prove to be ill-advised, and could boomerang."

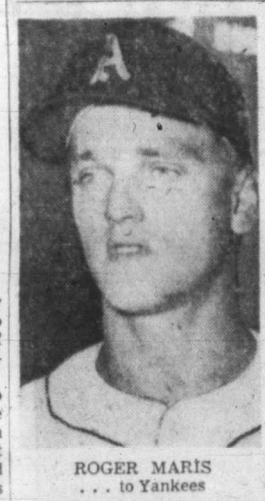

SOLID ASSETS

Capozzi could have made a lot of friends in football if he had put up for sale some of those Canadian players the Lions have sent to U.S. colleges for expert coaching. From all reports some of these chaps will be ready for shipment back to Vancouver in a year or two and the Lions will probably have the best Canadian talent in the pro game.

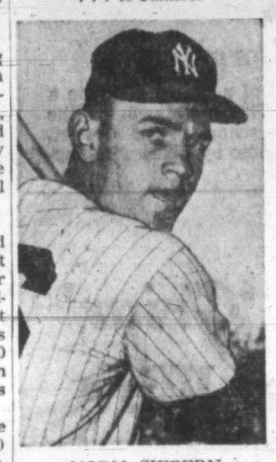

Maybe, too, he should put on a big selling campaign for the 1960 Grey Cup final at Vancouver's Empire Stadium. A pitch was made in Toronto by some Vancouver people before the Winnipeg Blue Bomber-Tiger-Cat game, but no decision will be made until the Canadian Football League annual meeting is held in Winnipeg in February.

Gate receipts at the Cup final this year were approximately $304,000, an increase of $11,000 over ticket sales for the 1958 classic at Vancouver. Money talks with CFL members and that will be an important point when football men get down to business of deciding the 1960 venue.

Seven Players Shifted Around In Yankee-Kansas City Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees Friday obtained outfielder Roger Maris and gave up Don (No-Hit) Larsen in a seven player trade with Kansas City Athletics.

The Athletics, who have made numerous previous transactions with the Yankees, also received outfielders Norm Siebern and Hank Bauer and first baseman-outfielder Marv Throneberry.

In addition to Maris, the Yanks got shortstop Joe DeMaestri and first baseman Kent Hadley. The deal nullified a New York player obligation resulting from last summer's trade in which Hector Lopez moved to New York.

The Yankees also announced they had signed outfielder Elmer Valo, a free agent. Valo played part of last season with Cleveland which gave him his unconditional release during the world series.

"We have tried unsuccessfully to trade with other clubs in both leagues," said Yankees' general manager George Weiss. "The Yanks and Kansas City have faith in each other."

A Yankees spokesman said that DeMaestri, a shortstop, would probably be used as trade bait.

Yankees manager Casey Stengal axpressed satisfaction over the shifts. He said he planned to use Maris in left field, Mickey Mantle in centre and Lopez in right.

Maris, who began his big league career with Cleveland, batted .273 with 16 homers and 72 runs batted in last season. DeMaestri hit .244 and Hadley .253.

Siebern had defensive difficulties in left field although his batting was adequate. Norm hit .271 with 11 homers and 53 RBI. Bauer wound up with a .238 batting mark. Hank, 37, has spent all of his 11 big league seasons with the Yankees. Throneberry had a .240 batting mark as a part-time performer.

Larsen, 30, hurled the only perfect game in world series history in the fifth game of the 1956 series against the Dodgers before their shift from Brooklyn to Los Angeles. He has been bothered by arm trouble the last two years and compiled a 6-7 won-lost figure in 1959.

'Rigged' Wrestling Headed for Court?

OTTAWA (UPI) — Crown prosecutor Raoul Mercier is prepared to put a legal full-nelson on professional wrestlers who take part in "rigged" bouts.

"If we can get evidence that the actions of professional wrestlers in the ring are not sincere we will prosecute the performers for engaging in a rigged sports contest," he said.

The crown attorney, a sometimes viewer of televised wrestling, labelled the grunt-'n'-groan trade a farce.

He asked:

"Do you think for one minute I believe that a wrestling match is honest when one muscle-bound giant jumps in the air and stomps on his horizontal opponent's stomach, then smashes him a couple of times in the face with his elbow, and that the poor 'victim' on the floor gets up at the end of the bout and strolls out of the ring completely revived?"

Furthermore, Mercier said, "when two scowling enemies then board a train the same night to stage a similar exhibition in another town, how can anyone believe it's an honest contest?"

Mercier, speaking during a discussion on illegal lotteries, gaming and sport, said police officers would have to view wrestling bouts with a "great deal of concentration" to get enough evidence for a prosecution.

Rugby, Soccer Games Moved to New Parks

Use of three parks for rugby and soccer this weekend was denied yesterday by city officials, forcing a major shuffle in the schedules of both sports.

In the Victoria Rugby Union, James Bay and Oak Bay Reds were moved from Macdonald Park to Royal Roads because of poor condition of the grounds. They'll start at 2.30 today with the Royal Roads-Navy game, originally set for that time, now at 10.30 a.m.

Reds can tie James Bay for first place as the league ends its pre-Christmas schedule.

In the Victoria and District Soccer League, Navy and Evcoes have been shifted from Athletic Park to Beacon Hill at 2 p.m. today, while Scottish and Ladysmith have been moved from Heywood to Beacon Hill at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

Brodies-Esquimalt game planned for Central Park tomorrow has been concelled.

Only other league action during the weekend sees Kickers meeting Thistles at Reynolds Road at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Drivers Checked

Police Resume Big Campaign Against Drink

City police last night launched the second major offensive of their Christmas season campaign against drinking drivers.

Without advance warning to possible offenders, half a dozen motorcycle patrolmen and men on foot conducted a series of spot checks that ran from the evening through the early hours today.

No arrests were made for impaired or drunken driving, but two cars were impounded and their "borderline case" drivers sent home; 12 motorists will have to appear in court for traffic offences; 117 other drivers will have to show repairs effected within 48 hours or be summonsed.

The web will tighten as the holidays approach, Chief Constable John Blackstock indicated last night.

"There will be more to follow before Christmas," he said. "We'll put the impaired in their place."

Article Causes Furore

OTTAWA (CP) — CPR counsel Ian Sinclair rose at Friday's session of the royal commission on transportation to take exception to what he called a "scandalous article" in Tuesday's Regina Leader-Post.

He said the Ottawa report by Robert Moon suggested that M. A. MacPherson of Regina, acting chairman of the commission, is "partisan against the views that might be presented by the railways."

THAT'S WRONG

"I know that is wrong," Mr. Sinclair said.

Almost every other lawyer appearing before the commission, including representatives of the three Prairie provinces and grain interests, expressed confidence in Mr. MacPherson's personal integrity.

Mr. Moon, Leader-Post correspondent in Ottawa, said later that "it was not my intention by the article to attack the integrity of Mr. MacPherson."

Work Situation 'Grim' Pearkes Told in Wire

Urgent wires were sent yesterday to Defence Minister Pearkes requesting immediate allocation of naval refit work to provide jobs for some 1,000 unemployed shipyard workers in Greater Victoria.

James McConachy, business agent for the boilermakers' union, informed the minister that the situation in local shipyards was "deteriorating rapidly" and added that the number of his union members employed at Yarrows Ltd. is down to 15.

NO CHRISTMAS

The wire said "unless any naval refit or conversion work at present being contemplated is advnaced as soon as possible . . . there will be no Christmas for shipyard employees here."

The union spokesman said Victoria member of parliament A. DeB. McPhillips agreed to send a second wire to the minister on behalf of the shipyard workers.

REALLY GRIM

"The situation is really grim," said Mr. McConachy. "We have 150 of our members walking the streets and there is no prospect of new construction in sight for the Yarrows yard."

A spokesman for the metal trades council which represents some 90 per cent of shipyard workers in Victoria said total unemployed figures for its members are around 1,000.

40 WORKERS

He also estimated there are only about 40 outside workers employed at Yarrows.

Mr. McConachy said employment for his union members at Victoria Machinery Depot and HMC Dockyard is "holding up well" at present.

Canvassers Checked Out

Brush with Law Ends in Laugh

Canvassers for the Retarded Children's Society are good saleswomen, but two of them had trouble Thursday night convincing Saanich police they shouldn't be arrested.

The story came out between chuckles yesterday as the two canvassers, who didn't wish to be identified, explained their brief brush with the law.

RECEIPT NOT SIGNED

A donor in the Ten Mile Point area became suspicious when he noticed his receipt was not signed. He phoned police, telling them the canvassers had referred to their chairman as Mrs. Hertzberg.

Police couldn't locate any Mrs. Hertzberg, so they caught up with the canvassers, who referred them to the society's Mrs. Winnifred Clark. She couldn't be located either, but was finally traced through Spencerhouse and straightened out the mixup. The canvassers and police officers had a good laugh, and the canvass continued.

NOT LISTED

"It was just a chain of coincidence," Mrs. Clark explained. "Mrs. Hertzberg and I have just moved to new addresses recently and our phones aren't listed."

The Retarded Children's Society is conducting a week-long campaign for funds, and Mrs. Clark emphasized that the receipts now being issued are perfectly legitimate, do not have to be signed by the canvasser, and will serve for deduction for income tax.

HELD UP

"Our official receipt were held up for three weeks by customs officers in Quebec," she said. "And we are using these interim receipts for the campaign."

The canvass continues tonight, and canvassers may be identified by their society buttons and blue triangular badges.

"We'd much rather see someone give them money than have them arrested," Mrs. Clark laughed. "It serves a better purpose."

Esquimalt's Reeve Asks Big Vote

Reeve A. C. Wurtele last night urged Esquimalt voters to turn out in large numbers Thursday to mark their ballots for council candidates and the fluoridation referendum.

"In a public-spirited municipality like ours," the reeve said, "we should have a big turnout of voters. Our fine candidates merit it. And it is very important we have the views of the people of fluoridation."

Stressing the importance of obtaining from all parts of Greater Victoria an expression of opinion on the contentious issue, the reeve said: "It is neither here nor there that Victoria has turned down fluoridation. I hope all voters will turn out and vote as their conscience dictates."

Youth Grabs Purse, $50

Mrs. B. Myatt, 550 Dallas Road, told police that while she was walking near her home at 5.50 p.m. yesterday, a youth about 19 years old grabbed her purse and ran across Dallas towards the water.

The black leather purse contained $50 in bills, some change, personal papers, bank and cheque books and a woman's wrist watch. Police searched the area without result.

Scurrah Swallows Chagrin

Statement of Deputy Transport Minister John Baldwin to the Colonist that runway extension at Patricia Bay airport is a long-term project is "disappointing, but if that's the situation, there's no object in complaining," Mayor Percy Scurrah said yesterday.

"Now the thing to do is to try in every way possible to speed up the development," he said.

LITTLE LIKELIHOOD

Mr. Baldwin said in a telephone conversation that there was little likelihood of runway extension soon, but that the department hoped a new administration building could be started next year within the amount of money budgeted for airport work.

A DeB. McPhillips, Victoria Conservative MP, said yesterday he was "quite satisfied" that a start on the new administration building will be made in 1960, although, he said, "it will take two years from start to finish." He also said it may not be in the same location as the present building.

PURE JET

As for the runways, he said that "they can take practically anything now — North Stars, Super Constellations, DC6Rs, the Comet, which is a pure jet."

Mr. McPhillips reiterated that Victoria should turn some of its attention to pressing for better aircraft on the Trans-Canada Air Lines service between Victoria and Vancouver.

He said a Vancouver report indicated that "we are going to have those wretched old flying birdcages until the end of 1961."

Wild Fight Nets Fortune in Gems

LONDON (UPI)—Scotland Yard detectives ambushed two men Friday night and recovered in a wild fight $280,000 in jewelery stolen in London's chain reaction jewelry robberies last October.

Other detectives searched houses throughout the city in a drive to recover all of the $700,000 to $1,000,000 in jewels stolen in the largest jewel robbery in British history.

The two men arrested were to be charged in court later.

Two teams of Flying Squad detectives pounced on the pair in London's Wembley section in the first break of the robbery which had been successful beyond the robbers' greatest dreams.

Teams of burglars broke into one branch of the goldsmiths and silversmiths association and found keys to three other branches as they moved from store to store, taking only the choice jewelry in each place.

The Yard's "Operation Tom Tom" as they called the

The jewelry search reached a climax when two men left an apartment and tried to drive away. Detectives poured from innocent-looking trucks and subdued the men in a slugfest that raged up and down the street.

A search of the apartment disclosed $280,000 in gems police said was being prepared for shipment out of the country.

Fraser River Prediction

2,000,000 Sockeye Catch Forecast for Next Year

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (CP) — A minimum Fraser River sockeye catch next year of 2,000,000 fish — divided equally between Canadian and American fishermen — was forecast Friday by the director of the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission.

Lloyd Royal, of New Westminster, B.C., said the figure compares with a total catch of 3,390,000 sockeye in 1959. He was making his annual report to the fishing industry, attended here by more than 300 Canadians and Americans.

A report from the commission listed recommendations for opening and closing dates in international waters. Its recommendations were made on the assumption that the Canadian and American fleet would remain about the same.

The Canadian fleet is about 45 purse seiners and 100 gillnetters. The Americans have about 170 purse seiners, 315 gillnetters and 70 reef net gears.

Royal said the four-year cycle which includes 1960 is normally very light, with the Chilko River the only main spawning area. A catch of 2,000,000 fish would be a healthy one for the cycle year.

In Canadian convention waters west of William Head, purse seiners will be permitted three days' fishing weekly from July 17 to Aug. 7, and gill netters three nights of fishing weekly.

Cruise to Orient Set for Escorts

Destroyer escorts of Pacific Command will make a cruise to the Orient early in the New Year, The Daily Colonist learned yesterday.

Naval headquarters at Esquimalt refused to confirm unofficial reports that the ships will leave in February for a series of visits to Far Eastern countries including Japan.

LONG DURATION

Several destroyer escorts of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron will make the cruise, the first one of long duration for ships of the squadron in two years.

Unconfirmed reports also indicate there is a possibility that some of the navy ships will visit South American ports.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

An official statement by a naval spokesman said merely: "Spring cruises are under active consideration but until final arrangements have been made no information can be given."

The gaur, a type of bison found in Burma and India, is a black animal standing about six feet high.

Eastern Demand Drops

Holly Harvest Halted By Slump in Market

Half of Vancouver Island's bumper holly crop hasn't even been harvested and won't be because of a slump in eastern markets, a spokesman for the Vancouver Island Holly Growers' Co-Operative Association said last night.

"We don't know definitely yet, but there are rumors that the Americans are moving in on our markets in Ontario," said Maj. George Wiggan, manager of the holly growers' association. "What could have been our best year yet has turned into a comparatively poor one."

LARGEST TO DATE

Earlier this year, Island growers anticipated shipping all of its 100,000-pound crop, the largest grown to date. But only 50,000 pounds has been shipped so far and there is no market for the other 50,000 pounds, he said.

Last year, 62,000 pounds of holly was shipped as far east as Prince Edward Island and as far north as Yellowknife. This was to be the most profitable year to date for the co-operative, with the 100,000-pound crop valued at a gross of between $80,000 and $100,000.

CUT IN HALF

Instead, the profit has been cut in half, with growers standing to lose out on at least $40,000.

"There wasn't a great deal of competition last year, and we had more holly than orders anyway," Maj. Wiggan said. "The steel strike in Ontario, and the American growers moving in as they did, has really hurt our market."

WHOLLY DEPENDENT

Only five or six growers on Vancouver Island are wholly dependent on their holly crop for support, he said, but there are many farmers and retired people who use the crop for supplementary income.

Clergy Cloaks Views On Mixed Marriages

Members of Greater Victoria's clergy were reluctant to express an opinion on the controversial subject of mixed marriage.

In a survey taken by The Daily Colonist, only two ministers would allow themselves to be quoted. As a general rule, the others said they would perform such a marriage, but would not give the practice their unqualified approval.

The matter came up when Seventh-Day Adventist elder Kenneth McComas of Toronto changed his mind at the last minute and refused to officiate at the wedding of Gloria Woods of Victoria and Alfred Graves, a Jamaican. The couple was later married by a Negro minister of the Baptist Church.

One of the most outspoken of the Victoria clergy was Rev. A. I. Higgins of First United Church.

"Certainly I would perform the ceremony, if everything else was in order," he said. "What's wrong with it?

"If race is the only thing involved, there's no reason why a couple of different race should not be married. Many English boys came back from serving in India with brides from that country."

"We have no definite ruling against such marriages," said Rev. J. H. James of the Free Methodist Church. "There are many implications involved, but I would certainly perform the ceremony if asked. But I wouldn't recommend such a marriage too strongly."

Missionary Veteran At Citadel

Commissioner A. H. Barnett, veteran missionary with the Salvation Army, will be guest speaker at the Salvation Army Citadel Sunday at the 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. services.

Commissioner Barnett has served in India, Ceylon and South Africa and held executive posts in the U.K. He was decorated with the Order of the British Empire for outstanding service during war.

Now retired, he is on a speaking tour of Western Canada.

To Combat Clergy Shortage

Layman in Demand

Formation of a lay foundation to combat the drastic shortage of ministers has been announced by the B.C. Conference Lay Association of the United Church of Canada.

Purposes of the foundation, listed in an association bulletin, are: to encourage men and women to devote their lives to some form of full-time service in the United Church of Canada;

To arouse lay people to an awareness of the need for a vastly expanded program for securing such recruits;

To render financial assistance to such men and women wherever possible;

To provide an opportunity for all lay people, either individually or in groups, to participate in this effort and to actively encourage them to do so.

A recent issue of The Observer, the United Church paper, charges that the church seems too apathetic about its manpower shortage.

The United Church, it points out, now has 646 fewer ordained ministers in full active work than there were 34 years ago, and in that time the United Church has doubled in size.

Carol Services Planned

Senior and junior choirs of Oak Bay United Church will hold their candlelight carol service tomorrow at 4 p.m.

Special pre-Christmas music will be sung at both services tomorrow at First United Church, and Wednesday at 8.15 p.m. the choir will present its 12th annual "Carols in the Candlelight" program.

Candlelight service at St. Aidan's Church will be held Dec. 20 at 7.30 p.m.

Villa Drive Nets $24,709

Residents of Greater Victoria have contributed more than $24,709 to the Kiwanis Villa porchlight campaign, chairman Reg N. E. Harris has announced.

The total included an anonymous donation of $3,000—and to all donors Mr. Harris has voiced the club's thanks for their help in the building program for deserving elderly citizens.

He also thanked the many who took part in the campaign itself.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Speaking at the Calgary Synagogue for my friend, Rabbi Wiesenberg, on "The Jew Behind the Iron Curtain," I was impressed again by the warm, kindly spirit of the Jews. If I made a list of friends and kindnesses remembered, Jews would have a large proportion.

Irrational pathological conflict is the saddest phenomenon of our day and the root of the world's misery. No loaded word is so dangerous as "race." Race relations are fertile soil for hostilities and fears stemming from insecurity. Every frustrated human being tries to find a scapegoat. The Jews have been a convenient one. As Mr. Gilman frankly states in Galsworthy's play, Loyalties, "I don't like . . . 'Ebrews. They work harder; they're more sober; they're honest; and they're everywhere. I have nothing against them, but the fact is—they get on so."

Socrates saw a man essentially as a reasonable being who loved the truth. No. Truth means nothing when it runs against blind prejudice—"Jews have always been sharp traders." This is false. When merchants are referred to in the Bible it is always as foreigners. That the Jews are natural farmers is amply demonstrated in the miracle of modern Israel.

What could be more irrational than Hitler's description of race as those "sharing the same spirit" and thereby dividing humanity into "Aryans" and "Jews"? What could be more irrational than a "Christian" persecution of the Jew? A basic Christian concept is that "God is no respecter of persons. There is neither Greek nor Jew, neither slave nor free." Yet the persecution of the Jew in "Christian" countries is the most fearful and tragic thing in history.

Crusades an Example

Take, for example, the Crusades. The killing of a Jew was considered a virtuous act which led to Heaven. As they marched from Northern France through the Rhineland and the South they left a bloody trail of slaughtered Jewish communities including little children. To escape the ferocity of the Crusaders, mothers killed their children and whole communities set fire to their buildings and burned themselves alive.

Whenever a plague broke out Jews were accused of poisoning the wells.

Although church leaders have protested against persecution, a fearful weight lies on the Christian conscience. Yet to no race does humanity owe so much.

The Christian Church of Europe showed great courage in standing up for the Jew against Nazi persecution. The Danish Kaimmunk was only one martyr who declared, "I would rather die with the Jews than live with the Nazis." The question Christians ask and must keep on asking themselves is, "How did Christian countries ever fall into such moral rottenness that mass extermination of the Jews could take place?"

My wife and I were amazed by the theatre hit of "The Dairy of Anne Frank" in Berlin and West Germany. Everywhere there were packed houses and amazing ovations with sobbing audiences. As Schiller said, "The stage becomes the tribunal."

Anti-Jewish prejudice exists in Canada. We must ruthlessly cut it out. It is a rotten thing.

Woman Hurt In Collision

Rosemary Petrant, 21, 2320 Howard, a passenger, was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital for a bump on the head, abrasions and shock, after a car driven by Gustof Petrant, of the same address, was in collision with a car driven by Wilfred Bates, 1618 Cedar Avenue, at Shakespeare and Denman at 5.50 p.m. yesterday.

Mount Cook, reaching 12,350 feet, is the highest peak of the Southern Alps, which stretch 100 miles in New Zealand.

Garden Notes

Time to Take Cuttings

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

For most backyard gardeners, work in the garden these days is necessarily confined to weekends, and the hours available are not always enough to take care of all the jobs that accumulate through the week. The main thing is to allot top priority to the most pressing chores, particularly those which involve the fate of living plants.

The work schedule should include such tasks as staking and tying any small trees or shrubs which are coming adrift in the wind, and firming the soil around any recently planted specimens. Another job of high priority is the taking of cuttings, which come under two headings—soft-wooded and hard-wooded.

I mention the taking of cuttings now, not because this is the best time of the year for the job, for actually August is better for most of the shrubby or woody subjects, but because so much valuable material comes available at this time of the year during pruning operations.

If your neighbor, say, is doing a clean-up job on his flowering shrubs, his fruit bushes, or on his hedge, this is a good time to snaffle some of his prunings to start some plants for your own garden.

The following subjects will root quite readily from cuttings taken now, with anywhere from 50 to 80 per cent "taking" with reasonable luck and care: Buddleia or Butterfly Bush, Deutzia, Forsythia, Kerria japonica, Philadelphus or Mock Orange, all the Ribes family, including the ornamental flowering currants, the black and red currants, and the gooseberry; the shrubby Spiraeas such as Anthony Waterer, and Tamarix.

The best shoots for this purpose are from young wood which has been produced and ripened this past summer, and these can usually be distinguished by the absence of side shoots or branches and by its smoother, paler bark. Each long shoot will make several cuttings, dividing them into sections 9 to 12 inches long

Make the upper cut slanting and halfway between two joints, and the lower cut straight across and about half an inch below a joint. By cutting them in this way, you will be able to distinguish which end is which, and you won't be led into planting them upside down.

Pruning shears or secateurs are seldom sharp enough for this job, as any crushing of the wood is bad business. Use a very sharp knife or an old razor blade with a slicing or rocking motion, but make sure the blade doesn't go through suddenly and slit the ball of your thumb—an accident which is particularly common when cutting hollow-stemmed shoots.

I wouldn't dream of taking a cutting of any kind without using a hormone rooting powder, as roots are produced much more surely and speedily with this chemical aid. Rootone costs only 25 cents for a quarter-ounce packet, and this is enough to do at least 100 slips. Simply moisten the lower cut end, dip it in the powder, and tap it gently to dislodge any excess. Only a thin film of the dust is required—too much is worse than not enough.

The cuttings are inserted 2 to 3 inches apart in an outdoor bed of very sandy soil with a half-inch surfacing of pure, coarse sand. Push them in to a depth of about 5 inches, and give one good watering to firm the soil and bring it into close contact with the base of each slip. Thereafter, try to maintain the cutting bed just a little on the dry side.

It's Real People Now

If there is a trend in show business, it is toward biography—real people, in short. On Broadway, the big smash musicals—"Gypsy" (about Gypsy Rose Lee), "Sound of Music" (about the Trapp family), "Fiorello!" (about Mayor La Guardia)—are all about real people as is the big non-musical smash "The Miracle Worker," which is about little Helen Keller and her teacher Annie Sullivan.

The movies have been doing it for years—particularly show people like Red Nichols, the Foy family, Joe E. Lewis, Ruth Etting, Al Jolson, or criminals like Dillinger or Capone, or scientists like Pasteur or Madame Curie, or schizophrenics like whatsher-name, or even—for heaven's sake—columnists like Sheilah Graham.

We on television have not been free from this madness either. One of Playhouse 90's more memorable evenings was the Helen Morgan story which catapulted Polly Bergen into the limelight. One of television's more disreputable but successful ventures is "This Is Your Life" which, too, is an excursion into biography, though a sleazy one. Even the Westerns are dotted with specimens like "Wyatt Earp" and "Bat Masterson" who have at least a nodding acquaintance with actuality, the distant breath of history upon them.

I don't know what to make of this, exactly, except as an indication that our creative writers have blown a fuse somewhere and can't make up their own stories. Insofar as the tastes of the public go, I think this mania for biography is a good thing, betraying a thirst for plain truth that is heartening. (Incidentally, the big book of the year is "Act One," Moss Hart's autobiography, of his early life and hard times in the theatre.)

On television, most recently we've had the life of Eli Whitney on the "American Heritage" series and on Sunday NBC will present an even more intimate venture into biography—"The Indestructible Mr. Gore" which is about the late Sen. Thomas P. Gore, written and narrated by his maternal grandson, Gore Vidal.

Mr. Vidal, a marvelously fertile writer, once erupted novels, plays, movies and television scripts with fearful abundance but the flow of creative lava has slowed with the years. This will be his first venture near a TV camera in four years and he admits that only his grandfather could have lured him back to the frenzy of television.

"My grandfather was quite a man. He brought Oklahoma into the Union in 1907. He was blind from the age of ten. The story is about how he went to Corsicana, Tex., to run for Congress on the Populist ticket and was smeared when a man attempted to claim he got a blind girl pregnant. My grandfather handled the whole affair quite nicely. They had him at gun point and were going to make him marry the girl—a shotgun wedding—and he just turned his back on the gun and walked away.

"It's too bad I can't tell the entire story. He'd met the girl at a church social and the affair turned him against churches. From that time on, he never set foot in a church, didn't believe in God, and never mentioned God again in a speech. Quite a difficult feat for a Southern Senator."

Mr. Vidal, who is one of the umpteen writers to work on the movie "Ben Hur," is disgusted with the current state of television. "They're 90 per cent adaptations. Audrey Gellen and Jackie Babbin of Talent Associates can easily do every adaptation on the air. They're not hard.

★ ★ ★

"I walked into rehearsal the other day and heard and actor saying 'What do you mean?' The line I'd written was 'Are you crazy?' Why was the line changed, I asked. Then I realized—you can't say 'crazy' on the air. I knew I was right back where I started.'

Diva Callas Dates Her Ex

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Maria Callas is back to dating her estranged husband, G. B. Meneghini. Where does this leave Aristotle Onassis? Seems he has been left by 'most everyone. With all that lovely money, too. Or will he wed the lady whose initials were cited in his wife's divorce suit?

★ ★ ★

Wealthy actress Dina Merrill, the girl with the Grace Kelly look, surprised them in London when she arrived wearing a simple nylon dress, with a glass bead necklace. They expected her, says Dina, in minks and diamonds, always referring to her as "the world's richest film star." She is.

★ ★ ★

Phil Silvers, who will never be allowed to forget his Sergeant Bilko title, is working on his forthcoming musical, "Do, Re, Mi," at Las Vegas between rehearsals for his Christmas show. This title is a song in the Mary Martin show in New York. Won't they have to change it?

★ ★ ★

Wonder why Rex Harrison was so terribly nervous on his "Fighting Cock" play opening night, which was too talky and airy, I thought. Rex can never give a bad performance but English translations of French plays are always a hazard.

★ ★ ★

Charles Laughton is the logical choice for the play version of "Advise and Consent" which will run its course on Broadway before Otto Preminger makes the movie version of the best-selling novel.

★ ★ ★

The postponement of the Ginger Rogers-Agnes Moorhead play, "Pink Jungle," means returning to the customers a $500,000 advance. I very much believe in postponement or cancellations when the goods don't measure up to the promise.

★ ★ ★

When Elana Eden received the usual deluge of flowers for her opening day in the movie at 20th-Fox, "The Story of Ruth," she exclaimed, "I feel like a movie star"—quite forgetting that she is. As Ruth, Elana plays the ancestress of King David and of Christ — according to the 20th Century-Fox research department. I didn't know they had been in business so long.

★ ★ ★

Tom Tryon, who plays Ruth's husband Mahlon in the same movie, has just finished his "Texas John Slaughter" TV series for the season. His boss, Walt Disney, is joining a couple of the segments back to back to release in England as a feature movie. Tom works six months a year with Disney, makes two pictures a year for 20th. He's a bachelor and dates Betty Lynn, who used to play Bette Davis's daughter in films a decade ago.

Looks like Henry Fonda will sign with daughter Jane for the April 7 du Pont show of the month. Producer David Susskind suggested the idea to Henry, and he likes it.

Hollywood Stars Glitter — Because of Marvin

Borrowed Baubles Best

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — All that glitters does not necessarily belong to the movie queen bedecked in flashing jewelry.

This is the party season in Hollywood, and it's a rare film beauty who does not adorn herself with expensive earrings, necklaces and bracelets. Most of the diamonds belong to the stars, but some are borrowed.

When a special occasion arises the glamour girls don't trade baubles, they visit one of the most popular men in Beverly Hills—a guy who lends them diamonds, pearls, rubies and, well, you name it.

Is he a playboy? A Texas oil man? A South American polo player?

Huh-uh. He's Marvin Hime, a happily married, balding jeweler who lends more than $250,000 in jewelry for star-studded parties, academy award nights and the like.

Numbered among his customers are such beauties as Rhonda Fleming, Martha Hyer, Anna Maria Alberghetti, Anita Ekberg, Jayne Mansfield, Gale Storm, Phyllis Kirk and Joan Collins.

Hime loans the girls thousands of dollars worth of gems for nothing, but it pays off in the long run. He also sells more diamonds to the stars than any man in the business.

"When the stars decide to buy jewelry, they come to me," he beamed. "More often than not, when a girl borrows a special piece of jewelry a few times she becomes attached to it. Later her husband or boy friend comes in and buys it for her."

Hime explained that many celebrities can afford to buy the borrowed gems, but don't wish to spend a huge sum for a single thing-a-ma-jig that might be worn only once or twice a year.

"There's no sense in buying a $10,000 tiara to go with one certain gown," he said. "So the girls use my shop as their personal jewel box.

"I like to help the stars build their diamond wardrobe. The pieces must be blended carefully and look distinctive. My big problem is persuading them not to buy everything at once. Good stones must be accumulated slowly."

Hime listed Greer Garson, Merle Oberon, Lana Turner, Elizabeth Taylor and Dinah Shore as owning the finest jewel collections in movietown.

"Diamonds are not as expensive as people think," Hime concluded.

All of which serves to note that if diamonds aren't a girl's best friend, perhaps Marvin is.

Sorrowful Chief Mungo Martin

Gives B.C. Valuable Collection

'When This Is Gone I Will Have a New Life'

By ALEC MERRIMAN

"When this is gone, I will have a new life."

Those were the emotional words of tear-stained Chief Mungo Martin yesterday when he turned over ownership of his entire family collection of masks and other ceremonial equipment to the provincial museum.

For the chief the occasion was a sad one, because over the years he had passed on the rights to the masks and dances to his only son, David Martin, who was drowned in a fishing accident last September. On David's death Chief Mungo lost not only his son, but the successor who was to have carried on the family tradition.

At yesterday's ceremony in Kwakiutl House in Thunderbird Park, which was built by Chief Mungo and his son, the chief told the small crowd "my wife and I thought night after night if it was right or wrong to give these away. With them we could not forget our son."

Tears welled in Chief Mungo's eyes as he said:

"Now he is gone. Now I am alone. I don't want to see these masks any more."

He spoke in his native Kwakiutl tongue which was translated by his granddaughter, Helen Hunt.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson, who received the masks for the provincial museum, said he did so with "mixed feelings . . . happy because Chief Mungo made them available . . . and sad because of the loss of his son."

The collection includes 14 masks, several rattles, whistles, drums, costumes and a painted cloth screen. Some of the masks are very old and were passed down to Chief Mungo by older members of his tribe. Some, however, are new, having been specially carved for dances celebrating the opening of the Kwakiutl House in 1953. Ten of the masks depict various animals such as the mouse, raccoon, deer, and kingfisher and were used in the family's hereditary Dance of the Animals. Two others represent the huge-bird-like Cannibal Spirit. The whistles blow with a variety of tones and are the "voices" of the masks.

By Indian custom the masks should not be used again. In earlier times they would have been burned to accompany the owner to the land of the dead. But Chief Mungo preferred that they should be preserved in the museum.

The government has provided for a special grant of $1,000 to purchase them.

The collection will go on show in the museum on Monday.

Chief Starts on Big Totem For Scout Headquarters

Chief Mungo Martin has started carving a 60-foot totem pole for the Provincial Council of Boy Scouts to give to the National Headquarters of the Boy Scouts Association, in Ottawa.

The totem pole is being carved to fit a definite architecture feature of the new Ottawa buildings. The 60-foot pole is designed to offset the strictly modern severity of the building.

Doubts 7½-Mill Boost

Tax Hike Remark Pure Guesswork Says Chatterton

Reeve George Chatterton last night took issue with statements made at an all-candidate election meeting Thursday concerning probability of a 7½-mill tax increase next year for Saanich.

He described the statements as "pure guesswork" and added "in my own opinion there will not be any such increase."

STRONGLY SUPPORTED

The reeve was strongly supported by J. D. Helps, chairman of Saanich school board, who said bluntly: "Any information such as (the statements) is simply not based on fact. There is no way we can possibly forecast how much the increase (in school taxes) will be."

He said candidates who estimated teachers' salary increases would account for approximately five mills increase "must either have a better source of information than I have . . . or they are psychic."

STILL BEFORE BOARD

The school board chairman pointed out that the matter of teachers' salaries in School District 63 was still before an arbitration board.

"I deny that anybody can say we are going to be faced with a probable 7½-mill increase in taxes next year," said Reeve Chatterton.

In the first place, the reeve said, the $799,000 school bylaw if approved will mean an increase of 1 to 1½ mills based on this year's assessments.

HIGHLY UNLIKELY

"It is highly unlikely that this will be added to school taxes next year," said the reeve. "The chances are that there will be no increase next year beyond a ½-mill levy for interest if the bylaw is approved. There eventually will be a 1½-mill increase on the bylaw but this will be based on current assessments."

The reeve said he checked figures provided by the school board in connection with the money bylaw and concluded the 1½-mill increase was a "conservative estimate."

NO INDICATION

He said also there was "no indication" that teachers' salary increases amounting to 5 mills will be granted by the arbitration board.

The remaining ½-mill increase included in the forecast covered a park bylaw put up by the council, he said.

"If the voters approve this park bylaw," said Reeve Chatterton, "it doesn't mean to say that the council will decide to spend the amount of money authorized by the bylaw."

Checked In, Stole TV

City police are looking for a man who checked into the Cathay Apartment Hotel, 855 Douglas, Thursday night, rented a room and a portable TV-radio combination, then slipped out several hours later with the $200 set and without even paying any rent.

"This is the first time in quite a while that we've been victimized by anything like this," said hotel manager H. V. Gulston. "His bed wasn't slept in."

B.C. Ferry Terminal

Swartz Bay Or Sidney?

The provincial highways and toll bridge authority is taking a second look at the use of Swartz Bay, instead of Sidney, as Vancouver Island terminal for the new Island-Mainland government-operated ferry service.

The Daily Colonist learned last night that new studies are being made to determine the advantages of both locations.

BAY PREFERRED

Because the federal government was renovating the Sidney wharf for Washington State Ferries' use and had refused to alter Swartz Bay for the provincial government, it had been decided the government ferries would use the Sidney wharf, although Swartz Bay was preferred.

It is understood some loading difficulties have shown up in use of the Sidney wharf.

Mainland terminal is at Tsawwassen and the provincial government is building a new terminal and mile-long breakwater there.

The new service is scheduled to start in early spring.

Dr. C. H. Hemmings, chairman of the Sidney village commission, described the rumor as "annoying," and added that development plans for the area are at a standstill until the government makes its plans known.

SIDEWALKS PLANNED

"The commission had made plans with a view to the ferry using the new federal government wharf," he said. "We had planned to build sidewalks down Fourth Street to the wharf, but I stopped that when I heard the rumor.

"The expense of a couple of sidewalks might not represent much to the government, but it means a considerable amount to Sidney," he added.

"I can't understand why the government bought land from Sidney to be used as a ferry parking lot and developed the access road, Ocean Avenue . . . if they intend to change their plans," he said. "This has altered the development of the whole area."

"We only heard the rumor two or three days ago," said Gordon Hulme, president of the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce. "We are certainly anxious to know officially.

"But I know of no reason for the government to change its plans," he concluded.

Trapped in Traffic Jam

Patient Dead on Arrival As Ambulance Held Up

★ ★ ★

Heart Attack Fatal

By JACK FRY

Victoria's congested street problem at rush hours was pointed up yesterday by a police ambulance stuck in a line of traffic while making an emergency run to St. Joseph's Hospital with a heart attack patient.

The patient, Ernest William Rhodes, about 65, of 1243 Oak Mount Road, was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

DID NOT KNOW

Police who attended said they did not know whether the man was still alive when they picked him up in the entrance of the Bank of Montreal at Government and View.

But, before they could reach him, Const. Gordon Bennett had to jump out and direct 5 p.m. traffic to clear a path for the ambulance.

SIREN GOING

Racing south on Government with siren going full blast, the ambulance became snarled in two-way traffic waiting for a red light at Fort Street and had to stop until the light changed.

Traffic was so heavy that it was not possible for cars to pull over to the right and yield the right-of-way, said ambulance driver Const. Albert Wells.

FIVE MINUTES

Despite the two delays, the ambulance made its run from the police station on Fisgard to the bank, down Government and across Humboldt to St. Joseph's in only five minutes.

Everyone, Even the Navy Goes Western

Victoria went western yesterday when the Victoria Chamber of Commerce held its annual Christmas party at the Empress Hotel. Even the navy took part as Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner donned cowboy hat and took up toy pistol to joke with square-dance caller Dawn Draper and Mrs. P. B. Scurrah, wife of Victoria's newly-re-elected mayor. More than 425 guests joined in the fun-making and nearly everyone won prizes. —(William A. Boucher photo.)

Winter Jobs

$143,600 Work Plan Receives Approval

A proposed $143,600 city winter work program, awaiting consideration by city council, has meanwhile received approval from the senior governments, City Engineer James Garnett said yesterday.

Approval means that the federal government will be prepared to pay 50 per cent of the cost of hiring unemployed workmen for the program, and the provincial government 25 per cent.

(The province, at first understood to be willing to pay 50 per cent when the men hired had been on relief for three months, made clear recently that in this case they must have been on relief for three months before mid-September and continuously since then. But Mr. Garnett said that this new interpretation would not affect the city's program because most of the men to be hired would be rock-drillers and other workmen likely to be temporarily unemployed but not on relief.)

Almost all of the proposed city work is rock-blasting for road extensions and installation of services.

New Year's Day Levee Last for Governor

Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross will make his last New Year's Day levee next month, as his term of office expires in October.

And this year he will welcome guests in the new Government House on Rockland Avenue and the combination of Victorians wishing to bid farewell to the lieutenant-governor and seeking to visit the palatial new building is expected to create a record attendance.

BISHOP'S HOUSE

Most Rev. James M. Hill, Bishop of Victoria, who last year had to cancel his New Year's reception because of illness, will hold a reception, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Bishop's House, 740 View.

Some of the military receptions have changed timer because the lieutenant-governor will not be holding his levee in the Bay Street Armory, as he did last year.

RECEPTION LIST

Here is the list of official receptions:

From 9 to 10.30 a.m., at Work Point Barracks, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light infantry.

From 9.30 to 10.30, HMCS Malahat Wardroom and Chief and Petty Officers' Mess of Malahat, 1002 Wharf.

From 9.30 to 11, at city hall, the mayor and aldermen.

From 10 to 11.30, at the squadron headquarters on Yates, No. 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, RCAF.

From 10 to 11.30, at Naden Wardroom, the Flag Officer Pacific Coast and all ships and establishments.

From 10 to 11.30, at Bay Street Armory, Officers' and Sergeants' Messes of Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) and Sergeants' Composite Mess.

From 10 to 12, at Bay Street Armory, Officers' and Sergeants' Messes of RCA 5th Independent Medium Battery.

From 11 to 1 p.m., at Government House, Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross. (First half hour restricted to officials and members of armed forces.)

From 11 to 12 noon, Chief Petty Officers' Mess of HMCS Naden, Lockley Road.

From 11 to 12 noon, at Naden, Petty Officers' Mess.

From 2 to 4 p.m., Bishop's House, 740 View, Most Rev. James M. Hill, Bishop at Victoria.

From 2.30 to 4.30 p.m., at Esquimalt Municipal Hall, reeve and councillors of Esquimalt.

Air Charter Permit Given

Victoria Flying Services Ltd. has been granted a licence to run international non-schedule charter service from Victoria.

Confirmation of the licence came yesterday from the Air Transport Board, and officials of the Victoria firm say they will begin work at once on plans for flights to Bellingham, Seattle and Port Angeles.

Voters Lose Belongings

Candidates and bettors weren't the only losers in Thursday's civic elections.

Some of the voters lost too: a coat, a pair of white gloves, some costume jewelry, and a brief case.

Their belongings are waiting for them in the city clerk's office.

Defensively Important or Not

Mayor Doesn't Like Them

Keep Those Booms Away from Here

Mayor Percy Scurrah doesn't like sonic booms in Victoria whatever the reason.

He said as much yesterday after receiving a letter from Defence Minister Pearkes saying that he was extremely sorry that Victoria should have been disturbed by the recent "boom" that startled residents, but that it was "just as important that we test defences in the Vancouver Island area as those elsewhere in the country."

"We recognize that operational exercises are necessary," commented the mayor, "but the only request we have is that they stay away from the city. They can operate over Vancouver Island in lots of areas where there are few people and where it won't cause the distress it caused this time."

Mr. Pearkes said that air defence exercises "take place from Newfoundland to B.C." and that "it is difficult for a pilot, determined to succeed in his operational endeavor, to control closely the speed which causes such a boom."

However, he said, commanders were being asked to arrange exercises away from populated areas as far as possible. He also said the aircraft that caused the recent boom was flying at more than 32,000 feet, "and at that height there have been no known instances of physical damage."

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: What has happened to entertaining? I refer to people who invite you over for a social evening and then put you in the cellar—pardon me—the recreation room.

Why do people have a living room or a dining room if they don't want anyone to go near them? I think it's insulting the way a host or a hostess meets guests at the door and proceeds to hustle them right past the good furniture down to the coal hole.

You get to sit on the old makeshift couch or chair with the oil-burner and water-heater in full view. The floor usually has some discarded, ratty-looking rug or homemade linoleum.

Why do reasonably intelligent people do this, Ann? Don't they realize guests want to be entertained in homes not basements? — SEVEN LEAGUES UNDER.

★ ★ ★

Dear Seven: Congratulations for having the courage to say what many others have thought privately.

Now and then you'll find a recreation room which is as nice as the upstairs but chances are better than even that the good furniture is on the ground floor.

As to why people herd guests down to the cellar, I think it's more than an effort to save the rugs and upholstery. Usually the recreation room was fixed up by the guy who owns the house and he's so dingbusted proud that he put in a false pasteboard ceiling to cover the water pipes that he wants the whole world to know.

Not Chinese Checkers

Dear Ann: A neighbor just brought over your article about the behavior of single girls in apartments.

I managed an apartment house for 23 years. When I learned certain girls had late, late callers, I DID something about it. According to YOU, Ann Landers, you can't change a girl's morals. Well, maybe not, but I did change a few addresses.

When a young man stays in a girl's apartment past midnight I assure you they aren't playing Chinese checkers.

They called me an old biddy, and worse, but I didn't stand for any canoodlin' on my premises and everyone in Dubuque knew MY building was respectable.—O.R.

★ ★ ★

Dear O.R.: Did your friend bring you the entire article, or just part of it?

I made it plain in that column that the owner could ask a tenant to move if she didn't approve of her way of life, but she had no right to tell anyone how to live.

Mother-in-Law Again

Dear Ann: What do you think of a woman who lives within a block of the grocery store and calls her son up every night at dinner time to ask him to go pick up dog food or some other darned fool thing?

This has been going on for three years and I'm ready to blow my top. It seems just as we are ready to sit down to supper, the phone rings and it's my mother-in-law with a small request. My husband always goes at once. He says it's his duty.

When he gets home the supper is over-cooked, the kids are ornery from waiting, and I'm mad. What's the solution?—POOR SECOND.

Dear Second: Your husband owes his mother respect, but he also has a duty to you and to his children.

Tell him to offer to do all Mom's grocery shopping Saturdays because he cannot do it during the week.

★ ★ ★

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a large self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

What's Cooking!

Add Zip to Sauces With Sour Cream

By LOUISE MOORE

The weather being what it is, we're just going to skim the surface today and come up with—sour cream—and don't think for a moment that sour cream which you buy from the dairy is something that has just gone wrong—far from it.

Sour cream goes through a similar process to that which makes cottage cheese and yogurt from regular milk, and our new Canadians from the far eastern countries could give us many a lesson in its use.

COLE SLAW

Finely shred 1 medium cabbage, add 2 medium-sized apples diced, 1 grated fresh crisp carrot, 1 small onion thinly sliced. Combine with enough mayonnaise to moisten. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Chill, and just before serving, sprinkle with 1½ tsp. sugar and ½ cup sour cream. Mix and serve. Chopped chives may be added, too.

GRATED BEETS

Cook 6 beets until tender, slip off skins, cool and grate. Melt 1 tblsp. butter in saucepan and stir in 1 tblsp. flour, 1 tblsp. sugar, 1 tblsp. vinegar and ½ cup water in which beets were cooked. Cook, stirring until smooth and thickened. Season to taste and add ¼ cup sour cream. Heat and serve. Serves 6.

CUCUMBERS

Pare and cut into cubes 6 medium-size cucumbers. Slice 3 hard-cooked eggs lengthwise into 4 pieces, removing yolks. Place cubes, sliced egg whites and lettuce, broken in small chunks, in a salad bowl and pour over the following dressing: Rub the egg yolks through a sieve, add slowly 1 cup chilled sour cream, ½ tsp. vinegar, a dash mustard, salt and pepper and sugar to taste, and serve very cold. A little onion or chives may be added.

LIVER IN SOUR CREAM

Put 2 pounds sliced calves' liver in shallow pan and cover with 2 cups milk. Cover and chill for 12 hours. Remove liver and drain. Roll in seasoned flour. Brown 2 finely chopped, medium-sized onions in a little butter. Remove onion, add liver and fry on both sides quickly until nicely browned. Reduce heat, add onions and ½ cup thick, sour cream or enough to cover liver. Simmer ever so gently until hot. Serves 5-6.

HUNGARIAN STYLE

Cut up 2½ pound chickens and set aside. Clean, wash well and cook the giblets in 1 cup water in covered saucepan for 10 minutes. Strain and reserve stock. In a heavy skillet or Dutch oven put ¼ cup butter and, in it fry ¼ cup finely chopped onion until golden, stirring occasionally. Stir in 1½ tblsp. paprika. Add the chicken pieces and brown on all sides. Add 1 medium green pepper seeded and finely chopped. Cover with the chicken broth. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Cover skillet tightly and cook over low heat 45 minutes or until chicken is tender, adding more broth if necessary. When done, pour off broth, strain and skim off excess fat. Mix 2½ tblsp. flour and 1 cup sour cream until well blended. Heat over low heat, stirring constantly until bubbly. Add broth gradually, stirring vigorously until mixture is smooth. Pour sauce over chicken, heat thoroughly over low heat, stirring occasionally. Serve with hot biscuits, buttered rice and broccoli with a berry pie to top it off.

Wrapping, wrapping, wrapping 2,800 Christmas parcels for children of naval personnel in the area are members of the auxiliary: Mrs. C. Montgomery, Mrs. E. D. (Paula) Francis, Mrs. F. H. For 2,800 Children

Party Site HMCS Arena

The most colossal Christmas party of them all is going to be held in HMCS Memorial Arena, Monday, Dec. 21 from 2 p.m., it has been reliably reported by the Royal Canadian Navy.

The giant affair is for children of all naval personnel in the area under the age of 12.

When you add all these under 12s up, they come to a staggering 2,800 children and a staggering amount of preparation for Santa's right-hand man—Lieut. Harold Moist, coordinator of the party.

WEST'S BIGGEST

Let it never be said that Lieut. Moist is unprepared for possibly the biggest children's party in the Canadian West.

His preparations begin with the first blossoms of spring and just keep going until the day of the party.

Among his jobs he maintains a complete card-index system of the names of all children born to naval personnel in Pacific Command. The result of this is that each and every child from those of the newest naval entry to those of the admiral, receive a gift at the Arena spectacular.

Lieut. Moist and his staff point out, with pride, that the 2,800 presents will be given out in just under 15 minutes.

DESTROYER SPEED

Each child sits in a numbered space, and when the signal is given, volunteers in each section deliver the parcels at the rate of a destroyer making for home-port in a calm sea.

This is quite a feat when one realizes the child audience is considerably swelled by attendant mothers and fathers.

There is another feat that rivals the giving-out of the parcels—and that is wrapping the parcels.

It makes the average family wrapping party look like a snowflake in a blizzard.

In this case, into the breach step the wives of naval officers who belong to the Ladies' Auxiliary.

LADIES WRAP

Thursday morning this week, some 25 ladies of the auxiliary wrapped 2,800 parcels in just under three hours.

This amazing job was accomplished with the aid and pre-organization of the Navy. Lieut. Moist's "team" of men had cut piles of Christmas paper to size for each pile of gifts the previous day. Scotch tape was laid out at required lengths and as wrapped parcels were taken out, very able seamen brought fresh supplies in.

As well as the parcels, the ladies packaged nearly 900 pounds (and that's nearly half a ton) of candy, which will also be given out at the Arena.

SKATING SHOW

The ice-show at the Arena is of course the climax of the big party.

The program is never given away beforehand, but it is safe to say that HMCS Naden band will be costumed, that several hundred sailors (all of them good skaters from the Prairies) will put on a show full of fun and laughter, and that the clowns will work the children up to a state of feverish excitement for the arrival of Santa Claus.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, Dec. 10th — Oops! . . . Only 12 more shopping days 'til Christmas. But I'm not going to panic as I did last year . . . rushing around madly at the last minute because I'd waited too long to decide what to buy those difficult people on my gift-list. My nearby branch of the BANK OF MONTREAL supplies the perfect answer to this problem. You just can't beat those holly-decorated B of M Christmas Cheques and Money Orders in their brightly-coloured folders and envelopes for popularity. And youngsters just love to receive a special B of M savings passbook — with a nice balance inside — enclosed in a gay Christmassy cover. Do save yourself worry and trouble this year . . . by doing your "difficult" shopping right now . . . at your neighborhood branch of "My Bank"!

LUNCH BOX SUCCESS STORY . . . Come noontime in the school lunchroom, freckle-faced arithmeticians and pig-tailed spelling stars start rooting through their lunch boxes to see what special treat Mother may have included. Happy are the youngsters who find she has used AYLMER Sweet Wafer Pickles . . . for they have that sunshine-fresh Aylmer flavour. Nothing nicer, it seems to me, than these Aylmer Pickles—Sweet Mixed, Small Gherkin, Green Tomato, and Sweet Wafer. You'll find them on the shelves of the best and brightest hostesses in town. The family will be mad about them, too, I'm sure!

BE WISE, DEARS, and in this hectic Christmas rush—take time out, every day, for a hot cup of bouillon made with MAGGI Chicken Bouillon Cubes. Serve steaming hot Maggi Bouillon to the youngsters when they come in tired and cold. And, best of all, learn the Maggi-way to add subtle gourmet flavours—by using Maggi Chicken Bouillon Cubes in your casseroles; your soups, gravies and stews. Drop two or more Maggi Cubes in the boiling water before you add rice—or carrots—or cabbage—and see how extra delicious they become. Maggi Cubes add a rich, exciting new flavour to almost every food. (Only 4 calories per serving, too.) Look for the yellow and red package—do!

HUNGRY FAMILIES LOVE TO SEE a big bowl of steaming-hot green peas on the table. And if you would really pamper those hungry appetites, I'd suggest you always serve AYLMER FANCY PEAS—ASSORTED SIZES for that famous Aylmer sunshine-fresh flavour. Grown on specially selected farms, then harvested at flavour-peak, and rushed to near-by canneries, they were sealed and cooked, often within the hour. You'll agree that these are the most succulent, the sweetest, tenderest peas you ever tasted! Do look for the bright, white tins labelled Aylmer Fancy Peas—Assorted Sizes. And serve them often to your family's delight!

"WHENEVER MY FATHER suffered from rheumatic or arthritic pain, he always found quick relief by taking TEMPLETON'S TRC's," writes a Windsor lady, who then adds, "I, too, used to be in frequent rheumatic pain but am thankful to be able to say that I also found wonderful relief in TRC's. I assure you I would not be without them!" Everywhere across Canada, more and more men and women of every age are winning long-sought freedom from neuritic, arthritic and rheumatic pain through time-proven TRC's. Try them yourself if you suffer . . . and do tell your friends about pain-relieving TRC's.

Chinese Candles Too Nice to Burn

Exquisitely colored candles, shaped like figurines, have arrived in town from Hong Kong—just in time for Christmas gift buying.

Delicate looking, beautifully moulded and then finished by hand, they stand on handmade rosewood bases. They seem to be equally as lustrous as the jades and porcelains they were copied from.

The wax figures are copied, we are told, from those in the palace of Pekin and embody the folklore of China.

WHITE FACE

Priced from $3.95 to $6.25 and sized from 8 inches to 16 inches the figures come in jade green, coral pink, orange, ivory, amethyst, lime, tiel blue and peacock blue.

There is an "orange lady" (she carries oranges), a moon-goddess, an old man, a peacock, a phoenix-bird, Ming dog, lion, Fu-dog, the Lady of the Fan, and Tall Lady.

Possibly the most beautiful is the jade green Tall Lady and this exotic creature has a white face. In some wondrous way, the white face is not painted on, but is a "blend."

TOO LOVELY

Making the rare candles is a Hong Kong family, once destitute refugees from Communist China. No doubt they are flourishing now.

There is just one drawback concerning the figures in wax—they are too lovely to burn.

POINSETTIAS SOON

That glowing, scarlet flame of a flower, the Poinsetta will soon be appearing in local flower shops.

Sally was advised yesterday that they will sell from about $2.95 for locally greenhoused plants to about $7.50. It all depends on the size of the bloom. Local greenhouses are holding them back a few days so they will be at their most beautiful for Christmas.

The flower is originally native to Mexico and Central America.

Elizabethan Carol Tea

Traditional English decorations will be used at the Elizabethan Carol Tea to be held at Holyrood House, this afternoon, sponsored by the Victoria Musical Art Society.

A kissing ball, made of boughs of boxwood entwined around candles and red apples, which was used in baronial halls to hang mistletoe, has been copied by Mrs. Thelma Johns and will hang above the madrigal singers. Old coach lanterns will centre the back of the stage behind the singers who will be dressed in appropriate green. Mrs. van der Goes and her daughters playing recorders and Mr. Ray Bucket, on the virginals, will all be in Elizabethan dress.

Tall red candles and boughs of greenery will decorate the tea tables.

Tips for Parents

Slow Readers Need Help

By HELEN R. HEWSON

"It seems to me that our Danny is very slow learning to read. It must be these new-fangled methods they are using now. You know, teachers are always experimenting, no wonder the kids are confused."

Danny's mother settled back in her chair and sipped her coffee. "Well," remarked her neighbor, "our children have had no difficulty. In fact we're amazed at the progress they are making, they not only recognize quite difficult words but they understand them too. Do you read to him at home?"

NEVER READS

"Oh dear no. He's always been much too active a child to settle down with a book. I always said there was time enough for that when he had to sit in school all day."

Some time ago a reading specialist recorded a discussion with a group of children in grades 4 to 8 as they recalled how they had learned to read and told also of their recent reading experiences.

PROMPTED

Memory of course is not perfect and one child is prompted by what another remembers, "me too" was a frequent comment.

Nevertheless there were many points of interest to parents as well as those that had special significance for teachers.

Several of the children could not recall how they had learned to read, "I just learned" listening to stories read by their parents, watching pictures and print as the pages were turned.

ALPHABET SONG

One boy remembered learning from labels on soap and cereal boxes, others learned the alphabet song or learned from blocks and their picture books.

Most of the children had learned to read in first grade and remembered the draw-and-tell and see-and-tell sessions in preparation for reading.

Then they told how they were helped at home and at school. When they discussed the books they had read their enthusiasm mounted. These children enjoyed reading in spite of the difficulties.

They were grateful to patient and helpful teachers and they recognized the importance of home influence in forming good reading habits.

Parents who provide natural, unhurried opportunities for reading and who enjoy reading themselves, give their children the best "reading readiness" experiences.

Their youngsters enter school ready and keen to get on with the important business of the first of the three R's.

Music Pupils Played All Roles at Recital

Pupils of Mrs. Hilda King, ATCM, LRSM, were their own choristers, accompanists and "guest artists" as well as playing piano solos and duets in their recital recently at St. George's Hall, Cadboro Bay.

The choral numbers consisted of four carols in two and three-part harmony. Guest artist was Richard Flury with his trombone, his sister Barbara providing the accompaniment.

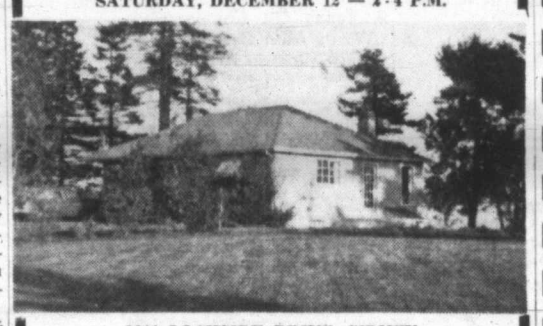

Recitalists include Cathy Brown, Kathy and Freddie Elliott, Glen and Judith Faryon, Ian Franklin, Bryony and Ricky Gonder, Paulette Howard, Malcolm and Sandy Hunter, Pam MacLean, Lois Pusey, Coleen and Robyn Ray, Tim Slaney, Pattie and Greg Stone, Anne and Philip Wintemute and Andrew Wolton.

Accompaning the recitalists were Carolyn Adrian, Gail Elworthy, Wendy McCague, Margaret MacCullum, Maryann MacLean, Patsy McLeman and Leslie Woodland.

Heading their classes were Paulette Howard, Greg Stone, Richard Flury, Ian Franklin, Margaret MacCullum, Barbara Flury, Andrew Wolton, Pam MacLean and Maryann MacLean.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from our many relatives, friends and neighbors in the loss of our dear husband and father, Mr. Chou Leong Wo. Special thanks to Dr. Bapty.—Mrs. Chou Leong Wo and family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

MAYNARD—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Ethel V. Maynard, who passed away Dec. 12, 1958.

We are sad within our memory,
Lonely are our hearts today;
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever been called away.
We think of her in silence,
No eye may see us weep;
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep.
—Ettie, Erna and Jean.

SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln dried siding is the finest available — a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

With its "grow-in" workability, weather resistance and lasting good looks, "Keystone" clear Western Red Cedar Siding has long been recognized as the standard of quality home construction.

It has a distinctive "shadow line" which enhances any architectural style in any setting, and is used to create a variety of interesting decorative effects on indoor surfaces, as well as exterior.

5
GRADES

"CLEAR"
Bevel
SIDING

Siding of this grade is designed for use where perfection is demanded. It is well milled on face and edges making a smooth surface usable full length without waste. 6" and wider siding is vertical grain (VG) for ¾ the width or more from thick edge.

"A"
Bevel
SIDING

Siding of this grade is selected for use where exceptionally fine appearance is desired. It is usable full length without waste and may be mixed grain (MG).

"B"
Bevel
SIDING

Appearance closely approaching that of the higher grades is often achieved with siding of this grade which contains slightly more characteristics and some cutouts in longer pieces. Craftsmen of even moderate skill find it easy to apply. It may be mixed grain (MG)

"RUSTIC"
Bevel
SIDING

Siding of this grade is recommended for use on sidewall covering where the distinctive charm of rustic appearance is desired. Pieces are graded from the resawn or rough side which is exposed. Thick edge may be rough or surfaced.

"C"
Bevel
SIDING

Pieces of this grade have one or more characteristics which are such size or number that the piece is not of a higher grade. Lengths are random with no specified percentages.

North's two diamond rebid was unnecessarily fancy. A simple rebid of two spades would be the normal course of action. However, the contract would probably be the same.

Dummy's nine was won by East's queen when declarer ducked the opening lead. East returned the heart deuce, South played the seven, and West took the jack. He shifted to the spade jack which was won by dummy's king, and East signalled enthusiastically with the eight-spot. The club nine was successfully finessed, and followed by a low club to the ten. Declarer now paused to consider. East was marked with the club ace-queen, and probably with three or more spades to the queen-ten. Declarer therefore ran off his four red suit tricks, and won on the last of these East had to make an impossible discard from his spade Q-10-7 and club A-Q. If East discards a spade, declarer plays ace and another spade, putting East into the lead and forcing a play from the club A-Q. If East throws a club queen, declarer plays a club to the blank ace, and East must lead spades into dummy's A-9-6. A simple duck of the queen insures South of the two tricks he needs.

East's mistake was his return of the heart deuce. (You should return the higher of two remaining cards at almost all times.) West could tell from his and dummy's holdings that East did not have four hearts, and he thus assumed that partner had begun with only two. Had West continued hearts, South would almost surely have been unable to guess the location of the missing cards, and would probably have gone down. And if East had won the second club lead with the ace, declarer would not have been so certain that the club queen would not drop, and he might easily have gone wrong.

With both vulnerable, partner passes, and next player bids 1 spade. You hold: S—Q 9 6 3; H—A Q 4; D—K J 4; C—K 6 4. What do you bid? Answer here Monday.

HIGH ON A HILL

MAKE THIS CHRISTMAS THE HAPPIEST EVER. Five minutes from downtown with all city conveniences, schools and shopping, this home of six rooms and through hall is located amid small oaks on a large lot, in a very fine residential area. The views of the western hills and the city lights below, from the large picture windows are out of this world, and holds one spellbound. The home consists of three bedrooms, living room, dining room, a real handy kitchen, through hall, four-piece bathroom, all on one floor. Floors are all hardwood. Basement has a large finished family room, electric domestic hot water, automatic oil heating. Built six years of good quality and the last word in being modern. Paved driveway to the large double carport under the main roof. This is an opportunity for you, as it must be sold and is priced for action. Included in the sale is the broadloom wall-to-wall in the hallway, living room drapes and all fixtures. A-1 condition. Price $18,000

OAK BAY

A SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY To purchase a UNIQUE DUPLEX. Built originally for an owner with a large family, the one side has FOUR BEDROOMS, bath, kitchen, utility room, large living and dining rooms and through hall. This owner required a separate suite for his mother so we find a most useful THREE-ROOM SUITE with separate entrance on the other side. There is an excellent basement and heating is by a hot air oil fired furnace. Freshly repainted inside and out we believe this duplex to be most suitable to a variety of people as a home and investment. It is located in a first class rental area a few blocks from hospital, church, bus, park, schools and shopping market. The rental potential is excellent. Available by Christmas! Priced under $15,000. Chan Victim, Not Villain—CCFer

Immigration Law Mockery Of Justice, Says Howard

OTTAWA (CP) — CCF MP Frank Howard said Friday that rather than Weldon Chan having made a mockery of Canadian laws, "our severely-discriminatory immigration laws . . . have made a mockery of social justice and brotherly love."

He said Mr. Chan was not dishonest, "he was merely desperate."

Mr. Howard, member for the British Columbia constituency of Skeena, commented in a statement on behalf of the CCF party on the case of Mr. Chan, who will be deported to Hong Kong, along with his wife and daughter, once he is located by police.

Immigration Minister Fairclough announced Thursday that all appeals from the family to stay in Canada have been rejected because "Weldon Chan has on successive occasions broken the law of this country; he has indeed attempted to make a mockery of the law that it is my duty to uphold."

She said they gained entry to Canada last year on a non-immigrant visa by using misrepresentation.

Mr. Howard said Friday that Chinese emigration to Canada has not been heavy by any standards.

He added:

"Anyone who would refuse permission to the Chans to stay in Canada should join the million refugees crowded into Hong Kong and then ask himself or herself if they would not make repeated requests for visas to come to Canada, changing his name each time if this was the only way to start a new and more hopeful life."

He said the CCF appeals to Mrs. Fairclough to give the Chans a chance to prove they can become good Canadian citizens because people aren't ciphers and each case should be decided on its merits.

Welfare Council Asks:

Probe Social Benefits

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian Welfare Council delegation Friday asked the federal government to appoint a royal commission to study social security.

This was the main request in a brief the delegates presented to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and members of his cabinet.

The brief said the study is needed because there are gaps in Canada's social security system which developed piecemeal at different times and under different jurisdictions.

Three elements getting "insufficient recognition" or being ignored entirely were:

1. A program of cash benefits for workers whose earnings are interrupted by illness.

2. A contributory or flat-rate benefit program for dependent survivors.

3. Universal financial assistance for all persons 65 and over who need to have their present old-age assistance and pension benefits supplemented.

Canadair May Build Jets for Germany

OTTAWA (CP)—There is a possibility that Canadair Ltd., Montreal, may build Lockheed Starfighter jets for West Germany, government and industry sources said Friday.

It was known that West Germany was having trouble assembling a fighter aircraft industry even before Thursday's announcement that it will buy 364 more on top of the 266 Starfighters already on order.

Canadair will build the airframes for 200 RCAF Starfighters which will go into service in the next four years with the RCAF air division in Europe.

Aircraft technical publications in the United States have also referred to the possibility of Canadair turning out some Starfighters for Belgium and The Netherlands if these two countries decide to order the plane.

Medieval Look

Jacques Griffe favors it for winter and it's worked out in nutria and brown tweed in this outfit in Paris. The sleeveless jerkin, buttoned at the top, is held by a brown suede belt. The dress has a simple bodice and full, flaring skirt.

Mayor Lauds Proudfoot

Mayor Percy Scurrah yesterday paid tribute to Ald. D. J. Proudfoot, who lost his city council seat to Very Rev. J. Lewis W. McLean in Thursday's elections.

"It was unfortunate that Capt. Proudfoot was defeated," the mayor said. "He has been a very sincere, hard-working member of council. At the same time I am sure the new incumbent will also be sincere and hard-working, and of course council may always welcome Capt. Proudfoot back at another election."

Just Give Santa Bicarbin Return

By TERRY HAMMOND

Santa's reindeer are going to need pep pills for their Victoria take-off this year if the jolly old gentleman at the helm downs all the treats which city youngsters have promised to leave for him.

A glance through the Christmas letters of some 200 Victoria youngsters yesterday brought a strong suggestion that Santa may never again be able to look squarely at a cookie or a glass of milk.

Apparently more than half the children in the city have been caught up in the spirit of giving as well as receiving this year and we can only hope that when Santa opens his own stocking he will find a large bottle of bicarbonate of soda on top—he's going to need it.

The No. 2 choice, soda pop and potato chips is hardly likely to soothe the Claus duodenal.

Demands on Santa's gift bags this year run from the very light, represented by a 3½-year-old girl who asked for "a lunch bucket please, and maybe some slippers," to the very heavy; a five-year-old boy who is prepared to be good next year so long as the basis for settlement includes a punching bag, pistol, rifle, drum, record player, cowboy suit, fire truck, boat, game, puzzles, ice skates, scooter, tricycle and moon rocket.

THREE-FEET HIGH

A little girl who told Santa in her letter that she is going to hospital on Dec. 13 asked for an ice cream machine "that is three feet tall."

And another toddler wrote, "I want a watch ($4.95). I don't want the racer bike—too little this Christmas.

"I want the racer next Christmas."

ANOTHER CHANCE

And another youngster, freshly repentant, asked for nothing in a letter which simply reads, "Please give me another chance. I'll promise you I'll get dressed every morning (the 'every' is underlined) and I'll be a good girl."

But top marks for an orderly approach go to a Saanich girl who listed three items, plus their code number, price and the number of the page they appear on in a mail order catalogue.

Stockings Filled for Orphanage

Liquor Chain Here

At least five Victoria residents, and possibly dozens, are profiting from a new-type chain letter craze with liquor as the prize.

It started Thursday. By last night one person had five bottles in hand, with another 18 promised. Another had eight in hand and 15 promised; another two and 17; another two and six; and another three and nine.

Potential gain from the letter system is 64 bottles of liquor for each person taking part.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday the Christmas cheer chain does not apparently violate the provisions of the B.C. Liquor Act.

'Two Hours of Pure Murder'

'Worst Ride I Ever Had' —Cuban Escape Described

By AUSTIN YOUNG
As Told to Jim Buchanan

The following account by Austin Young of his escape in Cuba as told to Miami Herald reporter James Buchanan was made available to The Associated Press by The Herald, to which Buchanan sent it before he and Young were arrested Thursday.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — When the time came to go, only Oriente, a Cuban, and I had the guts to squeeze through that hole. It was 12 by 18 inches and we had dug it with a stolen chisel and our bare hands.

The others crawled in their bunks and pretended they were asleep.

At 11.45 we went through the hole. In 10 minutes, we'd forced a storeroom window and dropped into the courtyard. We separated. I haven't seen Oriente since.

The next two hours were pure murder. It took me that long to slither across the prison yard on my belly, lying still as dead when searchlights swept over me. I had to pass 20 yards from one elevated guard post to get through the wire.

Once I was outside the sweep of the lights, I didn't know which was worse, the horrible crawl across the yard or the swamps, the muck and the rocks. Once I fell in a sinkhole and I thought: "I'm tired, but I've got this far and I'll get out of this . . ."

My arms, my chest, my legs are a mass of scratches. I hit my left ankle somewhere. Sprained . . . swollen the size of my knee.

On dry ground I circled four miles before I hit the highway from Pinar Del Rio to Havana. Then—well, I stood there on the pavement, waiting for a bus. Shoes full of mud and blisters. I had 11 or 12 pesos they'd let me keep ever since I was captured Sept. 23 or 24.

The bus was due to pass at 5.20, but a farmer offered me a ride to Havana. It was the worst three-hour ride I ever had. At one point, this farmer stopped to pick up a soldier from the very regiment that was guarding me. We dropped him at a small town and then stopped to look at a highway accident. As the police arrived, we left.

We must have stopped a dozen times for coffee. It was 8.30 a.m. when we hit Havana. I went to the home of a contact and got a shirt, pants, shoes, socks and a small suitcase. Then I went to the hotel hideout.

Newspaperman Accused Of Complicity

HAVANA (UPI) — Cuba yesterday accused an American newspaperman of "involvement" in the escape of a "war criminal" and threatened to file formal charges against him in what appeared to be the start of a government campaign to crack down on the foreign press.

The newsman, James C. Buchanan of the Miami (Fla.) Herald, promptly replied that he was in Miami at the time of the escape.

Grant Offer Exclusively For Quebec

Education Minister Peterson said yesterday Prime Minister Diefenbaker's alternative offer on university grants has no national significance and "really only concerns Quebec."

He added, however, if the B.C. government found the alternative, involving a transfer of some taxing power, "more convenient, we might switch."

"But there will be nothing either way to help the university meet the challenge of the future."

Mr. Peterson said the offer "permits Quebec to save face and accept the money in a deal between Quebec and Prime Minister Diefenbaker and it has no national significance."

STAFF OF LIFE

Breadmaking has always been a carefully protected symbol of civilization. The Greeks would let only priests make bread because they reasoned that dealing with the staff of life was the business of men trained in religious matters. The Romans, a practical-minded people, turned breadbaking over to the Civil Service and enforced rigid sanitary regulations.

Modern Santa Sooke-Bound By Helicopter

A modern-day Santa Claus will visit the children of Sooke today—by helicopter.

The old gentleman is expected to land on the roof of Gibson's Shopping Centre at 2 p.m., where children of all ages will be waiting for him. He will spend at least an hour in Sooke before returning to Patricia Bay airport.

Summer '61 New Target For Centre

A spokesman for the Hillside Plaza Shopping Centre in Victoria said yesterday that a start on the project might be made early in 1960.

Originally slated for completion next spring, the new target for the $4,000,000 project at Hillside near Shelbourne is mid-summer 1961.

Complications in lease arrangements, were stated by Maurice McGregor, managing director of the operation, to be responsible for the delay.

Mr. McGregor said the project was now wholly financed by Canadian capital and that about 70 per cent of the space available had been committed.

Gertrude Snider Collection

Mixed Success In Pilgrimages

By INA D. D. UHTHOFF

Gertrude Snider has made many pilgrimages, seeking the teachers best suited to her own attitutde toward painting.

She has travelled extensively in order to make a record of her wanderings, which have taken her to Europe, Africa, eastern Canada, the United States and the islands of the Caribbean, and it is the outcome of all this that forms the collection of her paintings now being shown at the Apollo Galleries on Broad Street.

Everything interests her, cities, mountains, boats and birds are painted with equal enthusiasm but with varying degrees of success. I would say that she is happiest out of doors with her water colors, and of all her teachers, Eliot O'Hara, the well-known American water color painter, has left the most lasting impression on her technique. "Lake MacArthur, Mt. Biddle" is painted with all his freshness and vigor. Color is good and the mountainss have weight and solidity.

But for straight, good handling of water color, I feel that "Trois Pistoles, Quebec" is by far her strongest work. It is a fine thing well worthy of a more impressive and more carefully-selected frame.

I also like "Indian Camp, Banff" for its fine, rich color and direct painting.

The courage shown in attempting anything is ambitious as "Musical Ride" impresses me. It is a subject from which the most intrepid painter might be forgiven for backing away, particularly as an essay in water color.

That she has not been entirely successful is apparent in the greens which are heavy and lacking in luminosity. Also, an attempt to produce a literal recording of this stirring pageant of horses and "Mounties" seems to me to be of less importance than to concentrate on the play of light on the red coats of the riders, the cool contrast of the background greens and the strong, dark shapes of the horses.

As a portrait or figure painter this artist does not show the freedom or enjoyment that is evident in her landscape, her structure is not sound enough and her color becomes dead. Of all her figure studies in water color I think I like "Tangerine Boy" best. This was painted while she was in Jamaica.

Give a Gift of Blood Red Cross Asks City

Victoria Red Cross officials are asking Victoria residents to "give a gift to humanity" and donate a pint of blood to the clinic to be held Tuesday and Wednesday in Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street.

The clinic will be open from 1.30 to 4.30 p.m. and from 7 to 9.30 p.m. on the two days. The Red Cross needs 900 pints of blood to make up the quota for the year.

Mayor Percy Scurrah of Victoria and Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt yesterday added their support to the clinic.

"What better gift could anyone give than a pint of blood which may save the life of someone," said the mayor. "I hope the clinic will receive the greatest support from the public."

Reeve Wurtele said: "One of the finest things we can do during this Christmas season is to actively support the Red Cross in their efforts.

"In doing so we will, at little cost to ourselves, be helping persons in need—a most useful Christmas gift."

Country's First Election

Results Monday or Tuesday

Copters, Camels Nigerian Campaign Weapons

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters) —Nigeria's first federal election campaign — fought with sky-writing planes, helicopters and camel-back orators—ended Friday night as this West African country prepared to elect a government today.

More than 9,000,000 voters—men only in the largely Moslem north—will elect 312 representatives to the new federal Parliament.

Thousands of special police were posted throughout the area to help regular police and troops maintain order during the voting. Four persons already have been reported killed and many injured in campaign violence that included shooting arrows at one political entourage.

Definite results are not expected before Monday or Tuesday.

The new government will guide Nigeria to independence within the Commonwealth in October, 1960.

The Action Group, leading party in the western region, gave the country its most spectacular election campaign.

Its leader, Chief Awolowo, premier of the western region, toured most parts of the rugged country in a helicopter—the first ever seen by the vast majority of his audiences.

The group also hired a sky-writing plane to implant its initials in the sky over Lagos.

Three men have fought to become the first prime minister of independent Nigeria.

Alhaji Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, present federal prime minister, is deputy leader of the Northern People's Congress, governing power in northern Nigeria.

The party advocates permanent alignment with the Western democracies and membership of the Commonwealth and opposes the emancipation of women.

Memory of Son Haunts Presentation Ceremony

It was a tearful ceremony at Thunderbird Park yesterday when Kwakiutl Chief Mungo Martin turned over his family masks and ceremonial equipment to the provincial museum. Collection was to have gone to his only son, David, drowned in a fishing accident in September. Mungo's grand-daughter, Helen Hunt, weeps as Chief Mungo told how with the collection around "we could not forget our son." Education Minister Leslie Petersen, right, receives the collection.—(Colonist photo.)

SHARP EARTHQUAKE ROCKS CITY HOMES

Tremor Centre In San Juan

All police stations in the Greater Victoria area were flooded with telephone calls when an earthquake centred in the San Juan Islands shook a wide section of lower British Columbia and Washington state last night.

It was not believed to have been heavy enough to cause much damage—but the jolt was impressive to thousands of Greater Victorians.

The shock was felt here about 10.25 p.m. and was accompanied by three minor tremors.

W. G. Milne, seismologist at Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, said the earthquake originated about 18 miles east of Victoria, about the same place where a series of minor earthquakes of about the same intensity were recorded in February, 1952.

Last night's quake, which was preceded by one tremor and followed by another and still another about 15 minutes later, registered a magnitude of between three and four on the Richter scale, which is calibrated to 8½ and at which point mountains begin toppling. Last summer's disastrous earthquake in Montana registered only seven on the same scale.

Most serious damage reported on lower Vancouver Island was near Cowichan Bay where a wall of mud shuddered loose from a hillside and slid across the Old Island Highway.

Old Highway Buried

RMCP called out a department of highways work crew from Duncan to clear the road which was buried for a short distance under several feet of mud, rocks and saplings.

The Daily Colonist was deluged with telephone calls from as far away as Duncan, Mill Bay, Sidney and Langford, as well as from local residents.

A woman on Heywood Avenue said she "thought it was a train or a blizzard" until she realized there was no railroad nearby and no storm outside.

Another woman, in the Gorge area, thought her furnace had blown up. Her husband reported that the "whole house shook."

A man on Howroyd, just off Shelbourne, said "there was a roar, then the house started to rock like it was on a cradle. Then, I saw a lot of other people looking out their windows and I thought it must have been a 'quake."

A Mill Bay resident said he felt several "sharp" shakes over a duration of about five seconds. The Cobble Hill telephone switchboard was "swamped with calls."

'Came Like Explosion'

Dishes rattled at a home in Langford, an ornament tottered on a coffee table at a home in the 1021 block McBriar Avenue, and it "came like an explosion" at Patricia Bay Airport.

A resident on Richardson Street said he felt two tremors spaced half a minute apart, while a man living on Atkins Road near Parson's Bridge reported three tremors "a few minutes apart" and with the "first one quite strong."

"It was like an explosion and then a long rumble," said Cmdr. E. A. Jamieson, of Telegraph Road. "There was a bang, just like a real explosion. It shook the house." He said his home is on top of a sedimentary ridge and that he couldn't understand why it was so sharp because the house was not built on solid rock.

"First there was a roar, and I wondered what on earth are those planes doing," said Mrs. Rita Cummings of 916 Grilse Lane in Brentwood. "Then the noise got louder, and the house began to shake."

A woman whose home is on top of a cliff opposite Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney was afraid the cliff was collapsing. She woke up and heard two loud noises, then reverberations from the water. She called the Colonist for reassurance and then went back to bed.

Issue Vital

Keep Space Free Canada Tells UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada called Friday night for universal acceptance of the principle that no country has jurisdiction over any part of space "or any celestial body."

Wallace B. Nesbitt, vice-chairman of the Canadian delegation, urged United Nations action in this matter when pledging that Canada will dedicate itself to the work of a new UN committee on outer space.

U.S. AND SOVIET

He was speaking in the assembly's political committee on a resolution, worked out by the United States and the Soviet Union, creating the committee, which has 24 members including Canada.

The issue has importance in view of U.S. and Russian rivalry in space, particularly as regards sending a manned rocket to the moon.

PASSAGE OF TIME

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said more than two years ago that the passage of time should not be allowed to bring to the problem of outer space the complications that failure to reach agreement on nuclear weapons has brought that problem.

Nesbitt reflected this view when he declared:

"We are convinced that every effort should be made to avoid, with respect to outer space, the difficulties which have arisen with respect to nuclear weapons through the failure to develop at an early enough stage international agreements for control and use."

Nesbitt noted that man has reached beyond the earth's atmosphere and gravitation and added:

"My delegation considers that one of the questions which the new committee should consider as a matter of priority is the formulation of a rule, and the means to gain universal acceptance of a rule, that no part of space or of any celestial body may be appropriated by or be subjected to the jurisdiction of any state."

Sputnik Data No Secret

MONTREAL (CP) — The United States had at its hands, without knowing it, information about Russia's Sputnik four months before it was fired into space.

Dr. Burton W. Adkinson said details of the Sputnik plan were published in Russian scientific journals but no one had bothered to translate them.

Cheques Mean Happiness

'Pay to the Order Of...'

The cheques read "Pay to the order of ------, $23.64," and suddenly it was a merry Christmas after all.

It was three days before Christmas, 1958, and cheques like this one arrived at the homes of 500 needy families in the Greater Victoria area, a present from The Daily Colonist 500 Fund.

What did they mean to those families? The money meant different things to different people, but above all it meant a chance to make Christmas something extra special as it is in luckier homes.

BETTER TIMES

The cheques were cashed, and people without money for Christmas could step out in the crowds of Christmas shoppers and do something besides window shop and daydream of better times.

For some, the money bought turkeys and the trimmings to make Christmas dinner their best meal in months.

For others, it meant a chance to buy gifts for children who might not get any otherwise. Still others bought badly-needed clothes for themselves or their children.

EXTRA CASH

That is the purpose of the 500 Fund—to give needy families a little extra money at Christmas, to be spent as they themselves please. The thank-you notes that have poured in after Christmas for the past three years are proof that the idea is a worthwhile and a workable one.

To date a total of $4,809 has been raised for this year's fund, which closes Dec. 19. Donations may be left at either Colonist office, 2631 Douglas Street or 1215 Broad Street, or sent to "The 500 Fund, 2631 Douglas Street, Victoria."

CHANCE TONIGHT

Hockey fans get their chance to donate tonight at Memorial Arena, when a collection will be taken by Colonist sub-managers during the Western Hockey League game between Seattle Totems and Victoria Cougars.

From Balloon

Chutist Dives 12 Miles Up

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — Capt. Joe Kittinger took another high dive from the edge of space Friday, jumping more than 12 miles from a balloon gondola to the desert floor.

Unlike his 14½-mile jump Nov. 16, a small parachute opened on schedule to prevent Kittinger from spinning around on his back—the way he made most of his first long parachute jump.

"It's a little more difficult when you're spinning on your back," the 31-year-old redhead said. "This jump was more enjoyable."

What did he think about during the approximately 10 miles of nearly free fall?

"Even though I was stabilized this time, I had quite a bit to do. I had a slight rotation to the left and had to keep working my feet to overcome it."

Washington Pass Opened

SEATTLE (AP) — The Snoqualmie Pass highway, Washington's main east-west route, was opened to through traffic Friday for the first time in 19 days.

Only Few Remember

Edward's Abdication

Ex-King Potters Around Store

LONDON (AP)—The grey-haired man who once was king of England pottered around a London store almost unnoticed Friday.

Only a few of the thousands of shoppers jostling through fashionable Harrod's store recognized the Duke of Windsor.

Fewer still remembered that it was just 23 years ago Friday night that he told the nation:

"I have found it impossible to carry the heavy burden of responsibility and discharge my duties as king as I would wish without the support and help of the woman I love."

These words sent King Edward VIII to exile from a country that refused to accept an American divorcee, Mrs. Wallis Simpson, as its queen.

Since then the Windsors have flitted back and forth amid the international high life of Paris, New York, Rome —almost anywhere but London.

Early Friday they arrived here unobtrusively aboard the Paris-to-London express on one of their infrequent visits to England.

DUKE OF WINDSOR

As soon as the stores opened the duchess headed for the fashion salons of Bond Street.

The duke spent an hour with the tailors he has patronized since 1923, taking some fittings for seven lounge suits and two tuxedos he ordered five months ago.

"The duke," said one member of the tailoring firm, "is very fond of quiet checks —nothing loud, of course."

Having satisfied himself on the quiet checks, the duke headed for Harrod's—a fashionable store where his niece, Queen Elizabeth, likes to go shopping.

"I have to get about 50 presents," the duke told a reporter, "for our friends and staff in Paris."

He tried on three ties from the $3 tray. He bought a yellow windbreaker and made a few buys in the food department.

"A very good shopping spree," he murmured on leaving.

40,000 Trees Cut For Christmas In Nanaimo Area

NANAIMO — Some 40,000 Christmas trees have been cut in the district within the past five weeks, B.C. Forest Service officials said yesterday.

Many of the trees are shipped to southern California and Texas, but others have been sent to lower Mainland markets.

The Christmas tree cutting season normally runs for six weeks—from Nov. 1 to Dec. 16—and cutters make about 40 cents for each tree.

Forest service officials warned yesterday that Island harvest seems close to the maximum possible.

★ ★ ★

NANAIMO — It was triplets for a cow owned by South Wellington dairy farmer George Walker yesterday.

Said the astounded Mr. Walker: "This is the first time this has happened in 40 years of dairy farming for me."

He said the mother, and her offspring, were all doing well. The mother cow gave birth to two bulls and a heifer.

$2,100 Mark Exceeded

QUALICUM BEACH—With subscriptions from two outlying districts and individual subscriptions still to come in, the Qualicum District Ambulance Society has already realized more than $2,100 in its first annual subscription campaign.

E. C. Hayman, acting president, reports that to date, no figures have been received from Bowser or Hilliers, but other districts have subscribed the following amounts:

Qualicum Beach, $605; Parksville, $941; Coombs, $234.50; Deep Bay, $17.50; Errington, $107.50; Horne Lake, $32, and Nanoose Bay, $152.50.

★ ★ ★

QUALICUM BEACH — Fire Chief Orville Sharman reports that 1959 has been the quietest year on record for the Qualicum Beach Volunteer Fire Department, with a total of only four fire calls answered in the municipality, three of which were chimney fires and one a grass fire with no damage resulting.

Three other calls outside the municipality were answered, said Mr. Sharman.

DUNCAN—Arbitration proceedings will start here Dec. 29 between teachers and the school board, to determine 1960 salaries.

The arbitration board has until the end of the month to come up with a decision.

Teachers are asking for an increase of about 12 per cent while the board of School District 65 (Cowichan) has offered to match the top 1959 salaries being paid in comparative school districts.

Salary Negotiations

QUALICUM BEACH — Pearley R. Brissenden, Q.C., of Vancouver, has been appointed arbitration board chairman in the current salary negotiations betwen the Qualicum board of school trustees and the Mount Arrowsmith Teachers' Association.

Hearings will begin Monday, Dec. 21, at 9 a.m. Some 45 teachers are involved in the wage dispute, and are seeking a 9½ per cent increase in 1960.

The school board will be represented by William R. McIntyre as arbitrator, and K. C. Murphy as advocate, and the teachers' association, by arbitrator D. A. Hobkirk, with Stanley Evans of Vancouver as advocate.

LADYSMITH — The village commission has approved a winter works program involving a total expenditure of $29,000.

The work includes reconstruction of storm sewers, reconstruction and improvement of streets and parks, work on the renovation of the water system and a general cleanup.

Plans call for the program to start about Jan. 10 next year and continue until April 30, providing 715 man-days of work.

PORT ALBERNI—A fine of $100 with $6.50 costs was imposed by Magistrate W. E. MacLeod when Roy Robert Carr pleaded guilty Friday morning to a charge of impaired driving.

Hours of Business

PARKSVILLE— Merchants have agreed on hours of business during the Christmas season.

Stores will be open Dec. 21 until 5.30 p.m., Dec. 22 and 23, until 8 p.m. and Dec. 24 until 5.30 p.m.

Stores will be closed Dec. 25 to Dec. 28 inclusive excepting food stores which will be open regular hours on Dec. 28. Regular hours will be in effect at all stores Jan. 2.

COBBLE HILL—Polling is expected to be moderate today in the election of two trustees to represent the unorganized part of School District 65 (Cowichan).

Running are Nancy Bailey, Andrew Bigg and incumbent James Fraser. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the following schools:

Bayview, Bench, Old Cobble Hill High, Cowichan Station, Glenora, Old Koksilah, Mill Bay, Sahtlam, Shawnigan elementary and at the board office at Duncan.

Koksilah Trustees Get Acclamation

COBBLE HILL — Two trustees of the Koksilah Valley Hospital District have been returned for three-year terms by acclamation. They are Sir Philip Livingston, for Cowichan Station, and A. R. Waters, for Glenora. Both were part of the original board formed a year ago.

Liquor Chain Hits Nanaimo

NANAIMO—The Christmas cheer chain letter craze hit Nanaimo yesterday and many city residents are dreaming of a wet, wet Christmas.

The plan started in Vancouver recently and people taking part can gain 64 26-ounce bottles of liquor if everyone keeps faith.

The only trouble is that in a small city like Nanaimo it isn't long before the chain runs out of people to take part.

And someone has to pay for those 64 bottles.

Thirty-Room Mansion to Be Dormitory

This 30-roomed mansion, standing in a $500,000, 71-acre estate near Duncan, has been bought for conversion to a private school. One of the owners, Kelly Williams, is shown checking the condition of a potted plant on a balustrade. The school will be the sixth private school in the district. —(Colonist photo by Charles Thompson.)

Public Auction

Railway Depot for Sale Near Koksilah Today

KOKSILAH — Psst! You wanna buy a second-hand railway station, buddy?

CNR's old Tyup Station, near here, will be sold at a public auction at 2.30 p.m. today on the site. The site is on the MacMillan and Bloedel road, near Koksilah.

The station is 38 feet long and contains three rooms, each about 11 feet wide and 12 feet high. It has been recently been used as a crew bunkhouse.

Duncan auctioneer Tommy Boyles is offering the station building without reserve. Louis Kellie, 1359 Rockland Avenue, Victoria, who owns the building, is retiring from CNR service.

Disposal of the station is part of a "clean-up, and streamline" move by the company on Vancouver Island. It was used as a railway station for more than 20 years.

Duncan Court

Fugitive Driver Jailed for Month

DUNCAN—An unemployed Yugoslav immigrant driver who was chased by police patrols from Nanaimo to Victoria, was sentenced to 30 days in jail yesterday for obstructing a Shawnigan Lake RCMP constable by not stopping at a road block.

Ivan Varkonja, 46) Simcoe, Victoria, was also found guilty of a second charge that took place at Chemainus, and was sentenced to 30 days that will be served concurrently.

Varkonja was found guilty by Magistrate A. C. Sutton after he pleaded not guilty to four charges that were laid against him after the incident Nov. 28.

Defence lawyer James Proudfoot tried to have the cases thrown out of court after he admitted the information in the charges was correct, but objected that the charges of failing to stop at road blocks were laid under the criminal code.

OVER-RULED

He claimed that they should have been under the Motor Vehicle Act but Magistrate Sutton said the code overruled the B.C. Act.

On a speeding charge Varkonja was fined $25 or 20 days in jail. The fourth charge, of careless driving, brought a $25 fine and the suspension of his driving licence for six months.

Varkonja is scheduled to appear in Colwood police court this morning on a charge of criminal negligence.

Heart Attack Fatal

CHEMAINUS — A pianist who was jokingly criticized by Harry Lauder for his flourishes while accompanying him, was buried in Victoria recently.

He was Alexander Austin Hassan, 84, who retired here seven years ago and died Sunday as the result of a heart attack. Services were held Tuesday.

NONE OF THAT

It was in the small mining town of Coatbridge in Scotland, before Lauder became famous, that the singer turned to him and said, "We'll have none of that when you're playing for me."

Mr. Hassan was born in Sunderland, England, and lived in New Zealand and Alberta before coming here.

Surviving are his widow, Caroline, at home; three daughters, Mrs. Alan Lester and Mrs. Archibald Scott of Pender Harbor, and Mrs. Walter Check of Chemainus; also three grandchildren, six brothers and three sisters.

MP to Speak

DUNCAN—Conservative MP W. F. Matthews will speak on the government's work at the local Conservative meeting to be held here Dec. 16 at the Tzouhalem Hotel, starting at 8 p.m.

Nanaimo's Warehouse Soon Open

NANAIMO—A bond warehouse, where goods will be stored before import duty is paid on them, will be opened in Nanaimo next week and is expected to make the city the Island's favored distribution point.

The warehouse is being built for West Coast Freight, after almost 12 months of negotiations between the company and the federal government.

Collector of Customs for Nanaimo, J. F. Chilton has hailed the warehouse as "a great forward step in the city's port facilities."

Ronald Warneboldt, a city customs broker, said the new warehouse will speed up the distribution of imported goods, attract new industry to the area, increase shipping and make an air freight service to Nanaimo a necessity.

RCMP Name Lost Crewman

Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Vancouver have identified the Lasqueti Island fisherman believed drowned late Wednesday when he fell overboard in Georgia Strait.

He was Robert Thomas Blackwood, age unavailable, who was lost from the Victoria-based seiner Patty-G about 10 miles west of Sechelt.

The vessel, with a crew of three, was bound for Lasqueti from Vancouver. An RCAF patrol bomber searched the area until dark for the man, who was not wearing a life jacket.

Cherry Point Estate Chosen As New School

DUNCAN—An English 71-acre estate that cost $500,000 to build during the 1920's is being converted into this district's sixth private school.

The 30-room mansion will be the dormitory, said owners Kelly Williams and Thomas Bannister, yesterday.

They bought the estate, on Cherry Point Road, 7½ miles southeast of here, earlier this year.

OPEN IN SEPTEMBER

It will be open next September with about 40 boarding students and that same number of day pupils who will live at home. As many as eight teachers may be needed.

During the first several years Grades 6 to 10 will be taught. Eventually the classes will be from Grade 7 to first year of university.

SIX-ROOM BLOCK

Work has been started to convert the coachhouse into a six-room block for teaching. The estate has seven other houses as well as a gymnasium.

Mr. Williams said the property is to be leased to two Victoria men who will become headmasters.

Glamis Castle in Scotland, paternal home of Queen Mother Elizabeth, is said the most-haunted in Britain.

Ladysmith Concert Appreciated

LADYSMITH—The concert, presented by the Ladysmith Choral Society and directed by Catherine Alexander in the Community Hall, was very well received. Phyllis Cloke was accompanist.

The society, through its president, Mrs. Murdo McLeod, presented to the community a piano which it had bought. The gift was received by Village Commissioner L. T. Ryan, who expressed appreciation of the group's community interest.

SOLD COFFEE

Proceeeds of the concert will assist the Retarded Children's group in their work. The members of this group sold coffee during intermission and the audience was shown through the retarded children's classroom in the same building.

The concert program included choral numbers, trios, and solos. Presented here for the first time, Elizabeth of England, by Haydn Wood, a song with a beautiful melody, popular in England, was well received.

TWO SOLOISTS

Two soloists who have sung in concert halls of their native land were Danish tenor Alfred Kristiansen and soprano Linda Howe from Germany. Mr. Kristiansen chose Serenade (from Once Upon a Time) by Lange Muller, and Where'er You Walk, by Handel. Mrs. Howe sang Wien, du Stadt Meinu Traume (Vienna, City of My Dreams) by Sieczynski, and Lullaby (Wiegenlied), Mozart.

A young soloist with a sweet voice was newcomer Suzanne Martin. Piano soloist was Lawrence Parkin. Balance of the program was a pleasing blend of Christmas carols, classical and popular numbers.

The very young pupils of Marjorie Walker presented a lovely miscellany of religious poems and pieces under the title of The Gift of Christmas.

Port Alberni Pensioners Have Fun

PORT ALBERNI — A hundred old age pensioners sang carols, exchanged gifts and feasted on traditional Christmas fare at the annual party held in Port Alberni Legion hall Thursday night.

The president, Mrs. P. E. Corbett, introduced special guests at the banquet where John Squire, MLA, acting mayor F. G. Weaver of Port Alberni and Mayor Jack Luckhurst of Alberni extended greetings of the season to the old timers. Guest speaker was Mrs. E. M. Buckley, provincial secretary of the Old Age Pensioners Organization.

PERSONAL BRUSHES

Mrs. Buckley outlined submissions made to the provincial government during the past year in an attempt to improve conditions for pensioners. She spoke of her personal brushes with the various levels of government as "not fighting, not politics, just fun."

Busy Man

Starting three new jobs in the New Year will be Colin Mouat, well-known Salt Spring Island businessman, who has accepted the presidency of one United States firm and the vice-presidencies of two others. Mrs. Mouat will remain in Ganges until June, when she will join her husband.

Nanaimo Legion Steward Dies

NANAIMO—William Henry Beck, 71, Canadian Legion steward here, died Thursday.

Sorrowful Chief Mungo Martin

Gives B.C. Valuable Collection

'When This Is Gone I Will Have a New Life'

By ALEC MERRIMAN

"When this is gone, I will have a new life."

Those were the emotional words of tear-stained Chief Mungo Martin yesterday when he turned over ownership of his entire family collection of masks and other ceremonial equipment to the provincial museum.

For the chief the occasion was a sad one, because over the years he had passed on the rights to the masks and dances to his only son, David Martin, who was drowned in a fishing accident last September. On David's death Chief Mungo lost not only his son, but the successor who was to have carried on the family tradition.

At yesterday's ceremony in Kwakiutl House in Thunderbird Park, which was built by Chief Mungo and his son, the chief told the small crowd "my wife and I thought night after night if it was right or wrong to give these away. With them we could not forget our son."

Tears welled in Chief Mungo's eyes as he said:

"Now he is gone. Now I am alone. I don't want to see these masks any more."

He spoke in his native Kwakiutl tongue which was translated by his granddaughter, Helen Hunt.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson, who received the masks for the provincial museum, said he did so with "mixed feelings . . . happy because Chief Mungo made them available . . . and sad because of the loss of his son."

The collection includes 14 masks, several rattles, whistles, drums, costumes and a painted cloth screen. Some of the masks are very old and were passed down to Chief Mungo by older members of his tribe. Some, however, are new, having been specially carved for dances celebrating the opening of the Kwakiutl House in 1953. Ten of the masks depict various animals such as the mouse, raccoon, deer, and kingfisher and were used in the family's hereditary Dance of the Animals. Two others represent the huge-bird-like Cannibal Spirit. The whistles blow with a variety of tones and are the "voices" of the masks.

By Indian custom the masks should not be used again. In earlier times they would have been burned to accompany the owner to the land of the dead. But Chief Mungo preferred that they should be preserved in the museum.

The government has provided for a special grant of $1,000 to purchase them.

The collection will go on show in the museum on Monday.

Chief Starts on Big Totem For Scout Headquarters

Chief Mungo Martin has started carving a 60-foot totem pole for the Provincial Council of Boy Scouts to give to the National Headquarters of the Boy Scouts Association, in Ottawa.

The totem pole is being carved to fit a definite architecture feature of the new Ottawa buildings. The 60-foot pole is designed to offset the strictly modern severity of the building.

Doubts 7½-Mill Boost

Tax Hike Remark Pure Guesswork Says Chatterton

Reeve George Chatterton last night took issue with statements made at an all-candidate election meeting Thursday concerning probability of a 7½-mill tax increase next year for Saanich.

He described the statements as "pure guesswork" and added "in my own opinion there will not be any such increase."

STRONGLY SUPPORTED

The reeve was strongly supported by J. D. Helps, chairman of Saanich school board, who said bluntly: "Any information such as (the statements) is simply not based on fact. There is no way we can possibly forecast how much the increase (in school taxes) will be."

He said candidates who estimated teachers' salary increases would account for approximately five mills increase "must either have a better source of information than I have . . . or they are psychic."

STILL BEFORE BOARD

The school board chairman pointed out that the matter of teachers' salaries in School District 63 was still before an arbitration board.

"I deny that anybody can say we are going to be faced with a probable 7½-mill increase in taxes next year," said Reeve Chatterton.

In the first place, the reeve said, the $799,000 school bylaw if approved will mean an increase of 1 to 1½ mills based on this year's assessments.

HIGHLY UNLIKELY

"It is highly unlikely that this will be added to school taxes next year," said the reeve. "The chances are that there will be no increase next year beyond a ½-mill levy for interest if the bylaw is approved. There eventually will be a 1½-mill increase on the bylaw but this will be based on current assessments."

The reeve said he checked figures provided by the school board in connection with the money bylaw and concluded the 1½-mill increase was a "conservative estimate."

NO INDICATION

He said also there was "no indication" that teachers' salary increases amounting to 5 mills will be granted by the arbitration board.

The remaining ½-mill increase included in the forecast covered a park bylaw put up by the council, he said.

"If the voters approve this park bylaw," said Reeve Chatterton, "it doesn't mean to say that the council will decide to spend the amount of money authorized by the bylaw."

Checked In, Stole TV

City police are looking for a man who checked into the Cathay Apartment Hotel, 855 Douglas, Thursday night, rented a room and a portable TV-radio combination, then slipped out several hours later with the $200 set and without even paying any rent.

"This is the first time in quite a while that we've been victimized by anything like this," said hotel manager H. V. Gulston. "His bed wasn't slept in."

Scurrah Swallows Chagrin

Statement of Deputy Transport Minister John Baldwin to the Colonist that runway extension at Patricia Bay airport is a long-term project is "disappointing, but if that's the situation, there's no object in complaining," Mayor Percy Scurrah said yesterday.

"Now the thing to do is to try in every way possible to speed up the development," he said.

LITTLE LIKELIHOOD

Mr. Baldwin said in a telephone conversation that there was little likelihood of runway extension soon, but that the department hoped a new administration building could be started next year within the amount of money budgeted for airport work.

A DeB. McPhillips, Victoria Conservative MP, said yesterday he was "quite satisfied" that a start on the new administration building will be made in 1960, although, he said, "it will take two years from start to finish." He also said it may not be in the same location as the present building.

PURE JET

As for the runways, he said that "they can take practically anything now — North Stars, Super Constellations, DC6Rs, the Comet, which is a pure jet."

Mr. McPhillips reiterated that Victoria should turn some of its attention to pressing for better aircraft on the Trans-Canada Air Lines service between Victoria and Vancouver.

He said a Vancouver report indicated that "we are going to have those wretched old flying birdcages until the end of 1961."

Engineers Elect Hall

William Hall of Victoria, chief of the air surveys division of the provincial department of lands and forests, was recently elected vice-president of the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C.

W. M. Bowman and A. B. Sanderson, also of Victoria, were elected to the association council.

B.C. Ferry Terminal

Swartz Bay Or Sidney?

The provincial highways and toll bridge authority is taking a second look at the use of Swartz Bay, instead of Sidney, as Vancouver Island terminal for the new Island-Mainland government-operated ferry service.

The Daily Colonist learned last night that new studies are being made to determine the advantages of both locations.

BAY PREFERRED

Because the federal government was renovating the Sidney wharf for Washington State Ferries' use and had refused to alter Swatz Bay for the provincial government, it had been decided the government ferries would use the Sidney wharf, although Swartz Bay was preferred.

It is understood some loading difficulties have shown up in use of the Sidney wharf.

Mainland terminal is at Tsawwassen and the provincial government is building a new terminal and mile-long breakwater there.

The new service is scheduled to start in early spring.

Dr. C. H. Hemmings, chairman of the Sidney village commission, described the rumor as "annoying," and added that development plans for the area are at a standstill until the government makes its plans known.

SIDEWALKS PLANNED

"The commission had made plans with a view to the ferry using the new federal government wharf," he said. "We had planned to build sidewalks down Fourth Street to the wharf, but I stopped that when I heard the rumor.

"The expense of a couple of sidewalks might not represent much to the government, but it means a considerable amount to Sidney," he added.

"I can't understand why the government bought land from Sidney to be used as a ferry parking lot and developed the access road, Ocean Avenue . . . if they intend to change their plans," he said. "This has altered the development of the whole area."

"We only heard the rumor two or three days ago," said Gordon Hulme, president of the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce. "We are certainly anxious to know officially.

"But I know of no reason for the government to change its plans," he concluded.

Trapped in Traffic Jam

Patient Dead on Arrival As Ambulance Held Up

★ ★ ★

Heart Attack Fatal

By JACK FRY

Victoria's congested street problem at rush hours was pointed up yesterday by a police ambulance stuck in a line of traffic while making an emergency run to St. Joseph's Hospital with a heart attack patient.

The patient, Ernest William Rhodes, about 65, of 1243 Oak Mount Road, was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

DID NOT KNOW

Police who attended said they did not know whether the man was still alive when they picked him up in the entrance of the Bank of Montreal at Government and View.

But, before they could reach him, Const. Gordon Bennett had to jump out and direct 5 p.m. traffic to clear a path for the ambulance.

SIREN GOING

Racing south on Government with siren going full blast, the ambulance became snarled in two-way traffic waiting for a red light at Fort Street and had to stop until the light changed.

Traffic was so heavy that it was not possible for cars to pull over to the right and yield the right-of-way, said ambulance driver Const. Albert Wells.

FIVE MINUTES

Despite the two delays, the ambulance made its run from the police station on Fisgard to the bank, down Government and across Humboldt to St. Joseph's in only five minutes.

Everyone, Even the Navy Goes Western

Victoria went western yesterday when the Victoria Chamber of Commerce held its annual Christmas party at the Empress Hotel. Even the navy took part as Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner donned cowboy hat and took up toy pistol to joke with square-dance caller Dawn Draper and Mrs. P. B. Scurrah, wife of Victoria's newly-re-elected mayor. More than 425 guests joined in the fun-making and nearly everyone won prizes. — (William A. Boucher photo.)

Winter Jobs

$143,600 Work Plan Receives Approval

A proposed $143,600 city winter work program, awaiting consideration by city council, has meanwhile received approval from the senior governments, City Engineer James Garnett said yesterday.

Approval means that the federal government will be prepared to pay 50 per cent of the cost of hiring unemployed workmen for the program, and the provincial government 25 per cent.

(The province, at first understood to be willing to pay 50 per cent when the men hired had been on relief for three months, made clear recently that in this case they must have been on relief for three months before mid-September and continuously since then. But Mr. Garnett said that this new interpretation would not affect the city's program because most of the men to be hired would be rock-drillers and other workmen likely to be temporarily unemployed but not on relief.)

Almost all of the proposed city work is rock-blasting for road extensions and installation of services.

New Year's Day Levee Last for Governor

Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross will make his last New Year's Day levee next month, as his term of office expires in October.

And this year he will welcome guests in the new Government House on Rockland Avenue and the combination of Victorian's wishing to bid farewell to the lieutenant-governor and seeking to visit the palatial new building is expected to create a record attendance.

BISHOP'S HOUSE

Most Rev. James M. Hill, Bishop of Victoria, who last year had to cancel his New Year's reception because of illness, will hold a reception, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Bishop's House, 740 View.

Some of the military receptions have changed times because the lieutenant-governor will not be holding his levee in the Bay Street Armory, as he did last year.

RECEPTION LIST

Here is the list of official receptions:

From 9 to 10.30 a.m., at Work Point Barracks, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light infantry.

From 9.30 to 10.30, HMCS Malahat Wardroom and Chief and Petty Officers' Mess of Malahat, 1002 Wharf.

From 9.30 to 11, at city hall, the mayor and aldermen.

From 10 to 11.30, at the squadron headquarters on Yates, No. 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, RCAF.

From 10 to 11.30, at Naden Wardroom, the Flag Officer Pacific Coast and all ships and establishments.

From 10 to 11.30, at Bay Street Armory, Officers' and Sergeants' Messes of Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) and Sergeants' Composite Mess.

From 10 to 12, at Bay Street Armory, Officers' and Sergeants' Messes of RCA 5th Independent Medium Battery.

From 11 to 1 p.m., at Government House, Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross. (First half hour restricted to officials and members of armed forces.)

From 11 to 12 noon, Chief Petty Officers' Mess of HMCS Naden, Lockley Road.

From 11 to 12 noon, at Naden, Petty Officers' Mess.

From 2 to 4 p.m., Bishop's House, 740 View, Most Rev. James M. Hill, Bishop at Victoria.

From 2.30 to 4.30 p.m., at Esquimalt Municipal Hall, reeve and councillors of Esquimalt.

Air Charter Permit Given

Victoria Flying Services Ltd. has been granted a licence to run international non-schedule charter service from Victoria.

Confirmation of the licence came yesterday from the Air Transport Board, and officials of the Victoria firm say they will begin work at once on plans for flights to Bellingham, Seattle and Port Angeles.

Voters Lose Belongings

Candidates and bettors weren't the only losers in Thursday's civic elections.

Some of the voters lost too: a coat, a pair of white gloves, some costume jewelry, and a brief case.

Their belongings are waiting for them in the city clerk's office.

Defensively Important or Not — Mayor Doesn't Like Them

Keep Those Booms Away from Here

Mayor Percy Scurrah doesn't like sonic booms in Victoria whatever the reason.

He said as much yesterday after receiving a letter from Defence Minister Pearkes saying that he was extremely sorry that Victoria should have been disturbed by the recent "boom" that startled residents, but that it was "just as important that we test defences in the Vancouver Island area as those elsewhere in the country."

"We recognize that operational exercises are necessary," commented the mayor, "but the only request we have is that they stay away from the city. They can operate over Vancouver Island in lots of areas where there are few people and where it won't cause the distress it caused this time."

Mr. Pearkes said that air defence exercises "take place from Newfoundland to B.C." and that "it is difficult for a pilot, determined to succeed in his operational endeavor, to control closely the speed which causes such a boom."

However, he said, commanders were being asked to arrange exercises away from populated areas as far as possible. He also said the aircraft that caused the recent boom was flying at more than 32,000 feet, "and at that height there have been no known instances of physical damage."

Country's First Election

Results Monday or Tuesday

Copters, Camels Nigerian Campaign Weapons

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters) —Nigeria's first federal election campaign — fought with sky-writing planes, helicopters and camel-back orators—ended Friday night as this West African country prepared to elect a government today.

More than 9,000,000 voters—men only in the largely Moslem north—will elect 312 representatives to the new federal Parliament.

Thousands of special police were posted throughout the area to help regular police and troops maintain order during the voting. Four persons already have been reported killed and many injured in campaign violence that included shooting arrows at one political entourage.

Definite results are not expected before Monday or Tuesday.

The new government will guide Nigeria to independence within the Commonwealth in October, 1960.

The Action Group, leading party in the western region, gave the country its most spectacular election campaign.

Its leader, Chief Awolowo, premier of the western region, toured most parts of the rugged country in a helicopter—the first ever seen by the vast majority of his audiences.

The group also hired a sky-writing plane to implant its initials in the sky over Lagos.

Three men have fought to become the first prime minister of independent Nigeria.

Alhaji Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, present federal prime minister, is deputy leader of the Northern People's Congress, governing power in northern Nigeria.

The party advocates permanent alignment with the Western democracies and membership of the Commonwealth and opposes the emancipation of women.

Shock Centre In San Juan

All police stations in the Greater Victoria area were flooded with telephone calls when an earthquake centred in the San Juan Islands shook a wide section of lower British Columbia and Washington state last night.

It was not believed to have been heavy enough to cause much damage—but the jolt was impressive to thousands of Greater Victorians.

The shock was felt here about 10.25 p.m. and was accompanied by three minor tremors.

W. G. Milne, seismologist at Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, said the earthquake originated about 18 miles east of Victoria, about the same place where a series of minor earthquakes of about the same intensity were recorded in February, 1952.

Last night's quake, which was preceded by one tremor and followed by another and still another about 15 minutes later, registered a magnitude of between three and four on the Richter scale, which is calibrated to 8½—point at which mountains begin toppling. Last summer's disastrous earthquake in Montana registered only seven on the same scale.

Most serious damage reported on lower Vancouver Island was near Cowichan Bay where a wall of mud shuddered loose from a hillside and slid across the Old Island Highway.

Old Highway Buried

RMCP called out a department of highways work crew from Duncan to clear the road which was buried for a short distance under several feet of mud, rocks and saplings.

The Daily Colonist was deluged with telephone calls from as far away as Duncan, Mill Bay, Sidney and Langford, as well as from local residents.

A woman on Heywood Avenue said she "thought it was a train or a blizzard" until she realized there was no railroad nearby and no storm outside.

Another woman, in the Gorge area, thought her furnace had blown up. Her husband reported that the "whole house shook."

A man on Howroyd, just off Shelbourne, said "there was a roar, then the house started to rock like it was on a cradle. Then, I saw a lot of other people looking out their windows and I thought it must have been a 'quake."

A Mill Bay resident said he felt several "sharp" shakes over a duration of about five seconds. The Cobble Hill telephone switchboard was "swamped with calls."

'Came Like Explosion'

Dishes rattled at a home in Langford, an ornament tottered on a coffee table at a home in the 1021 block McBriar Avenue, and it "came like an explosion" at Patricia Bay Airport.

A resident on Richardson Street said he felt two tremors spaced half a minute apart, while a man living on Atkins Road near Parson's Bridge reported three tremors "a few minutes apart" and with the "first one quite strong."

"It was like an explosion and then a long rumble," said Cmdr. E. A. Jamieson, of Telegraph Road. "There was a bang, just like a real explosion. It shook the house." He said his home is on top of a sedimentary ridge and that he couldn't understand why it was so sharp because the house was not built on solid rock.

"First there was a roar, and I wondered what on earth are those planes doing," said Mrs. Rita Cummings of 916 Grilse Lane in Brentwood. "Then the noise got louder, and the house began to shake."

A woman whose home is on top of a cliff opposite Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney was afraid the cliff was collapsing. She woke up and heard two loud noises, then reverberations from the water. She called the Colonist for reassurance and then went back to bed.

Issue Vital

Keep Space Free Canada Tells UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada called Friday night for universal acceptance of the principle that no country has jurisdiction over any part of space "or any celestial body."

Wallace B. Nesbitt, vice-chairman of the Canadian delegation, urged United Nations action in this matter when pledging that Canada will dedicate itself to the work of a new UN committee on outer space.

He was speaking in the assembly's political committee on a resolution, worked out by the United States and the Soviet Union, creating the committee, which has 24 members including Canada.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said more than two years ago that the passage of time should not be allowed to bring to the problem of outer space the complications that failure to reach agreement on nuclear weapons has brought that problem.

Nesbitt reflected this view when he declared:

"We are convinced that every effort should be made to avoid, with respect to outer space, the difficulties which have arisen with respect to nuclear weapons through the failure to develop at an early enough stage international agreements for control and use."

Sputnik Data No Secret

MONTREAL (CP) — The United States had at its hands, without knowing it, information about Russia's Sputnik four months before it was fired into space.

Dr. Burton W. Adkinson said details of the Sputnik plan were published in Russian scientific journals but no one had bothered to translate them.

'Pay to the Order Of...'

The cheques read "Pay to the order of ------, $23.64," and suddenly it was a merry Christmas after all.

It was three days before Christmas, 1958, and cheques like this one arrived at the homes of 500 needy families in the Greater Victoria area, a present from The Daily Colonist 500 Fund.

What did they mean to those families? The money meant different things to different people, but above all it meant a chance to make Christmas something extra special as it is in luckier homes.

BETTER TIMES

The cheques were cashed, and people without money for Christmas could step out in the crowds of Christmas shoppers and do something besides window shop and daydream of better times.

For some, the money bought turkeys and the trimmings to make Christmas dinner their best meal in months.

For others, it meant a chance to buy gifts for children who might not get any otherwise. Still others bought badly-needed clothes for themselves or their children.

EXTRA CASH

That is the purpose of the 500 Fund—to give needy families a little extra money at Christmas, to be spent as they themselves please. The thank-you notes that have poured in after Christmas for the past three years are proof that the idea is a worthwhile and a workable one.

To date a total of $4,809 has been raised for this year's fund, which closes Dec. 19. Donations may be left at either Colonist office, 2631 Douglas Street or 1215 Broad Street, or sent to "The 500 Fund, 2631 Douglas Street, Victoria."

CHANCE TONIGHT

Hockey fans get their chance to donate tonight at Memorial Arena, when a collection will be taken by Colonist sub-managers during the Western Hockey League game between Seattle Totems and Victoria Cougars.

From Balloon

Chutist Dives 12 Miles Up

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — Capt. Joe Kittinger took another high dive from the edge of space Friday, jumping more than 12 miles from a balloon gondola to the desert floor.

Unlike his 14½-mile jump Nov. 16, a small parachute opened on schedule to prevent Kittinger from spinning around on his back—the way he made most of his first long parachute jump.

"It's a little more difficult when you're spinning on your back," the 31-year-old redhead said. "This jump was more enjoyable."

What did he think about during the approximately 10 miles of nearly free fall?

"Even though I was stabilized this time, I had quite a bit to do. I had a slight rotation to the left and had to keep working my feet to overcome it."

Washington Pass Opened

SEATTLE (AP) — The Snoqualmie Pass highway, Washington's main east-west route, was opened to through traffic Friday for the first time in 19 days.

Only Few Remember

Abdication Anniversary

Ex-King Potters Around Store

LONDON (AP)—The grey-haired man who once was king of England pottered around a London store almost unnoticed Friday.

Only a few of the thousands of shoppers jostling through fashionable Harrod's store recognized the Duke of Windsor.

Fewer still remembered that it was just 23 years ago Friday night that he told the nation:

"I have found it impossible to carry the heavy burden of responsibility and discharge my duties as king as I would wish without the support and help of the woman I love."

These words sent King Edward VIII to exile from a country that refused to accept an American divorcee, Mrs. Wallis Simpsbn, as its queen.

Since then the Windsors have flitted back and forth amid the international high life of Paris, New York, Rome—almost anywhere but London.

Early Friday they arrived here unobtrusively aboard the Paris-to-London express on one of their infrequent visits to England.

DUKE OF WINDSOR

As soon as the stores opened the duchess headed for the fashion salons of Bond Street.

The duke spent an hour with the tailors he has patronized since 1923, taking some fittings for seven lounge suits and two tuxedos he ordered five months ago.

"The duke," said one member of the tailoring firm, "is very fond of quiet checks—nothing loud, of course."

Having satisfied himself on the quiet checks, the duke headed for Harrod's—a fashionable store where his niece, Queen Elizabeth, likes to go shopping.

"I have to get about 50 presents," the duke told a reporter, "for our friends and staff in Paris."

He tried on three ties from the $3 tray. He bought a yellow windbreaker and made a few buys in the food department.

"A very good shopping spree," he murmured on leaving.
